GEN. JOHNSON DEFINES LABOR CLAUSES IN NIRA

It Puzzles Worker and Employer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson tried to settle tonight the question of whether industry or organized labor shall have the upper hand over the workers in industry.

At the same time the recovery administrator announced that 1,500,000 employers had signed the President's reëmployment agreement and that new signatures are flooding in at the rate of 1,000,000 a month. The figures do not include employers who are banded under permanent codes, Gen. Johnson said.

Handing down a lengthy "interpretation" of the labor clauses in the national industrial recovery act, Gen. Johnson hoped that this would end the struggle being waged over the open shop issue.

The statement fell flat so far as its apparent effect on either camp is concerned and the prospects are that the war will go on unabated.

The industrialists, particularly the coal operators and the makers of automobiles, wanted a definite decision on whether they could continue their policy of dealing with their employés on a basis of merit and efficiency, and to fire and hire them on that basis, irrespective of whether they belong to company union, organized labor union, or no union at all.

Green's Promise to Workers.

Union leaders, especially William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, have been preaching to the workers that the NIRA gave a new birthright to organized labor and that henceforth all industrial workers, if not all workers under the American sun, were to belong to unions.

This was the issue put up to Gen. Johnson, but his attempt to decide it was held to do little more than say in additional words what was already written in statute. Mr. Green had been greatly exercised over the knowledge that Gen. Johnson was to issue an interpretation on the labor clause, but when it came out the labor leader said it took nothing away from the act.

"But I still don't know why the general should issue any interpretation at all," Mr. Green added, and several industrialists, reading the Johnson statement, agreed that they, too, were mystified as to what value the statement could have in the situation.

Fearful of Strikes.

As the battle is viewed on both sides tonight, labor will continue to insist that the NIRA and the codes give them the sanction of congress to unionize all of industry, and the employers will continue to insist that they operate on open shop policies. The struggle will be in the field and some leaders were fearful tonight that many strikes will be fought out before the issue is settled.

The status of the coal and automobile codes, which were held up while Gen. Johnson tried to make up his mind on the open shop issue, was unknown tonight. The automobile manufacturers' representatives, saying that Johnson had given his word that they could have a clause in their code qualifying the labor provisions, were dubious about an agreement.

The coal operators, who had counted on the interpretation to help solve their mess, were openly critical of Gen. Johnson, and many of them declared their intention of seeking some means of taking the whole matter out of the general's hands, on the ground that he had not shown an ability to comprehend the unsolved problems of the coal industry.

"One and Only Interpretation."

Gen. Johnson's statement, which was signed also by Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for the NRA, was submitted to President Green and to Prof. Leo Wolman, chairman of the NRA labor advisory board. Asserting that "the plain meaning" of the labor sections of the act "cannot be changed by any interpretation by any one," it continued:

"It is the function of the administrator and the courts to apply and to interpret the law in its administration, and no official interpretation can be circumscribed, affected, or foreclosed by any one writing his own interpretation into any code or agreement. Such an interpretation has no place there and cannot be permitted."

This last sentence, understood to have been insisted upon by Richberg and the labor forces, was regarded by the automobile makers as a repudia-

NURSE REFUSES TO PROSECUTE CECIL SMITH

Says She Wants to Stop Publicity.

Miss Eugenia Rose, the Evanston nurse who caused the arrest of Cecil Smith, Texas polo player, on a charge of raping her in a Hubbard Woods ravine last Friday night, decided yesterday not to prosecute the case. Her explanation was that she expects to marry and desires to avoid further publicity.

The polo player's lawyers, Silas H. Strawn and John D. Black, had completed the defense for presentation at a preliminary hearing scheduled for tomorrow before Police Magistrate Willis R. Brightmire in Evanston when the nurse's father, Dr. I. W. Rose, elderly dentist of Cooperstown, N. D., walked into the magistrate's office and put an end to the whole proceeding.

Asks Dismissal of Case.

"I am Miss Rose's father," he said, handing the magistrate an identification card. "My daughter is much distressed by this affair and the publicity. She wants to drop it. Here is her statement."

Dr. Rose then laid on the magistrate's desk a letter on plain stationery, bearing his daughter's signature. The text of the letter was as follows:

"Dear Judge Brightmire: I do not wish to prosecute Mr. Cecil Smith on the charge of rape. I expect to be married and do not want any more publicity. I will not appear against Mr. Smith and I wish you would therefore dismiss the case at once.

"Very truly yours,

"EUGENIA ROSE."

Having issued the warrant on which Smith was arrested last Saturday and having warned Miss Rose at the time that she might be cited for perjury if her charge were unsubstantiated, Magistrate Brightmire pondered a few moments after reading the letter.

Girl's Father Departs.

"Is this your daughter's final decision?" he finally inquired. The father nodded and, after further inconsequential colloquy, departed from the office.

There will be no prosecution of Miss Rose, either for perjury or false arrest, however, it was learned. Apprised of her decision a short time before delivery of the letter to the magistrate, Attorneys Strawn and Black obtained cancellation of the $5,000 bond they had posted for the polo player, secured a statement from him for publication, and saw him off to Long Island, N. Y., where he is overdue for training for the international polo tournament opening there next month.

Statement from Polo Player.

The text of Smith's statement is as follows:

"I am pleased to learn that Miss Rose has dismissed her case. As I said at the outset, the claim was preposterous and I was ready to meet it in court at any time. I am leaving to keep my engagements in the east. Hereafter I shall not be so generous in my offers to drive young ladies to their homes until I am confident that they will appreciate the courtesy and not try to destroy my reputation as a gentleman and sportsman."

Attorneys Strawn and Black further announced on their client's behalf that no money had been asked and none was paid for dismissal of the charges. Since her father's arrival, they said, Miss Rose had had the benefit of competent legal counsel. They added that her lawyers had requested that their names be suppressed.

Going beyond the polo player's statement to make his position even more explicit Attorneys Strawn and Black declared there was not only no assault but no incident susceptible to a claim of assault. Mr. Strawn is former president of the American Bar association and Mr. Black, his associate, is now president of the Chicago Bar association.

Explanation by Attorney.

"Smith offered to drive Miss Rose home to Evanston from the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest," said Mr. Black. "There was no stop made anywhere on the trip, so nothing could have happened on the way. He delivered her safely to her door at 2118 Central street, Evanston, bade her good night in the presence of one of her roommates, and departed. That's all that happened."

Neither lawyer would comment

GRACE GEORGE MAY BE VICTIM OF SLEEP ILLNESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Because physicians feared that Grace George, the actress wife of William A. Brady, theatrical producer, may have contracted the dread sleeping sickness which has swept St. Louis during the last two weeks, her removal to a sanitarium was ordered tonight.

Miss George, her husband stated, has been ill for the last ten days. Diagnosis of the illness until late today, when a consultation was held, indicated she had suffered what they described as a "mental nervous breakdown." But the consultation doctors detected symptoms not unlike the symptoms of encephalitis—sleeping sickness.

CHICAGO FREE OF MALADY.

The Chicago metropolitan area is free from sleeping sickness, a disease which is now epidemic in some Mississippi valley cities, authorities reported yesterday. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, said only one case had come to the attention of the health department in the city since Aug. 1. At the county hospital the contagious diseases ward has not a case of sleeping sickness, it was stated.

2 Weeks' Cash Pay Assured for Teachers

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

Definite assurance that a pay day for Chicago's 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés is on the way was given last night by members of the board of education. The school trustees declared the pay day will be the first tangible evidence that bankers and investors are coming to the belief that the board will carry out its economy program despite an organized opposition.

The plan is that the school employés will receive cash for their services for the first two weeks in January of this year and tax anticipation warrants for another month, or perhaps two months. The board owes its employés more than $26,000,000 in salaries for this year.

$1,300,000 Cash on Hand.

The board of education has $1,300,000 in cash on hand. Of this amount, it was pointed out, $580,000 was obtained through a sale of 1933 tax anticipation warrants to the Chicago surface lines. The sale was made after the board had put through its retrenchment plans.

For the two weeks' pay day in cash the board will need more than $1,800,000. Other negotiations for cash are pending, on which information was withheld. Action in regard to further warrant sales to bring the difference between the cash on hand and the amount needed for the pay roll will be taken at a recess meeting of the board next Wednesday.

Meanwhile negotiations are pending with authorities in Washington for the sale of 40 million dollars' worth of school bonds to the federal government. The general assembly in Springfield at the last session authorized the issuance of these bonds by the Chicago board of education without referendum. A sale of these bonds would finance the school system for the remainder of 1933.

Seek $10,000,000 U. S. Loan.

Plans for paying the teachers constituted the most important development in the school situation yesterday. Other major developments were as follows:

1. Supt. William J. Bogan at a meeting of the school board proposed that 14 new school buildings, some of them partly constructed, be completed by a federal loan of approximately 10 million dollars. The school trustees voted to follow the plan and start negotiations for the loan.

2. The board took action to bring about the examination of teachers

MR. SCHROEDER'S PIGS AGAIN IN THE SPOTLIGHT

For the time being, at least, Farmer William Schroeder's pigs are safe. Schroeder, who lives in Prairie View, Lake county, appeared to be in danger of losing the pigs because of a $395 judgment ordered against him by Circuit Judge Ralph Dady in Waukegan in favor of Joseph Stoll, Libertyville.

That danger disappeared yesterday when Schroeder's lawyers obtained an order from Federal Referee Edmund D. Adcock in Chicago restraining Lake county authorities from seizing the pigs to satisfy the judgment. This was done because Schroeder recently went into bankruptcy.

Schroeder has been in difficulties before on account of his pigs. Until recently he operated a farm near Wheeling and while there was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, who charged him with mistreating his pigs. He was acquitted of the charge. Later he sued Mrs. McLaughlin for malicious prosecution, but she, too, was acquitted. Then he moved into Lake county

BANK IS SAFE, BUT WHAT A CHANCE ROBBERS MISSED!

An excited citizen telephoned to the county highway police at Willow Springs last night and announced that burglars were looting the Argo State bank at 7500 Archer avenue.

"I just passed the bank," he said, "and I saw the front doors wide open. The robbers must be in there now."

Two squads carrying machine guns hurried to the bank. The front doors of the place were wide open as the citizen had said. The policemen surrounded the place, then burst inside with guns drawn and called upon the supposed burglars to surrender. The only answer to their demands was an echo. No burglars were inside. Nothing was disturbed.

Then it dawned upon the policemen what had happened and what an opportunity had been missed by any one of a mind to rob the bank. The last employé to leave the bank had forgotten to close the doors and they had remained open for three hours with the bank unguarded.

RAIN FLOATS ATLANTIC CITY STREET'S PAVING

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Baltic avenue is—or was—paved with wooden blocks. The storm brought an 8 inch rainfall which worked underneath the base of blocks and thousands of them floated away. Residents donned bathing suits and worked all night in the storm laying in next winter's fuel supply. It will cost $10,000 to repave the street.

Storm Lashes Eastern Coast; Ten Are Dead

BULLETIN.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24. (Thursday) —(AP)—The steamship Madison, which early yesterday had sent out S O S calls during the hurricane off Cape Charles, arrived in port here early this morning. It reported that Lycurgus Lawrence, the second mate, and Edward Corbett, the quartermaster, were swept overboard when the storm tore away the forward house.

BULLETIN.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24 (Thursday).—(AP)—The fate of the Chesapeake line bay boat City of Norfolk and her forty passengers, due here from Baltimore early yesterday, had not been reported at 2 a. m. today.

The vessel, bearing among others A. L. Stephens, president of the owning company, was known to have been caught in the terrific storm which lashed the bay. She has not been heard from since 10 p. m. Tuesday.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A terrific northeast storm, accompanied in some places by the tail end of a tropical hurricane, battered the seaboard states from Virginia northward today, menacing coastwise shipping and causing at least ten deaths and millions of dollars of property damage.

The storm was spread over a wide area, showing no abatement of its fury since it started last Sunday. Coastal and inland points in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey were hard hit. The storm is due on the New England coast and probably will be a gale tomorrow north of Boston, the weather bureau warned.

Six Die in Virginia.

Six of the ten deaths for which the storm was blamed occurred in Virginia. Three others were reported in Pennsylvania.

The high tide reached into Norfolk, flooding streets and cellars and disrupting traffic. Communication lines in various parts of the state were ripped away and cottagers were forced to flee from crumbling beach structures.

The Old Dominion liner Madison, with 37 passengers and a crew of 72, was caught in the vortex of the storm 25 miles from Norfolk. The ship's S O S was answered by coast guard cutters and other ships. Late tonight the Madison was proceeding to Norfolk under convoy of the coast guard cutter Carrahassett and the destroyer Upshur. They are due tomorrow.

Denver Judge Rescued.

The yacht Dolphin, owned by Stanley H. Johnson, Juvenile court judge of Denver, Colo., was washed ashore with the fishing boat Felice near Lewes, Del. The jurist and his wife and daughter, Phyllis, and two seamen were rescued by the coast guard as the waves were smashing the yacht. A. J. Prussian, captain of the Felice, and two men were rescued soon afterwards.

On the western shore of the Chesapeake bay Annapolis, the Maryland state capital, was isolated by the storm. All efforts to communicate with that city were unsuccessful. Reports reaching Baltimore were that the entire city was marooned and people were being taken from their homes near the water front in boats.

In New York City the wind increased and at 9:30 tonight the indicator on top of the Empire State building, tallest in the world, registered sixty miles an hour. One blast of the gale sent the recording needle to ninety miles an hour.

Pedestrians narrowly escaped death when a large section of stone cornice was blown from an eight story building in lower Broadway. Other sections in danger of falling were removed by police.

The coast guard here tonight re-

CONVICT POLICE KILLER 9 DAYS AFTER MURDER

Morris Cohen, 38 years old, slayer of Policeman Joseph Hastings, was found guilty of murder last evening by a jury in Judge Kickham Scanlan's Criminal court and his punishment was fixed at death in the electric chair. The trial of Cohen sets a record for speed in the disposition of murder cases in the Criminal court.

Policeman Hastings was slain nine days ago during a robbery of a street department office on the Navy pier. Not only do the indictment and arraignment of the slayer set a record, but the trial itself was unusual because the jury was selected and the entire case disposed of within one court day.

Policemen Attend Trial.

Cohen, who made no defense to the charge, seemed dazed by the death verdict. His face was white when the clerk read the sentence before a crowded courtroom containing policemen who had come to see if justice would be done to at least one of the quick triggered gunmen who since Jan. 1 have taken the lives of 11 policemen.

Judge Scanlan announced that he would not lose any time in ruling on the usual motion for a new trial. The judge ordered Public Defender Joseph Power to be ready to present any argument he may have this morning.

The jury acted with the same promptness in returning the verdict that the authorities did in bringing the case to trial so quickly. It took just fifty-five minutes for the jury to decide that Cohen was guilty and should be electrocuted.

Select Jury in Hour.

The trial of Cohen started shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Within an hour a jury pledged to inflict the death penalty if the case was a proper one was sworn in. Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert Crowley and Richard H. Devine started at once to introduce the evidence.

The prosecutors showed by a dozen witnesses that Cohen and Hyman Sinnenberg, who escaped, entered the street department office on the Navy pier on the afternoon of Aug. 14. Policeman Hastings, who was assigned as a guard, tried to prevent them from robbing Thomas B. Rawls, 6325 South Ashland avenue, manager of a currency exchange. Rawls was there with $1,000 to cash checks for emergency relief workers, who were being paid off.

Policeman Slain in Fight.

The robbers grappled with Policeman Hastings, and when the smoke of a dozen or more shots cleared away the policeman was on the floor of the office mortally wounded. The robbers had fled. Cohen, however, was traced to a garage at 1300 North Clark street, where he was cornered by police. He had commandeered an automobile after the escape from the pier.

Cohen later confessed that while working in a barber shop at 4207 Ogden avenue he heard some men talking about the system of paying the relief employés. The day before the robbery, he admitted, he went to look over the ground and make plans for the crime. He enlisted Sinnenberg as his aid and procured revolvers and fake license plates for his automobile. His only defense was that Sinnenberg had done the actual shooting.

Caught with Victim's Gun.

Prosecutor Crowley, however, pointed out to the jury in his closing argument that the physical facts showed that Cohen did the shooting. The witnesses said Sinnenberg was grappling with the policeman from the front. Hastings was shot from the rear. Cohen had the policeman's gun when he was arrested. His own revolver with three discharged shells in it was found by the police near the pier where he threw it away.

Cohen made no defense after the state closed its case shortly after 2 o'clock. Attorney Power in his closing statement tried to save his client from the electric chair by attempting to create a doubt in the jurors' minds about who fired the fatal shot. He repeated over and over again in his argument the phrases, "Let's not make a mistake," and "Better be safe than sorry."

"He is trying to scare you away from your duty," said Prosecutor Crowley in his argument. "I hope you men are jurors who cannot be scared from your plain duty. In this case a policeman was shot through the back. Shot down like a dog when he was doing his plain duty.

"Remember, gentlemen, a policeman was murdered in Chicago at high noon while in the performance of his duty. He had as much right to live as you and I. This crime was premeditated for days before it was actually committed. If this is not a case for the death penalty, then no case is one in which that penalty should be inflicted."

Mrs. Mary Hastings, 35 years old, widow of the slain policeman, was the first prosecution witness. She stayed until the verdict was read. She wept during most of the day.

The electric chair in the county jail has not been used since January of 1932. Cohen will be its first victim since that time.

First Death Verdict in Drive.

The death verdict was the first since the war on crime was started by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court three weeks ago, following the slaying of Policeman John Sevick in the courtroom of Judge Charles P Molthrop. John Scheck, slayer also of a bank cashier, is to be tried before Judge Harry Miller next Monday morning.

The volunteer judges yesterday added thirteen more penitentiary sentences to their credit. This brings the total of penitentiary sentences up to 188 since the campaign started.

The volunteer force of nine judges will be augmented next week by the services of Judge George Fred Rush, a veteran jurist, who volunteered yesterday. Several others are expected to report at the same time. Judge Philip Finnegan, who during his recent tenure in the Criminal court established an enviable record, is reported considering giving a few weeks of his vacation to the crime campaign.

Others Sentenced Yesterday.

Among the sentences yesterday are the following:

LEO FILIPIAK, 18, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Scanlan for burglary of a grocery store at 5700 South Throop street. He had a previous record.

JAMES SOWELL, 20, and JAMES THOMPSON, 25, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Scanlan on charges of robbery. On Aug. 6 they robbed Menoway Preston, 425 East 40th street.

EARL ROBERT TUCKER, 20, and GEORGE SMITH, both colored, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Prystalski. On July 9 they robbed John Donovan Jr., 1551 West 86th street.

OTTWAY SHARBES, 18, colored, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Prystalski. He raped a 15 year old colored girl.

JESUS MENDOZA, 23, and GABRIEL HILLEN, 25, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Harry B. Miller for the robbery of Joseph Radslewicz, 2951 Quinn street, on July 22.

JAMES DEMORE, 25, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Ross C. Hall for assault to rob Charles Davis, 816 Haines avenue, owner of a gasoline station. He shot at Davis when he resisted.

EDWARD BOBKO, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Hall on a charge of robbing Raymond Webster, a telephone company collector, of $145 on July 27.

Resent Denial of Delay.

James Hardy, George Tanner and Louis Jacobs, all 26 years old, became hostile when Judge Miller refused to allow them to have a series of robbery cases continued. They were indicted last fall and the judge insisted that they go to trial today although every artifice known to Criminal court lawyers was used in their behalf. They took a jury trial. During the luncheon intermission Jacobs, angered by his failure to escape trial any longer, made a remark to a companion, which was heard by a bailiff.

"When I get back in court I will throw a chair at the judge's head," he said. He had no chance to carry out his threat because he found himself handcuffed and doubly guarded.

They later pleaded guilty and were sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary. They had revolvers and shotguns when arrested.

James Ryan, alleged Touhy gangster, who is charged with slaying John Rinelli, a roadhouse keeper, may go to trial within the next few days. Prosecutor Charles Dougherty said that Wesley Maitland, a state witness, is dying and he wants the trial pushed ahead. Judge Benjamin P. Epstein said he would try the case at any time the prosecutor requests.

FIND 2D GRIP ABANDONED BY MOTOR SLAYER

A hand grip belonging to Joseph Swanda, 25 years old, itinerant harvest hand who is being sought as the slayer of Sidney Adelman, 28 years old, an automobile salesman, was found last night by Lawndale police in an empty freight car at 33d street and South Crawford avenue. Another suitcase was found after Swanda abandoned it on the night of the killing. Adelman was killed Tuesday afternoon in North Riverside.

On the outside of the case found last night, in gold letters, was the name Joseph Swanda, while inside were pictures of the man who was last seen with Adelman when they started for an automobile demonstration.

Berwyn police received a telegram from Sheriff T. J. Roberts of Ulysses, Neb., stating that Swanda left that city on Aug. 11 and that he had shipped two grips to Cicero, where he has a brother. Deputy Coroner John J. Butler postponed for two weeks an inquest into the murder with the recommendation that police continue their search for Swanda.

Gets Year for Stealing Three Hats from Auto

John Borociak, 13137 Baltimore avenue, was sentenced to serve one year in jail and fined $100 and costs when arraigned yesterday before Judge Harold J. O'Connell in Chicago avenue court on a charge of stealing three straw hats from an automobile parked in Chicago avenue. Borociak has a record as an automobile thief.

TWO PRISONERS INDICTED AS AIDS IN JAIL ESCAPE

Face Terms of Year to Life if Convicted.

True bills charging two prisoners now held in the county jail with participation in the plot which enabled Mike Rogulich, youthful hoodlum, to escape from there last Saturday, were reported voted late yesterday by the grand jury. An intensive search for the fugitive meanwhile was being continued by state's attorney's investigators.

The true bills were said to name Julius Olechny, 17 years old, the prisoner whose identity Rogulich assumed when he managed to gain his freedom, and Thomas Sokolawsky, 22 years old, who now is awaiting trial on a charge of larceny. Olechny on Saturday had completed a four months term for petit larceny. Both the men face a sentence of from one year to life as a result of the grand jury action.

Prosecutor Tells of Inquiry.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coughlin yesterday said that his investigation of the escape had convinced him that both Olechny and Sokolawsky had been parties to the deceit practiced on the jail guards. He said he learned that it was Sokolawsky who conceived the plan of having Rogulich take Olechny's place when the latter was called to the jail office to be given his freedom.

Sokolawsky, according to the prosecutor, suggested the plan to Rogulich, who immediately agreed, and then proposed it to Olechny. It was agreed, the prosecutor stated, that Olechny should allow Rogulich to take his place for a sum of money. The money was to be sent to Olechny by Rogulich if the escape was successful.

Asserts Rogulich Was Coached.

Sokolawsky and Olechny carefully coached Rogulich in the answers he was to make when he would be questioned by Jail Clerk James Maroney just before he was given Olechny's clothing, money and released, Coughlin said. Rogulich was able to answer all the questions put to him, and his absence from the jail was not discovered until several hours after he had departed.

Those who testified before the grand jury included Maroney, Warden David Moneypenny, and Patrick Murphy, 2236 North Keating avenue, jail guard, who conducted Rogulich to Maroney's office.

Sheriff Meyering yesterday said that he and Warden Moneypenny were perfecting a system of photographs to be included with the "history cards" and mittimi, the only records now kept of the prisoners in the jail. The sheriff said that his men expected to capture Rogulich soon and added that in addition to three charges of robbery and two of larceny the youth will now also face punishment for his escape.

AUTOS RACE OVER BARREN LAND TO STRICKEN TOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 23.—Fog today again prevented the two planes carrying physicians and serum to the isolated town of Santa Isabel to stop the spread of a diphtheria epidemic from reaching their destination. The planes were forced down en route to the town by fog yesterday.

Another rescue expedition has set out by automobile across the trackless pampas. It carries a number of homing pigeons which will be used to send news of the extent of the epidemic. The epidemic is reported to be aggravated by an outbreak of typhus.

A detachment of mounted police is reported to have arrived at Santa Isabel to begin inoculation. Santa Isabel is located in western Argentina. Land communications are hampered by floods.

"Kidnaper" Has His Troubles

Arthur J. Reese of Anoka, Minn., who was arrested at Ladd, Ill., as a suspected Touhy gangster, in his cell at the detective bureau yesterday. At the police showup Tuesday night he was confronted by his wife, who said he was an insurance salesman. Reese blamed his arrest on his boasting about a "hooey" gangster. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

further, but another party on Smith's side, who has been in his confidence since his arrest, gave a full explanation of the defense theory of how Miss Rose came to make the rape charge. That theory involves Gary T. Baker, Chicago optometrist, who has kept company with Miss Rose for four years and accompanied her to the magistrate's office when he procured the arrest warrant.

"We learned that Mr. Baker had a date with Miss Rose the night Smith drove her home," the informant said. "He was waiting for her at the Evanston apartment. She was two hours late. Presumably, he reproached her for her tardiness and demanded an explanation of whom she was out with. From there on, we could only surmise how she happened to make the rape charges. We have been informed, however, that she was a nervous girl, subject to spells of hysteria."

Denies He's Nurse's Fiancé.

Mr. Baker, who operates the Mart Optical company in the Merchandise mart, was asked about the story. He denied he had an engagement with her last Friday night and said he was not in the apartment when Smith brought her home. He also denied he was her fiancé or contemplated marriage.

"I have known Miss Rose for four years," said the optometrist. "She is a fine and truthful girl. I was not waiting for her in the apartment that night, believing she would be on twelve hour duty at the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest. When I learned of her experience next morning, I went with her to the magistrate, knowing her parents were far away in North Dakota.

"There have been all sorts of stories started since this case came up. One was that Miss Rose claimed to have struggled two hours before succumbing to the attack. She never made such a statement. Another was that, although I was her fiancé, I already had a wife and was involved in divorce proceedings. I am not her fiancé and I was divorced from my wife five years ago.

"Rape is sometimes difficult to prove," Baker concluded. "I have heard that Miss Rose was examined by Dr. William C. Danforth of the Evanston hospital following her experience, but do not know. If she had been attacked and could not prove it, what would be the use of subjecting herself to hurtful notoriety?"

It was reported in Evanston that Miss Rose would soon leave Evanston and return to live with her parents. Her father, a resident of Cooperstown, N. D., is described as one of the leading citizens there. He is past president of the North Dakota Dental association, a director of the First National bank of Cooperstown, and owner of a 600 acre ranch outside the town.

Expected to Be Freed

The United States division of investigation last night was still holding Arthur J. Reese, 43 years old, Anoka, Minn., salesman who gave on Wednesday a belated explanation of his statement that he was a gangster, which caused his arrest. Agents admitted they had not been able to link him with any kidnaping or other crime and said he would probably be released in a few days.

Reese was pointed out at the showup Wednesday night by his wife, who indignantly demanded to know of police just what he was doing there. Reese then admitted it was his fault that he had been arrested last Friday in Ladd, Ill.

"I told the constable that he ought to recognize me, that I was 'one of the hooey gangsters'," Reese told his wife. When he was arrested soon afterward agents found he had $1,080 and a score of rusty rifles, shotguns, and pistols.

GANDHI, FREED BY BRITAIN, CALLED OUT OF DANGER

Doctors Say He Can Begin Eating Again Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POONA, India, Aug. 23.—Mahatma Gandhi, who was unconditionally released from jail today by the British authorities, will be able to eat breakfast tomorrow morning without physical danger, physicians said tonight. The nationalist leader broke a week's fast this morning with a cup of orange juice following the decision of the British to free him. Tonight he is resting at the home of Lady Vitall das Tackersey at Parnakuti. He was taken there in an ambulance from the hospital where he was confined a week ago when he began his "fast unto death."

Again Twists Lion's Tail.

Thus India's holy man once more has successfully tweaked the British lion's tail. He was arrested at Sabarmati on Aug. 1 with his wife, his secretary, and 32 followers as the mahatma prepared to disband his Ashram seminary and renew his campaign of civil disobedience against British rule. Gandhi was sentenced to a year in Yeravda jail. The holy man demanded that the British permit him to conduct his campaign in behalf of the untouchables, India's lowest class, from within the prison walls. This the British refused. Gandhi thereupon began his fast on Aug. 16 with the announcement that he intended to starve himself to death.

Last Sunday Gandhi developed what was diagnosed as acute kidney trouble. He was removed from the jail to the civil hospital, still a prisoner. His wife was released from custody to be at his bedside.

Gandhi Loses Five Pounds.

The holy man grew weaker and weaker rapidly day by day and the authorities began to worry about his condition. The agreement to release him unconditionally was reached this morning. The mahatma at the time of his imprisonment weighed 95 pounds. Today he weighed 90 pounds.

The mahatma was weak from his fast, but two doctors who examined him said there was no cause for alarm over his condition. He will be kept under observance of a board of seven Bombay and Poona doctors.

This was the second time this year that a fast broke a jail sentence for Gandhi. The fast he began on May 8 and ended on May 29 brought his freedom after he had been in Yeravda jail since Jan. 4, 1932.

HEDBERG ARRESTED IN ST. PAUL; CHARGE KIDNAPING OF DOCTOR

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Warrants for his arrest on charges of kidnaping and assault were served on Dr. W. H. Hedberg, chiropractor, today by Chief of Police Thomas Dahill and James F. Lynch, assistant county attorney.

Earlier in the day Chief Dahill signed complaints charging kidnaping and assault on July 12, last, of Dr. E. J. Engberg, St. Paul physician and secretary of the Minnesota state board of medical examiners.

Hedberg, still in a hospital after being found early Sunday in a railroad yard suffering from minor injuries and under the influence of a drug, will be moved to the city jail when physicians deem his condition warrants, Chief Dahill said.

Both Chief Dahill and Prosecutor Lynch related a story of fancied wrongs and a hoax carried out with drugs, in explaining the happenings of July 12 and last Sunday in which Hedberg was a central figure.

Some time ago the state medical board through its attorney, Manley Brist, ordered the chiropractor to remove a sign "physician" from his office window. Hedberg became indignant, Brist said, and, although he did not comply, he had painted in small letters above it the word "chiropractor."

FAMILY RELIEF COSTS DROP 28% IN FIVE MONTHS

Monthly expenditures of state and federal funds for Cook county relief decreased by 28.3 per cent between the months of March and July. During this period the number of families on the relief rolls dropped 22.8 per cent. These ratios, prepared by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, were made public yesterday.

The following table shows the monthly percentage change in funds spent for relief work and in the number of families to whom relief is being supplied by the state commission for the five month period:

Month.	Percentage of decrease in expenditures.	Percentage of decrease in cases.
March-April	5	3
April-May	15.5	5.1
May-June	1.4	10.8
June-July	9.3	6
Total, March-July	28.3	22.8

The large drop in expenditures for May and the small drop for June are explained by the fact that Cook county made commitments to the extent of approximately $200,000 against motor fuel tax funds during May, and as a consequence the amount had to be replaced from the June commitments.

INDICT 14, DARE GANG FRIENDS TO ATTEMPT RESCUE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 23.—(AP)—As a federal grand jury indicted 14 persons in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case today, the government issued a challenge to underworld confederates to "meet us with your own weapons."

Federal prosecutors plan for a speedy trial of those held, including Harvey Bailey, in jail in Dallas, and Albert Bates, held at Denver. These two, with George [Machine Gun] Kelley, still at large, were named as the kidnaping principals in the blanket indictment. The names of seven of the 14 indicted persons were withheld. It was believed five are St. Paul or Minneapolis men accused of aiding in disposing of the ransom money, reputedly $200,000.

The other four indicted include Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. Armon Shannon.

The "challenge" to outlawry came after word that the lives of witnesses in the case had been threatened by letters and telephone calls. Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant United States attorney general assigned to stamp out racketeering, said in a statement:

"They [Bailey and Bates] will be transported here without any specific desire for secrecy, and if any of their confederates want to meet the cavalcade along the road the desire will not be denied them. This statement is made in dead earnest, without any desire to be overdramatic.

There have been reports that gangster friends of Bailey and Bates might make an effort to liberate them.

MDIVANIS LOSERS IN 1ST ROUND OF COURT FIGHT WITH WIVES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The two Georgian princes, David and Serge Mdivani, lost today the first round of a legal battle with their estranged wives, Mae Murray, actress, and Mary McCormic, opera singer, over control of their Venice oil wells.

Superior Judge E. M. Wilson denied the princes' motions to vacate the receivership of whatever interest the Mdivanis have in several oil companies. The motions were denied after Judge Wilson heard charges that a conspiracy existed between Miss Murray and the singer to "mislead the court."

Another motion seeking the discharge of D. A. Russell as receiver for the companies was taken under advisement.

Benjamin F. Bledsoe, attorney for the Mdivanis in a move to vacate the receivership, attacked an affidavit filed by Miss McCormic last June 13, which led to the appointment of D. A. Russell as receiver for the four oil companies in which Serge Mdivani is interested. Bledsoe asserted evidences of "bad faith" were shown throughout.

CUBA MAY PLACE MORATORIUM ON MACHADO DEBTS

Plans to Halt Payments Pending Recovery.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 23.—President de Cespedes was asked today to decree tomorrow an indefinite moratorium on the payment of interest and amortization on all foreign debts contracted by Cuba under the régime of the exiled President Machado.

The request was made by Secretary of the Treasury Martinez Saenz, who set forth that a moratorium would relieve Cuba of the strain of paying between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 a month while the island is getting back on its economic feet.

Debts Piled Up by New Deal.

The debts to which the moratorium is to apply are those piled up by Machado's "new deal" national public works program, which was started in 1925, and by governmental experiments in the stabilization of sugar prices in 1928, when, as was the case with wheat in the United States under the old federal farm board, prices went down instead of up.

Cuba's finances are in as bewildering a muddle as are those of Cook county, Illinois. Every financial expert seems to have his own adding machine and the estimates fluctuate widely. One authority sets the bonded indebtedness of Cuba at $157,000,000 and the internal debt for back salaries, supplies, and other costs for which the government is in arrears at $57,000,000, a total of $214,000,000.

Since the recent revolution the treasury department has not yet been able to compile official figures and reports of the United States consular service are regarded as the best guide. These place the debt somewhat lower.

Some Debts Exempted.

Under the proposed moratorium Cuba would continue to pay on a $35,000,000 loan made in 1902 to pay for services rendered by the army of Cuban liberation, and on the $50,000,000 loan contracted in 1921 upon the recommendation to Enoch Crowder, first United States ambassador to Cuba, to help island finances when raw sugar dropped from 23 cents to 2 cents.

The loans made by the Machado régime were with the Chase National bank of New York. Of these $100,000,000 went for the famous 700 mile central highway, for the building of a new $18,000,000 capitol, for aqueducts, and for city beautifications.

The loans under Machado were short term and to keep up payments various expedients were resorted to. Loans were made from banks to pay interest due them on former loans. Oil companies advanced money to be deducted from later taxes on crude oil importations, plus accrued interest.

Demand Strikes Be Ended.

A manifesto demanding that strikes and labor controversies must cease while Cuba is undergoing economic recovery was issued today by the revolutionary groups which overthrew the régime of former President Machado, Machado régime.

The manifesto was addressed to the proletariat and it was signed by leaders of the ABC, the Nationalist union, the Radical Revolutionista, and the Marianista party. The latter group is led by Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana and son of former President José Miguel Gomez, who is soon expected to return from exile.

The manifesto said that strikes at this time are "counter revolutionary." While saying that organized labor played an important part in the revolution which overthrew the Machado régime, it said that no group has the right at this time to endanger industrial and political recovery.

Several strikes are still on, such as those in the railroad and textile industries. Today, although the harbor strike is over and the longshoremen back at work, one group of harbor workers walked out demanding an increase of 140 per cent in pay.

Man Hunt Goes On.

Meanwhile, the man hunt against la porra, the strong arm gang of the Machado régime, and other leading adherents of the exiled president, is still proceeding.

Among the prisoners taken today was Gen. Faustino Guerra, former vice president of the Cuban senate.

At times the mob spirit is still breaking out here and there. Early today the residence of Col. Jose Manuel Gerrero, a friend of Machado, was looted. Furniture, pictures, and other valuables were destroyed. Efforts to set the stone house on fire failed. At Machado's farm families are still lugging off trees and shrubs to be transplanted in their home gardens.

Col. Erasmo Delgado, a leading spirit in the coup d'état which drove Machado into exile, was transferred today from his post as military commander of Havana province, a position he has held since the flight of Machado. Maj. Leopoldo Alfonso Gramatges took his place by orders of the army chief of staff.

Kill Two; Mutilate Bodies.

HAVANA, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A mob at Santiago today took two men from soldiers who were guarding them, shot them to death and dragged their bodies through the streets. The victims were Victor Vizcay, former mayor of the town of San Luis, who was arrested in Santiago yesterday, and Joaquin Ramos, former army sergeant and Vizcay's bodyguard.

Sues for $100,000 in Alienation Case

Wife of Musician

Mrs. Gertrude Reich Walker of Lawsonia, Wis., a niece by marriage of Arthur Meeker, the packer, was named defendant in a $100,000 suit for alienation of affections filed yesterday in the Superior court by Mrs. Olive Hankel, 2621 Blaine place.

The suit is for the alleged theft of the affections of Frederick Hankel, a musician living at 6130 North Campbell avenue. Mrs. Hankel's bill, filed by Attorney William H. Kailes, charges that since June 1, 1932, Mrs. Walker has been "coaxing away" Hankel's affections.

The bill charges that Mrs. Walker has showered Hankel with gifts, that she has promised him a trip to Europe, and that she has taken him for long automobile drives, and upon their return at 4 o'clock in the morning parked her car in front of Mrs. Hankel's home while she talked to him.

The Hankels separated several months ago, and Mrs. Hankel has a bill for separate maintenance pending in the Circuit court. She makes approximately the same charges in this suit, except that Mary Doe is given as the name of the woman accused in the separate maintenance suit.

Mrs. Walker is also separated from her husband, according to her attorney, Fred Rohde. He is Wirt D. Walker, a nephew of Meeker and an official of the Arcady Milling company, controlled by his uncle. The Walkers were married in 1920 and took an active part in Chicago social functions.

NASH ACCUSED; FRIENDS DEFEND TAX SETTLEMENT

Attack Laid to Foes of School Economy.

Patrick A. Nash, county Democratic chairman, was reported last night to be out of the city and hence there was no reply from him personally to allegations published in the afternoon that he had made a settlement with the government of about $100,000 in belated income tax payments. Nash is said to be at his summer home near Paw Paw, Mich.

The charges were considered by his political associates to be a continuation of the income tax attacks made against Mayor Edward J. Kelly by foes of the Kelly school board's huge economy program. Nash and Kelly are political and personal friends.

According to published reports, Chairman Nash made a settlement with the internal revenue department by paying $100,000 on an unreported income of approximately $400,000. The published report also states that Nash's contracting firm, Nash Brothers, over a period of years received contracts amounting to $9,076,880 from the sanitary district.

As a result of these contracts, it is alleged Nash Brothers billed the district for $5,052,385 for "extra work." Nash's friends said last night that the sanitary district records do not bear this figure out. The money allowed for extra work work was around $5,000, not $5,000,000, according to the records.

Big Sanitary Contracts.

In general yesterday's published reports indicate that Nash Brothers and the contracting company of Nash's nephews, Dowdle Brothers, obtained contracts for more than 18 million dollars from the drainage board. These included "extras," or work which had not been specified in original agreements. The contracts ranged over a period of ten years, during part of which time Mayor Kelly was chief engineer for the board. The records of the district indicating that the extras for Nash Brothers amounted to $5,000 instead of five million dollars, would tend to reduce the 18 million dollar figure to an amount around 13 million dollars.

According to associates of Nash, his contracting company had a huge volume of construction business during the boom years and the financial figures ran into many millions annually. Such a turnover, they point out, often leads to tax settlements in which there is no imputation of fraud. Often the government, finding itself in error, repays to the taxpayer large sums collected, it is pointed out, and often the taxpayer makes added payments to the government. Nash's business did not depend on the sanitary district, the friends said further. His company has been in business here for a generation and received many outside contracts.

Speak in Leader's Defense.

At Democratic headquarters yesterday many friends of Nash, among them Bailiff Al Horan of the Municipal court, spoke in defense of their leader and predicted that he would clear up all questions concerning his taxes. They said that the allegations against Nash reports were clearly a part of the coercive campaign to block the school economy program.

"Mr. Nash served with credit as a member of the board of assessors and the board of review years ago," said one supporter. "He served faithfully and we consider it significant, in view of the present situation, that among his strongest supporters were the Chicago school teachers' organizations."

THREE ROBBERS GET $45.

POLICE RECOVER CAR STOLEN FROM HONEYMOONERS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 70; recovered, 50; stripped, 6. [From police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday.]

Police yesterday recovered the automobile and wedding presents of Bjorar Bergethon of Mitchell, S. D., a few hours after they had been stolen from Bergethon, who drove to Chicago with his bride on their honeymoon.

They left the car, containing their presents and clothing, parked in front of 1618 North California avenue, where they attended a party. On leaving, Bergethon found the car had been stolen. An hour later Sergt. John Kratzmeyer and his detective squad found three men riding in an automobile with the side tire mounts from Bergethon's car in the rear seat.

The prisoners—George Ackerman, 29 years old, an ex-convict, who gave a fictitous address; Louis Carzoli, 22 years old, 2127 West Chicago avenue, and Joseph Mezzano, 23 years old, 1423 North Kildare avenue—later took police to a hallway at 808 North Sacramento avenue, where the Bergethons' luggage and presents were found. The car was found in the rear of 3402 Palmer street.

SEIZE EIGHT STUDENTS FOR PROTEST PARADE THROUGH CITY HALL

Eight high school students were arrested by Central police yesterday on charges of unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct as they and about fifty other student picketers paraded around and through the city hall, protesting against the board of education's economy program.

They were taken to the Central station and released in bonds of $50 each pending a hearing set for today in Boys' court.

Those arrested were Abe and Jack Teplitsky, 16 and 18 years old, 1612 South Millard avenue; David Bush, 21, of 4044 North Spaulding avenue; Morris Gosempud, 18, of 2621 East 92d street; Milton Skolnik, 19, of 1219 South Sawyer avenue; Martin Cohen, 18, of 3129 West 15th street; Joseph Arnstein, 21, of 2404 West Division street, and Morris Segal, 19, of 3210 Douglas boulevard.

A crowd gathered as the students paraded around the city hall and county building in two groups.

GASOLINE BLAST KILLS PARENTS AND INFANT SON

Three members of one family were fatally burned yesterday by the explosion of a gasoline stove in their home at 1840 South Kedzie avenue. The victims were Andrew J. Szczerba, 35 years old; his wife, Frances, 36, and their baby, Andrew J. Jr., 4 months old.

The tragedy, police learned, had an unusual background. For twenty-four hours the family had been without food and yesterday morning Szczerba, calling at the district relief station, received a box of food rations.

He hurried home. The family was joyous and the parents prepared immediately to provide a meal. Szczerba lighted the gasoline stove, which he had converted from an old gas range. There was a blast and blazing gasoline was scattered upon him, his wife, and their child, setting their clothing on fire. Friends and police took the parents to St. Anthony's hospital and Andrew Jr. to the Douglas Park hospital.

The parents died about 6 o'clock last evening and the child an hour later. The tragedy orphans three other children—Lillian, 2 years old; Henry, 6, and Lorraine, 9.

O. K. SPRINGFIELD REQUEST FOR U. S. LOAN OF MILLION

The federal advisory board on public works, through its chairman, Carter H. Harrison, yesterday announced that it had recommended to the secretary of the interior that $1,000,000 of Illinois' $100,000,000 allocation be loaned to Springfield.

This loan, the first to be recommended by the advisory board, will be used to extend the city's waterworks system.

The board yesterday heard a request from the Lincoln park board for $2,200,000 for its share in the completion of the outer drive link bridge project. The Lincoln park board has already expended $3,500,000 on the project. The south park board asked for $6,500,000 for its share of the work.

MOTHER KILLED AS AUTO UPSETS ON WAY TO FAIR

Wisconsin Woman's Mate Is Near Death.

The mother of a family of four, driving to the World's Fair, was killed and the other three members were injured late yesterday when their car ran into a ditch on U. S. Highway 41, ten miles west of Waukegan. Mrs. Eva May Howell, 53 years old, of Route 5, Waukesha, Wis., was the woman killed.

David Howell, 67 years old, a farmer, the father, suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries and may die, it was said at St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan, where all were taken. Grace, 17 years old, and Lillian, 15 years old, the daughters, were cut and bruised.

Severely Hurt as Train Hits Auto.

Clarence E. De Normandie, 60 years old, of Zion, was in critical condition in Victory Memorial hospital at Waukegan last night after his car was struck by a Chicago and North Western passenger train in Zion. De Normandie's car was struck at the rear by the cow-catcher of the train and the gasoline tank exploded. He was internally injured and burned.

While holding a puppy in his arms as he crossed a driveway, Walter Joyce Jr., 11 years old, 1726 North La Salle street, was probably fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by the car of a World's Fair motorist. The boy, who was still unconscious at the Columbus Memorial hospital last night, darted into the path of the automobile on Stockton drive, in Lincoln park, near the north end of La Salle street.

Otto Endres of Tulsa, Okla., driver of the car, was bringing five boys to visit the Fair. He was freed by Lincoln park police after the boy had been identified by his father.

Vincent McErlane Cleared.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Vincent McErlane, 33 years old, a younger brother of the late notorious Frank McErlane. Vincent's car collided with another at 69th street and Damen avenue, causing fatal injuries to the other driver, Paul Burden, 21 years old, of Lawrenceville, Ill. The jury returned its verdict of accidental death after witnesses testified that both drivers apparently saw each other too late to avoid the crash.

This fatality increased the 1933 motor toll in Cook county to 639 for the year.

STORM LASHES EASTERN COAST; TEN KNOWN DEAD

Property Loss Millions; Liner in Peril.

ceived a message from the cutter Dillgence in Long Island sound reporting it had picked up two small sailboats one with its mast washed away, and a rowboat. There were no persons aboard any of the boats.

Schooner Is Wrecked.

From Washington, D. C., came word the coast guard there received a message that the four masted schooner Kohler went ashore and was wrecked, but that the crew was rescued.

The Ward liner Oriente sailed from New York for Havana, but after rolling in the seas outside Ambrose lightship put about and dropped anchor in Gravesend bay to wait for calmer weather. Two or three smaller freighters followed the example of the passenger liner's skipper. Numerous vessels due in the next few days reported they would be late in making port.

At Salisbury, Md., the residents fought desperately against floods, and the forest army camp at Front Royal, Va., was in danger for hours. Fort Monroe, Va., was damaged.

Twenty-seven in Crew Rescued.

The Madison's plight was the most serious trouble at sea, but the storm harassed shipping from the Carolinas to the New England coast.

Twenty-seven men were rescued by the coast guard from a barge in Chesapeake bay. The dredge on which they were working had sunk and they had taken refuge on the barge. The Diamond shoals lightship, off the North Carolina coast, was torn from her moorings and carried six miles from her regular position.

The Winter Quarter shoals lightship off Virginia reported in a radio message intercepted here that a wave which had broken on her deck had carried away her steering compass wheel and three ventilators, smashing her port boat. The radio beacon had been put out of commission, the lightship reported, giving the wind's velocity in her locality as 75 miles an hour.

Damage to the fruit and vegetable crops in southern New Jersey was variously estimated at from $200,000 to $500,000.

Damage to crops and property was general in a zone that extended from the coast inland over southern New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland.

The storm played havo in scores of communities in southern New Jersey as well as surrounding states.

From Atlantic City to Cape May every seashore resort had flooded streets and homes. Beach front hotels were virtually marooned. Ocean City, N. J., was cut off from rail communication with the mainland, and for a time it was without telegraph and telephone communication.

Deep concern was felt for the varios communities on the Del-mar-va peninsula, embracing parts of Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. The entire southern part of the peninsula was cut off from communication with the outside world.

Washed Into Sea.

Rehoboth Beach, Del., a fishing center and summer resort, was reported as being literally washed into the sea. Fort Salisbury, near Milford, Del., was evacuated by its garrison. Cape Henlopen, betweeen Rehoboth and Lewes, Del., was reported to have been wiped out by the terrific storm from the sea.

The entire eastern shore of Maryland was cut off from telephone and telegraph communication. The Pennsylvania railroad line was reported to be washed out between Easton, Md., and Salisbury, Md., further marooning the territory. Communities between Salisbury and Cape Charles also were cut off from communications.

On the mainland hundreds of miles of paved roads, including up to date concrete highways, were under water, cracking up and otherwise being made dangerous for traffic. The famous Dupont highway in Delaware was closed from Dover, Del., to Salisbury, Md., when three bridges were swept like matchwood into destructive river currents. Everywhere telephone and telegraph lines snapped like so much knitting yarn.

Virginia Coast Hard Hit.

Coastal and inland points in Virginia probably suffered the most. Blowing a whole gale ashore and with hurricane force at sea, the storm drove a high tide with battering ram force against the Hampton Roads area.

Five of the known dead in Virginia were Negroes. At Portsmouth, Va., an 11 year old Negro girl and her father and mother were electrocuted by a falling high tension wire. At Suffolk, Va., a Negro boy was killed in a similar manner. A man was drowned in Norfolk. An unidentified Negro woman was drowned when the Bay Shore hotel, near Buckroe Beach, fell into the Chesapeake bay, after being undermined by the high seas.

By comparison with southern New Jersey and states to the south, the New York area escaped lightly, although the gale increased in force tonight. The storm blew down trees, toppled electric wire poles, loosened signs, and caused street floods in all parts of the city. It menaced small harbor craft plying the harbor or left tied up at their moorings. All day long the city's police emergency crews were kept on the jump, clearing roadways for traffic.

Boats Carried Out to Sea.

Small boats in waters around New York suffered considerable damage. A sailboat owned by William Iselin, the banker, was torn from its moorings at New Rochelle and hurled against the rocks. Seven small boats tied up off Emmons avenue, Sheepshead bay, were carried out to sea and salvaged, and narrow escapes and rescues of amateur sailors were numerous.

Robert Saxton of Cedar lane, Babylon, and Arnold Booth of Amityville were rescued from a crippled 18 foot launch in Bay channel off Babylon after an all night search by coast guard boats.

Washington Hit by Storm.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—During the storm today along the Atlantic coast the highest velocity here was 34 miles per hour, although gusts at times blew at a 51 mile rate.

Many trees in the city were blown over, including a great elm on Pennsylvania avenue across from the White House. Telephone and telegraph wires were blown down.

ACCUSED OF 1931 MURDER.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 23.—Special.]—Willis Laymon, 41, was arrested here this afternoon and held on a charge of murdering Jack Forclea in a cigar store two years ago.

Art on Stamps? Farley Might Select His Artists From Those the Public Favors

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The National Commission to Advance American Art seems to me to have shown a lot of crust in proposing that Mr. Farley issue several series of stamps to popularize American art without, itself, recognizing some of the greatest American artists. This commission, the snobs, would have Mr. Farley issue stamps bearing thumbnail reproductions of the works of Whistler, Stuart, Sargent, Eakin, and others, but ignores the works of Sidney Smith, George McManus, Frank Willard, Rube Goldberg, and others, and I know why.

The reason is that the artists never have been able to ring the bell with the American public and, realizing that they do not represent American art, want the government to adopt their kind as the official kind, which wouldn't do any good, because the citizens would still prefer the comic strips.

Win Hearts of People.

I don't suppose the comic artists need any such promotion themselves, for most of my acquaintances among them ride in chauffeur jobs as long as hook-and-ladder trucks and hire forgers to do their inking and lettering, but the principle of the thing is important on a day as dull as this and, anyway, these boys are all heavy taxpayers. If any one deserves plugging from the government there shouldn't be any question as between the strip-artist who lays it on the line in large, coarse sums every year to help pay off the postal deficit and the smock-and-beret types who spend most of their time in Rome and Paris and try to make a virtue of their inability to lay up anything. I have never heard of a Whistler estate, but have you ever seen Sidney Smith's?

Farley Might Need Memo.

I would be much surprised to hear that on being told about this idea Mr. Farley didn't have to buzz for one of his secretaries and hand him a note reading, "Find out who Whistler, Sargent, Stuart, Eakins and others were, or are, and quietly slip me a memorandum on it, and hurry up." If I were told such I wouldn't believe it, although I am sure Mr. Farley is personally acquainted with Mr. Willard, who draws Moon and Kayo, because I have seen the boys together.

It is not at all certain that he could get any of the more prosperous and therefore more representative comic artists to draw any pictures for his postage stamps, even if he wanted to, because most of these boys are tied up with syndicates and work on a royalty basis. On the other hand, he could get all the Whistlers, Stuarts, and so forth that he wanted just for the taking and he probably knows as well as anybody else that anything which is free is likely to be worth no more than it cost, if that.

Might Assure Profit.

I should think that if James could fix it up with their syndicate connections to buy some sequences from the comic artists for his postage stamps the result would be a great boon in window sales and, possibly, in the course of a few years the postoffice department would have a net profit to show in place of the traditional nut or deficit. The cost of printing and selling a postage stamp is negligible and a fifty-fifty split between the department and the artists should be very agreeable to all concerned.

Mr. Farley, having a couple of little girls in his family, needn't go to the expense of hiring a high priced comic strip editor, either, for the age of the American taste in art is extremely sub-deb.

Tragedy Strip Indicated.

There ought, of course, to be a tragedy strip involving some little girl or boy in an endless series of perils, sufferings and adventures. The story begins with a little girl, or boy, in the hands of a gang of kidnapers who are privately aware that she or he is not a foundling at all, but the personal favorite of an old uncle who owns a prosperous chain of emerald mines in China.

Assuming that it is a girl, the old uncle is searching the world for the little thing whose father and mother still are deep in the ink bottle and the hoodlums are trying to make her agree to marry Dopey Doodlespeck, a low character, with a sinister scar on his left check, when she grows up. To compel her to do this they threaten to throw her pet dog into a sausage grinder before her very eyes, but just at that moment she goes blind.

Meanwhile the uncle gets arrested for counterfeiting and loses his memory. So the scenario carries on in sequence of three cent stamps. There are six stamps to a sequence and naturally nobody is going to buy less than six at a time, a factor which runs up your sales just automatically.

There may be a descent to humor now and again, but experience has shown that the American taste in art is distinctly morbid, preferring sickness, frustration, anguish, cruelty and even, in discreet moderation, death itself.

Good Business Psychology.

In Mr. Farley's place, I would keep the sequences running instead of sticking to the glum faces of departed statesmen of the republic, and, through the resourceful propaganda department of the government, I would create a popular scorn for persons who use last week's chapter of the adventures of a postage stamp character on this week's mail. This would retire a great many stamps without their being used at all except for amusement purposes and any time the postoffice sells a stamp in return for which it doesn't have to deliver some mail, the purchase price of that stamp is so much gravy.

I am not excluding our commercial artists from my plan for the propagation of American art, for it is my idea that Mr. Farley could make quite a little money for his department by selling advertising space on his stamps.

For Postoffice Designs.

There is one other phase of postoffice art in which I would suggest that Mr. Farley patronize the artists who pay the income taxes and ignore the art artists. That is in the façades of the postoffice buildings which it is intended to build in many cities as part of the plan to spend the treasury out of the red during the next three years and a bit. I am very impatient of the conventional fat, bovine lady who sits upon plowshares on the façades of public buildings of all descriptions, holding a big funnel on the left hand which is exuding a mess of apples, squash, roasting ears and all such garden truck. I would substitute some true American art, preferably six panels of Moon and Kayo.

Coast Guard Rescues 8 Imperiled on Sloop

Three men and five women were imperiled last night when a squall snapped the mast of the Columbia, a 40 foot sloop, while the vessel was four miles out in the lake off Van Buren street. A coast guard lookout sighted the Columbia's distress flares and Capt. John O. Anderson and a crew towed the sloop to the Randolph street slip. Capt. Anderson said the seas were high and that the party had been in real peril. Albert Levy, an attorney, 33 North La Salle street, owns the boat.

LEARN KANSAS BONDS FORGER PAID OFFICIAL

Topeka, Kas., Au. 23.—[Special.]—Federal and state operatives delving into the tangled affairs of Ronald Finney, bond forger, now under arrest, today discovered numerous checks written in favor of Tom Boyd, state treasurer. One for $20,000 was made payable to the treasurer. Other such checks ranged from $500 to $11,000.

Investigators found that Finney had access to the vaults where school fund bonds were kept, and that duplicates were made of bonds, totaling approximately $2,000,000. Both Boyd and Finney have been arrested. Gov. Landon says several others will be involved.

Fred M. Harris, chief of Gov. Landon's investigators, said the Finney checks to Boyd were cashed at the state treasury, of which Boyd was in charge.

Finney drew several checks, mostly of $1,000 each, in favor of David Hinshaw, a brother-in-law, who has spent the last two years in Washington.

The checks to Boyd were drawn on the Fidelity State and Savings bank of Emporia. Warren W. Finney, Ronald's father, is president of that bank, which is now closed, along with two other Finney controled banks. Finney Sr. has not been officially connected with his son's activities. He will be questioned on those checks.

E. F. Allen, national bank examiner, criticised yesterday by Gov. Landon for not reporting the forged bonds he discovered in the National Bank of Topeka, retorted from Denver that it was not his duty. He did report, he said, to his superiors in the federal department.

11TH MILLION ADDED AT FAIR IN ONLY 4 DAYS

Indiana Restaurateur Is Greeted Grandly.

Attendance figures for A Century of Progress Exposition and for corresponding periods at the 1893 Columbian Exposition follow:

Tuesday, Aug. 22, 1933	220,953
Tuesday, Aug. 22, 1893	154,325
Total, including Aug. 22, 1933 [88 days]	10,839,933
Total, including Aug. 22, 1893 [114 days]	8,708,637

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Vincent C. Cerajewski, 60 years old, Polish-American restaurateur of Indiana Harbor, Ind., yesterday brought his wife and four grandchildren to Chicago to see the Fair. Thousands of other grandfathers have done the same during the last three months, but Mr. Cerajewski was given a vastly different reception.

He was a trifle bewildered at first with the reception, but his grandson, William Shebich, 16 years old, had been reading the papers and he caught on at once. He and the Fair officials explained to Mr. Cerajewski that he was the eleven millionth visitor, and that his entrance broke several records.

The latest million paid admissions have been registered in four days, the shortest period in which so many visitors have passed through the turnstiles.

With Texas day and Civil Service day as the special features, yesterday's attendance had attained a total of 224,066 at 11:30 o'clock last night.

Each Day Pays $40,000 in Bonds.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, again expressed his optimism over the recent increases in attendance and was equally sanguine over an auditors' report he had received during the day.

Up to the present the Fair has placed $1,857,432.40 in the trust fund for the retirement of the $10,000,000 bond issue, floated to finance the Fair at the beginning. Each day approximately $40,000 more is being added to the trust fund from the gate receipts alone. This represents 40 per cent of the gate revenue, as provided in the trust indenture. In addition to that, the trust will obtain a large amount of revenue from the Fair's percentage of concession money, plus money left from the 60 per cent of the gate receipts after expenses are paid out.

Only 69 more days left in which to see the Fair.

Now the Fair is averaging a daily revenue of from $25,000 to $30,000 a day from the concessions. This varies each day and will increase as the Fair gets older.

$3,849,000 for Tickets.

Last night the audit showed that the Fair had derived $3,849,000 from ticket sales since the Fair opened. Accurate figures as to the revenue derived from preopening sales were not available. Total money taken in by the concessions now stands at $12,440,000.

One of the highlights of yesterday at the Fair was Civil Service day, in which Mayor Edward J. Kelly told the two thousand employés of city and county assembled in the Court of States that they would be paid in cash by the end of the year. In addition to the mayor, an honor guest of the day was Mrs. Lucille Foster McMillan, representing President Roosevelt in her capacity of United States civil service commissioner.

Other speakers included Emory Lancaster, president of the Illinois Civil Service Employés, who represented Gov. Horner; Charles L. Bennett, president of the Municipal Employés' Society of Chicago, and Philip Steele, a civil service employé for 38 years.

Texas Programs Presented.

Texas day was also observed at the Fair yesterday, with the dedication of a stone from the Alamo in the Tribune Tower as one of the features of the program.

The Texas delegation was met in the Court of Honor by United States troops from Camp Whistler and escorted to the Court of States for a formal program. In the evening the presentation of the opera "Aida" in Soldiers' field climaxed the day.

Speakers included President Dawes of the Fair, Mayor Kelly, Joe Edd Winfree, representative of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson; Porter A. Whaley, secretary to the Texas fair commission; Chairman L. E. Snavely of the commission, and Claude Carter of the governor's staff.

HUGH S. JOHNSON DUE TO SPEAK AT FAIR LABOR DAY

The Labor day week-end, Sept. 2, 3 and 4, will see one of the most colorful series of programs yet presented at the Fair. Included in the three day celebration will be automobile parades, outboard motor boat racing, boxing contests, air races, a rodeo, national pageants and labor programs. The highlight of the series will be the program of the Chicago Federation of Labor on Monday when Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, is scheduled to speak. Local labor leaders will appear and President William Green and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor will speak by radio from the east.

BANS PICTURES OF DOROTHY POLLAK AT WORLD'S FAIR

Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday issued a permanent injunction against the "Crime House," a concession at the World's Fair, restraining it from displaying pictures of Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, who was acquitted a year ago of the murder of her husband, Joseph. The order also enjoins the "Crime House" from exhibiting photographs of Mrs. Pollak's trial. Mrs. Pollak was represented by Attorney William B. Henry, who argued that as she had not been convicted of a crime the concession should not be allowed to refer to the case.

GOV. LEHMAN TO VISIT FAIR ON NEW YORK DAY

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Announcing that he expected to attend "New York State day" at A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago on Sept. 8, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman issued a statement today urging attendance of as many New Yorkers as possible.

"The officials of A Century of Progress have designated Sept. 8 as New York State day, set apart in recognition and in honor of the achievements of the people of the state," he said.

"As governor of New York I intend to be present on the occasion with the members of the New York state commission, and I urge and invite the citizens of the state to attend and trust that a large representation of our people will do so.

"Let us by our attendance indicate our appreciation to our friends and neighbors of Illinois who have so cordially extended their hospitality and convey the friendly greetings and good wishes we entertain for them."

JEWELER IS HEART VICTIM.

The body of a man who died of a heart attack near Broadway and Lawrence avenue Saturday night was identified yesterday as that of Fred L. Bobzien, 40 years old, 6447 North Campbell avenue, a jeweler.

24 SUE TO SET ASIDE SALE OF ILLINOIS LIFE CO.

Want Insurance Commissioner to Take Charge.

Petitions asking that the decree of sale of the Illinois Life Insurance company be set aside and that Abel Davis, the receiver, be required to turn over the affairs of the company to Ernest Palmer, state insurance commissioner, were filed in the Federal District court yesterday.

The petitions were filed by Attorney Alfred Roy Hurlbert, representing G. M. Carson and 23 other policy holders of the Illinois company, which went into receivership Nov. 28, 1932, with $140,000,000 of insurance in force.

Taken Over by Central Life.

"The company was taken over recently by the Central Life Assurance society of Des Moines, under reinsurance contract approved by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. A special committee consisting of three of the country's leading insurance experts recommended the contract. These were Thomas L. Marshall of Chicago, Sam T. Swansen of Milwaukee, and William H. Thompson of Indianapolis.

Attorney Hurlbert's petition for the setting aside of this decree alleges that the combined assets of the companies are inadequate to protect the interests of the policy holders. The Iowa company, it is charged, owes the Reconstruction Finance corporation $650,000.

It is further charged that the reinsurance violates the laws of Iowa prohibiting a corporation from purchasing another dealing insurance.

Cites Cost of Receivership.

No fraud or mismanagement is charged in the petition asking the removal of Receiver Davis, but it is contended that the receivership has cost the company $70,000 a month during a period in which no claims have been paid. A receivership is not the proper method of disposing or reorganizing the insurance company, according to the bill, which would turn the concern over to Commissioner Palmer for liquidation or reorganization.

Under the reinsurance contract all valid death claims are to be paid in full in 30 monthly installments; the Illinois Life premium policies are to be reinsured, subject to liens of 70 per cent, but the principal on these liens is to be waived in case of death before Dec. 31, 1933; loans will not be made on premiums paid before the receivership, but on all subsequent premiums.

BOY, 11, CLIMBS POLE; KILLED.

Milton Rule, 11 years old, 1717 Warren avenue, died in the county hospital early yesterday of injuries incurred when he fell 20 feet from a light pole at the rear of 46 North Hermitage avenue.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The 24th regiment of the United States marine corps, commanded by Maj. Chester L. Fordney, will pass in review before Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius in the court of honor at 7:15 p. m. today. As a feature of the review, the decoration of the Purple Heart will be awarded to First Lieutenant Raymond Hanson, wounded in action in France, and Sergt. George J. Boyle, now a guide at A Century of Progress, will receive a decoration for meritorious service while a marine in Nicaragua.

Tea drinkers will be welcomed tomorrow and the drink will be free as long as it lasts at the Japanese pavilion when Nipponese International Hospitality day is observed. The visitors will have to take the tea home and brew it themselves, however, as the Japanese girls at the tea hall will be busy acting as hostesses to the national beauty queens, who will be guests at cha-no-yu, the ancient tea ceremony of hospitality.

Heavy attendance at the Fair over the week-end is indicated by advance reservations on railroads. Special trains on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and New York Central lines will bring 627 persons from Pittsburgh, arriving at 8:10 a. m. Sunday; a group of 80 representing the Equitable Life Insurance company arriving tomorrow and 1,500 farm members of the Elkhart Truth party arriving this morning. Another party includes 67 Germans who came to the United States over the Hamburg-American lines and 460 farmers, representing the St. Joseph county, Michigan, 4-H club.

The special Children's day swimming meets heretofore held each Friday at the World's Fair beach have been discontinued because of possible conflict with the Central A. A. U. swimming and diving championships which are being held at the pool each Saturday.

Boy Scouts will give a special program tomorrow at the Pantheon de la Guerre, war painting. The show will present a series of special programs during the day for the scouts, who will have come from all parts of the country to participate in Scout Day at the Fair.

The Fair police have handled 3,719 cases of lost children since the Fair opened, Chief Edward Redd reported to Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, yesterday. According to the report, three hours is the longest time any child has been kept at the station.

Four hundred members of the International Fire Chiefs' association, holding a convention in Cleveland, will arrive in Chicago this morning for a two day tour of the Fair. The chiefs will arrive by boat, docking at Navy pier at 8 o'clock. They will be greeted by Chief John C. McDonnell of the Fair fire department and will be taken to the Fair by special automobile for a tour as guests of the Fair.

Two months at the Fair is equal to thirty years in a physician's laboratory on the life of scientific equipment, if the experience of the x-ray machine in the Westinghouse Playground of Science is any indication. The quarter inch steel cable which raises and lowers the machine to permit visitors to look at the bones in their hands snapped yesterday and the apparatus was out of order for several hours. Later in the day it was repaired and visitors once again were able to use the equipment. According to the officials, the cable would last thirty years in ordinary laboratory use.

Finer Quality Shown in a New Flexibility

Price returns to former $5, Sept. 5th

Every woman realizes that the tremendous increase in the price of leather and other materials plus NRA shortened hours and still higher costs of labor would surely lead to higher price for footwear. Especially should this be true of Nisley, whose high standards of quality have been maintained over a period of many years. Particularly should a return to our original $5 price be necessary when our product has again been improved as it has for Autumn. This advance notice is made in a spirit of cooperation with our hundreds of thousands of customers from coast to coast and offers substantial saving before Labor Day, after which the new price becomes effective. You will undoubtedly take advantage of this unusual opportunity to save $1 on the new Autumn styles.

MARSHALL FIELD ADDS 1,507 NEW JOBS UNDER NRA

Rate of Pay Roll Increase Over Million a Year.

As evidence of the manner in which his store has lived up to the spirit of the national reëmployment program, John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co. yesterday made a public accounting of pay roll increases in the period from July 15 to Aug. 15, 1933.

Sponsors of the NRA campaign suggested that such a report might be made an essential part of the reëmployment drive. Companies which display the Blue Eagle should be required to state definitely how many extra employés they have hired and reveal increases in the pay roll, it was pointed out. Such a suggestion has already been presented at Washington and is being considered, it was learned.

1,507 Employés Added.

"The number of people added to the employment rolls of Marshall Field & Co. and operating subsidiaries during the period from July 15 to Aug. 15 totals 1,507," Mr. McKinlay's statement read. "The pay roll during this period was increased at the rate of $1,054,208 per year.

"Normally we would show a substantial seasonal decrease in July and August. We now have 22,556 employés. This is 5,385 more than on Aug. 15, 1932. The monthly pay roll is now running $377,286 over that of a year ago. New employés are being added daily."

Two business leaders from Illinois were yesterday appointed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, to assist the government in preparing for an additional series of code conferences to be held soon. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and quartermaster general of the United States army during the war, was appointed to advise NRA officials in the mail order field while Frank W. Butterworth of Danville, president of the Western Brick company, will assist in drawing a code for the structural clay products industry.

350 Complaints in 10 Days.

More than 350 complaints against stores, restaurants, and laundries, charging them with violation of the NRA code while flying the Blue Eagle, have been received in the last 10 days, F. L. Roberts, district manager of the department of commerce, reported yesterday.

These complaints have been forwarded to Washington, and will be filed until the government decides to begin a strict enforcement of the NRA standard. The administration hopes that the force of public opinion will be the most powerful weapon to use against cheating business concerns, Mr. Roberts said, but it is possible also that certain companies may be made an example of in court.

"Gen. Johnson's theory is that the cheating concerns, if given enough rope, will hang themsleves," said Mr. Robers. "Reports about Chicago that certain stores have already been punished by the government for failure to live up to the provisions of the reemployment agreement are not true."

Reports Laid to Rivals.

These reports, it was said, were probably spread by competing concerns, hoping to profit from the boycott which customers are expected to enforce if they learn that a business is violating the NRA agreement.

Most of the complaints sent to the department of commerce charge employers with violating the maximum working hour rule and disregard of the minimum wage scale, and asserted that employés are threatened with dismissal if they complain.

The number of employés in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa under the NRA standard was raised to 1,306,017 yesterday when 2,580 additional concerns in the area mailed in their acceptances of the reëmployment agreement to the department of commerce. The total of concerns in the three states who have signed the agreement is now 156,529.

In Chicago approximately 750,000 persons are under NRA, according to figures released by Assistant Postmaster C. P. Scheel. The number of concerns involved totals 27,389. Among the acceptances received yesterday was that of the Quaker Oats company, with 3,042 employés.

A code prepared under the provisions of the recovery act was adopted by members of the National Association of Musical Merchandise Manufacturers at a meeting at the Palmer House yesterday. The code provides for a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, with a 40 hour week.

A code of fair practices was adopted by the National Food distributors last night, bringing to a close their four day convention at the Hotel Sherman.

Democracy Giving Way to New Government Plan, Says Ogburn

Democracy is waning before the steady stride of dictatorships, according to Prof. William Fielding Ogburn of the University of Chicago, director of the Hoover research committee on social trends, and, until his resignation on Aug. 14, a member of the present administration's consumers' advisory board.

He delivered his predictions of forthcoming changes in governmental systems in a lecture yesterday in the social sciences building on the Midway campus, where he is professor of sociology.

Sees Democracy Declining.

"I look forward to the decline of democracy and to the rise of a system of government that will utilize some of its principles, but will nevertheless be an entirely different system of government," he declared. "The movement toward dictatorship is going ahead and seems to be replacing democracy in spite of the maintenance of the democratic form of government.

"I look forward to a system of representation in accordance with social and economic grouping," said Prof. Ogburn. "It is for this reason we have a focusing on an executive who represents the entire country geographically and a trend toward dictatorship. The government that is speediest is the one that will survive. An executive with the power to act such as that given President Roosevelt will meet requirements of speedy action and will be able to cope with rapid changes. A dictator can represent better than a legislature, because there is such universal communication.

Favors Price Fixing Boards.

"I am predicting a much closer relationship between business and government than we have ever known before. The discussion of whether each can go its way alone ceased to have any meaning about the time of the world war. The question is what will the relationship be. There is certain to be a greater intimacy between the two.

"Under the NRA individual industries probably will not fix prices in their code, but there may be an arrangement for prices outside their code will be allowed. The danger is that prices will go up faster than purchasing power and that every two or three years the rise will be checked only by depressions, severe and economically costly. The way to avoid this is to set up price fixing boards."

HURLEY DENIES PLAN TO MARRY WILSON'S WIDOW

Edward N. Hurley, Chicago industrialist and war time chairman of the United States Shipping board, arrived in New York from Europe aboard the liner Europa yesterday to learn that rumors of his forthcoming marriage to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the twenty-eighth President of the United States, were being widely circulated there.

Mr. Hurley immediately telephoned his associate, Charles A. McCulloch, co-receiver with him for the Middle West Utilities company.

"Tell the Chicago newspapers there is not a word of truth in the report," he requested Mr. McCulloch.

Mr. Hurley's wife was killed on Sept. 6, 1932, when her car was struck by a train near Wheaton. Since President Wilson's death Mrs. Wilson has lived in retirement, spending most of her time in travel.

MOVIE STRIKE ENDS AS CODE IS PRESENTED

Raids to Capture Stars Would Be Ended.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The national labor board today announced the Hollywood strike of moving picture sound men had been called off. All striking employés will return to work immediately. The American Federation of Labor was given the task of settling the jurisdictional dispute between the theatrical unions and the electrical workers and carpenters' unions.

Dr. Leo Wolman, acting chairman of the labor board in the absence of Senator Robert Wagner of New York, announced the decision in a formal statement that said the board was assured that all parties "will cooperate in carrying out this agreement."

No new strikes will be called pending in the A. F. of L. settlement of jurisdiction disputes as to interpretation of the agreement shall be decided by the national labor board and both parties agree to accept the decision of the board as final.

Code Is Submitted.

A code of fair practice for the motion picture industry was submitted today by the committees representing producers and distributors. Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy administrator, said the exhibitors will file shortly a separate code which he proposes to merge with the producers' agreement at a hearing Sept. 12.

The producers' code set up a maximum work week of 40 hours for common labor, certain white collared groups and studio extras, with 36 extras for skilled stage craftsmen such as carpenters and electrical workers. A 40 cent minimum hourly wage is provided, but with the expectation that the great bulk of wages will be in excess of such a figure. For carpenters, wire men, blacksmiths, and the like. A minimum of $1.16 2-3 an hour is provided. The producers said they expected their wages and hour levels to restore employés' earning power to 1929 levels.

Star Raiding Forbidden.

Among the more important provisions of the agreement is a ban upon "raiding" on the stars and talent of competitors. The practice of lending stars from one studio to another is approved, but to safeguard producers, who have valuable players under contract it is provided that no producer may approach the talent of another until within 30 days of the expiration of the actor's contract, then notifying the competitor of the terms offered.

Stringent provisions were placed in the code to protect theater owners from compulsion on the part of distributors through a clause which prohibits threatening theater owners with construction of competing theaters or similar methods. The proposal also provides that exhibitors be protected from being forced to take an undue proportion of short films on signing a contract for exhibition of a major feature picture.

Hits Monopoly Methods.

Further restrictions on monopoly of feature pictures is provided by the code through a declaration that no exhibitor may contract for more pictures than he requires for the purpose of depriving competitors of excess attractions. Allowance is made, however, for the theater owner contracting for sufficient excess pictures to protect himself against nondelivery.

A national intraindustry board is urged for handling disputes between producers, distributors, and exhibitors.

ENGINEER URGES USE OF SKY RIDE'S TOWERS FOR AIRSHIPS

The most modern mooring masts for dirigibles in the world are available to Chicago at very little expense, according to Joshua D'Esposito, consulting engineer.

By doing a small amount of reconstruction work at the conclusion of the Fair the two Sky Ride towers can be so changed that either one or both can be utilized for this type of air transportation, giving the city a landing field within a ten minute ride of the loop.

The subject, which has been more or less under consideration since the erection of the towers, was brought to a head by the contemplated visit of the Graf Zeppelin. Mr. D'Esposito, who was consultant in the building of the structure, made a survey and announced his opinion yesterday.

The towers, now 628 feet high, would be torn down to the 300 foot level, he said, where a revolving turret would be placed, permitting the dirigibles to swing in the wind. The present landing and loading platform, using a swinging gangway, would act in the same capacity with the dirigibles. Ticket offices, rest rooms and restaurant facilities could be furnished in the present waiting rooms.

An expenditure of between $75,000 and $100,000 would be necessary to accomplish this change. This would be about one-tenth of the amount needed to construct such a mooring mast without using the towers.

REPORT CHICAGO PLANE MISSING ON CANADIAN TRIP

A Chicago plane and its five occupants were reported missing over the wilderness of the northern Rocky mountain basin in British Columbia in dispatches received yesterday. The plane took off from Dawson Creek in the Peace river block at the eastern edge of British Columbia Monday and was due back the same day. A rescue plane left Grande Prairie, Alberta, 60 miles distant, yesterday to search for the missing craft.

The plane was piloted by John Bonnell, 28 years old, of Chicago. The occupants were Herman Hatfield, Chicago, a mechanic; Carl A. Simmons and Alton Seamans, mining engineers of Wyoming, and Paul Rossbach of Chicago. The plane was a Fairchild monoplane [Wasp motor]. Mrs. Betty Rossbach, mother of Paul, flew with the party to Dawson Creek ten days ago, but did not go on the trip on Monday. She is the wife of Hugo A. Rossbach, 201 Craig place, Lombard.

You Young Americans Who Voted for Beer

With many brands of beer to choose from, the chances are you've been doing some sampling. That's as it should be! Sampling built the world's largest brewery and year after year has made Budweiser outsell any other bottled beer on Earth. Budweiser has triumphantly stood the test of sampling by one generation after another since 1876.

The character of Budweiser—the unique tang that particular people look for—is created in the brewing. No other beer has this same CHARACTER and PERSONALITY. The brewery that makes Budweiser has never closed its doors during 81 years of continuous operation, INCLUDING THE LAST 14. The same brewmaster who made Budweiser for your father and your grandfather is brewing it for you today. The name Budweiser on a bottle of beer has greater meaning to beer drinkers than ever before. It means you can TRUST the product to be PURE, FULL LEGAL STRENGTH and FULLY AGED (lagered).

Among all beers—there is only one Budweiser. To offer your guests beer is simple hospitality—to offer them Budweiser is a gracious compliment. It's the King of Bottled Beer—a SMARTER beer to drink and to serve. That's why millions of younger people who voted for beer are now voting for Budweiser. Your dealer can supply you now. Buy it by the case for your home. Serve it cold.

PRESIDENT GETS BETTER WORLD TRADE FIGURES

U. S. Appears Leader in Economic Gain.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Signs of a reviving world, a world awakened from sluggishness by the touch of a bustling United States, are clearly pointed out in new figures disclosed today on the state of America's foreign commerce.

The United States sold $145,000,000 of its goods abroad in July. That was 21 per cent more than in June. Imports in July rose 17 per cent to $143,000,000.

These increases, interpreted to show the rest of the world stepping out toward prosperity after the United States, are the more striking because they have come in the face of great obstacles.

Obstacles Are Surmounted.

The pick-up has come despite the bouncings of an unsteady dollar, despite the fact that exports and imports almost invariably decline in July instead of rising, and despite the gloom of Secretary of State Hull over the failure of the nations of the world to break down their tariff walls.

On top of this cheery news the federal reserve board bloomed today with a fresh crop of optimistic statistics, showing in its regular monthly report an improving picture of the business activity within the United States.

Industrial production in July was within 2 per cent of being back to the normal years of 1923-'25, the reserve board's economists reported. Construction contracts were up four points, still low, but showing positive signs of life, with industrial buildings far in advance of residential buildings.

Retail Sales Improve.

One of the most healthy signs noted in the bankers' report was that department store sales, improving in trend during July, are showing signs of an increase in the first two weeks of August.

For some reason there is an air of tension about the month of August in official circles of the capital. To some extent this was caused by Hugh S. Johnson. He in his effort to push the NRA campaign laid great stress on the necessity for employers to enlist by Aug. 1 and thus avert the let-down customary in August.

If the August figures should show declines in business activity in the face of the NRA program the psychological effect would admittedly be bad, whereas in ordinary years the summer lull would invoke no comment.

People Buying More Freely.

With the federal reserve board reflecting gains in department store sales, the assumption drawn is that people are buying again that the extra money paid in wages is being spent, and with that consuming power being exerted, the government experts believe production will measure well during August to meet the increasing demands.

Production rates in August were not mentioned by the federal reserve board, but trade reports have indicated that it will be down considerably below the July figures.

Trade Changes.

The state of world trade, with its promise of providing renewed exchanges between the United States and other nations, thus relieving some of the surpluses piled up in this country, brought the greatest interest today. The July exports of 145 million dollars compare with $119,809,000 in June and with $106,830,000 in July, 1932, reflecting an increase of 37 per cent over last year. The total exports this year to date, $814,341,000, have not yet overcome the stagnation of trade in the early months of 1933. The figure in 1932, including July, was $946,842,000. Imports last month were $143,000,000, compared with $122,263,000 in June, and with only $79,421,000 in July, 1932. The total imports for the year are $735,195,000, compared with the 1932 figures of $826,207,000.

Some idea of the fluctuations in America's world trade upward is given in the following table of figures for the month of July of various years:

Year.	Exports.	Imports.
1928	$378,984,000	$317,848,000
1929	402,861,000	352,980,000
1930	266,762,000	220,558,000
1931	180,830,000	174,460,000
1932	106,830,000	79,421,000

Cotton and Mineral Oils.

The principal increases in exporting represented increased sales of unmanufactured cotton at higher prices. Nonmetallic mineral products increased by $6,800,000 in value, largely as a result of increased export of refined mineral oils.

Exports of inedible vegetable products were $3,000,000 higher last July, with tobacco, manufactured and unmanufactured, responsible for a large part of the added value. Increased values of from one to two million dollars were recorded for each of the following groups: Vegetable food products and beverages; metals and manufactures; machinery and vehicles.

The important increases in imports were $6,900,000 gained in textiles, $3,900,000 in wood and paper, and $3,100,000 in metals and manufactures.

Shows Machine Age?

The federal reserve report brought into clearer focus the need for increasing purchasing power and employment. With industrial production shown at 98 per cent of the 1923-'25 period used by the reserve board for normal, employment lagged at 70.1 per cent, and pay rolls at 50 per cent. It was evident to the economists from these figures that the growth of the machine age, or longer hours of work, or lower wages, or combinations of these three, is holding back improvement, but the board's report did show employment and pay rolls catching up with production to some extent in July.

The building industry, on which so many thousands depend for work, is far behind in the race for prosperity, the board's index standing at 22 per cent for July, compared with 18 per cent in June. But the four point increase afforded some encouragement, particularly since it was effected entirely in industrial building, which rose from an index of 23 to 29, while residential building held stationary at 13.

Department store business, usually falling heavily in July, nevertheless was above the 1932 level, and fell less than usual this year. An increase for August was anticipated on the basis of trade reports.

The result of a humming production and a slower rise in employment and pay rolls has been the piling up of inventories. The reserve board's index on department store stocks has gone up in each of the last three months, from 55 in May to about 60 in July. Inventories of semi-manufactured goods likewise have been piling up for three months.

The increase in idle stocks has been due in part to factories rushing to turn out goods before the high costs of codes and processing taxes take effect. It has not been as great as the increase in production, for consumption has held up better than usual this summer, absorbing much of the new goods, but leaving the rest on shelves and in warehouses.

Roosevelt Asks Truce of Capital-Labor to Aid NRA

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Strong desire for peace between industry and labor while the country beats back to prosperity was expressed by President Roosevelt in a letter made public today. The letter discusses means of adjusting the Kansas City Southern railway's dispute with trainmen over wages and working conditions. The letter was handed to C. E. Johnston, president of the road, after a conference with Mr. Roosevelt Saturday. Mr. Johnston authorized publication of the letter today.

Three Courses Open.

"I have examined the report of the emergency board which I appointed June 12," the President wrote, "under section 10 of the railroad labor act, to investigate and report respecting the dispute existing between the Kansas City Southern Railway company [and two subsidiary carriers] and certain of their employés represented by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. This report will, I understand, be made public.

"As a result of my examination of the report, it seems to me that there are three possible courses which may be open to you and which deserve consideration:

"No. 1—Place in effect without reservation the rates of pay, rules and working conditions for conductors and locomotive engineers which you have proposed and which were considered by the emergency board.

"No. 2—Place these rates of pay, rules and working conditions in effect for an experimental period in order that there may be an actual test of the new plan in practice, this test to be made without prejudice to the rights of either side and with an opportunity for the further consideration of the matter, at the end of the experimental period.

Prefers Third Method.

"No. 3—Postpone the consideration of this matter for a definite period of time, continuing in the meantime under the exisiting rates of pay, rules and working conditions, with the understanding that this postponement shall be without prejudice to the rights of either side and that the matter will come up for further consideration at the end of the stipulated period.

"Whether you will adopt one of these three suggested courses or possibly some other course is for you to decide. Under the present conditions, in view of the concentration of the country upon the revival of business and increase in employment and purchasing power, my personal preference would be for the third course suggested above, since I deem it desirable that in this critical period no active warfare between industry and labor should arise. If you should decide upon this course the period of postponement should, I think, extend well into the coming year.

"Very sincerely yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

ORDERS SUBURBS TO BARE RECORDS ON BOND MONEYS

The cities and villages of Hinsdale, West Chicago, Downers Grove, Lombard, Villa Park, and Westmont were ordered yesterday to make an accounting of all moneys collected and disbursed from the proceeds of approximately $2,000,000 of special assessment bonds. The decision, which sets a precedent on the status of many million dollars worth of defaulted special assessment bonds in Illinois, was given by Judges Max Allaben and W. J. Fulton sitting en banc in the Du Page county Circuit court at Wheaton.

In returning its finding the court overruled a contention of the defendant municipalities that the petition for accounting should contain the owner's name of every bond involved and in addition an affidavit showing how the holder came into possession of the security. The complainants were upheld in their claim that the bonds were negotiable.

The court also held that special assessments collected by the cities and villages were trust funds and can be used only to pay principal and interest on bonds and that where any municipality diverted or misappropriated funds for corporate purposes the city becomes corporately liable for payment.

OPEN INCOME TAX APPEAL HEARINGS HERE NEXT WEEK

Cases involving income tax deficiency assessments will be heard here by the United States board of tax appeals, beginning next Monday. The harings will be before Stephen J. McMahon, a member of the board, in the United States courthouse, and will continue about two weeks. Among the cases scheduled is one against the estate of Michael Rosenberg, late sanitary district trustee, and brother of Moe Rosenberg, west side politician. The assessment against Michael Rosenberg's estate is for $6,667 from the year 1925.

LABOR ATTACKS RETAIL STORES' HOURS, WAGES

Proprietors Tell of Trade Problems.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—It was the voice of the sales girl and her fellow store worker that echoed most insistently today, as the National Recovery Administration continued its open hearing on the proposed code for the retail trade.

Listening, as organized labor and the NRA labor advisory board assailed the wages and hours they have proposed for their employés, were the nation's store proprietors—merchant prince and the corner hardware man alike.

Labor, said Miss Rose Schneideman of the NRA labor advisory board, found the $10 to $14 minimum wages and the 44 hour work week proposed by the retail merchants "disillusioning and disappointing."

Attacks Proposed Changes.

"Your original code," she told the dealers, "stipulated a forty hour week. Now you ask for a 44 hour week and are agitating at this hearing for a still longer week of 48 hours. Labor had been gratified at your first code. Labor is now disillusioned and disappointed.

"I feel that you have lost a great deal of public confidence and public good will by the substituting of this amended code for the first one you submitted and I ask that you give serious thought to reconsideration."

Miss Schneideman was gratified, she said, however, by the code's limitation on child labor, prohibiting the employment of any persons under 16 years of age. But the forty-four hour week proposed in their code, she told the retailers, "would not do the job" of putting the unemployed in the retail trade back to work. A work week of not more than 40 hours, she asserted, would be necessary to accomplish this.

Labor Backs Clerks' Demand.

As for wages in the retail trades, labor spokesmen unanimously supported the scale recommended by C. C. Coulter of the International Association of Retail Clerks, calling for a minimum wage of $20 a week in cities over a million population, $18 in cities between 500,000 and a million, $17 in cities of 100,000 to 500,000, $16 in cities of 25,000 to 100,000, and $15 in towns of less than 25,000.

While it was labor's day at the hearing, the great mercantile interests were girding for a war among themselves at tomorrow's session, when trade practices are to be discussed. A pitched battle among the giant department store interests over price policies was said to be imminent tonight, with a strong group of urban department stores ready to launch a vigorous attack on cut price competitive tactics.

It was understood that a large group of New York stores, including such well known establishments as Gimbel Brothers, Wanamaker's, Saks, and Lord & Taylor, were banded together to fight the price cutting policies of certain other New York establishments. Allied on one side or the other, according to their existing practices, it was said, will be the large department establishments in other cities, such as Chicago and Philadelphia.

Show Clash of Interests.

As on yesterday, the hearings revealed yawning chasms of divergent interest within the trade itself.

Representing one extreme was Dr. Paul Nystrom, Columbia university economist, especially hired by the great "five and ten" chains to present their case. His list of clients was a roster of such houses—Woolworth, Kresge, Scott, Murphy—whose vast enterprises cover the continent and extend even to Europe and the orient.

At the other extreme was Henry I. Silverman of New York City, whose plea was for the obscure independent merchant who virtually has to fight for business in the side streets of Manhattan, Harlem, Flatbush, and the Bronx.

Dr. Nystrom's case was carefully and scientifically prepared, based on statistics compiled by himself. His clients—the limited price variety stores—are not signatories to the code already proposed. But if certain changes are made in line with his suggestions, he stated, the "five and tens" would come in.

Raise for 75 Per Cent.

Dr. Nystrom, in discussing the wages now paid by those chains, said: "The average wage paid by limited price variety stories is less than eleven dollars a week. If the pay scale I have proposed is adopted, 75 per cent of the variety store employés will get raises in pay."

Dr. Nystrom proposed a minimum pay scale of $14 a week in cities of over 500,000 population; $13 in cities between 100,000 and 500,000; $12 between 25,000 and 100,000; $10 to $11 between 2,500 and 25,000, and $10 in towns below 2,500.

Raises of 20 per cent, but not to exceed the minimums, would be arbitrarily ordered in towns of less than 2,500 population.

Instead of a 44 hour week, as proposed in the present retail code, Dr. Nystrom proposed a schedule of work hours based upon the number of hours the stores stay open.

For stores open less than 52 hours a week Dr. Nystrom suggested a 40 hour week for employés. For stores operating between 52 and 60 hours he asked a 44 hour week, and for stores open more than 60 hours, a 48 hour work week. Establishment of this schedule, Dr. Nystrom averred, would take up all the unemployment in the retail trade.

Mr. Silverman said the code should forbid stores to make people enter them.

Mr. Y. Teitlebaum, president of the New York Retail Furniture association, however, caused the day's excitement at the hearing.

Wants 30 Hour Week.

Mr. Teitlebaum disregarded the proposed 44 hour week stipulated in the code under consideration.

"I am here," he said, "to advocate a 30 hour week, particularly for furniture dealers, but also for all retailers, generally speaking.

"I'm not trying to be humanitarian," Mr. Teitlebaum declared. "I've a selfish motive for this proposal. If we're trying to put men back to work, why try to fix the longest possible work week?

"What we've got to do is to cut hours as much as possible, so more people will be employed. The increase in purchasing power, followed by more buying, will make up the difference in our overhead."

OREGON FOREST FIRE SPREADS OVER LARGE AREA

Portland, Ore., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Rolling through millions of dollars' worth of evergreen forests in uncontrolled billows, forest fire in the north Oregon coast sector burned savagely today while 2,000 fire fighters could do little more than flee to safety.

About 350 square miles of forest was in the actual fire district. The flames were stripping the finest of the virgin timber. Dense smoke and the extent of the burned forests made it impossible for fire officials to estimate the area actually destroyed.

Outlying civilian conservation corps camps and other fire fighters' camps were ordered abandoned. All men were concentrated at one camp where they can rest and sleep in safety.

1000 BOY SCOUTS CHEER PRESIDENT ON VISIT TO CAMP

Drives Through Downpour to Address Youths.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 23.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today pointed to the ideals of service and cooperation as exemplified by the Boy Scouts of America as the national qualities necessary for national recovery.

He spoke to a thousand Scouts from Greater New York gathered at the Ten Mile river camp, near Monticello, N. Y., some 80 miles from the summer White House at Hyde Park.

The President pointed to a huge blue eagle, symbol of the national recovery administration, which was proudly perched above the topmost seats in the camp amphitheater.

NRA Based on Ideals of Scouts.

"I am glad," said the President, "to see that you, too, have adopted the NRA insignia. We are going to number about 130 million people under that symbol before we get through. And when you come right down to it," he went on, "the NRA is based on the same fundamentals that scouting is based on. In other words, trying to do something for the other fellow and not trying to do somebody. It is based on coöperation—you know what that means. It is based on the spirit of service and it is going to work just like scouting is working."

The President made the trip through the rolling hills of upstate New York by automobile. During much of the journey rain fell, amounting at times to a downpour. But just as the presidential party reached the Scout camp the skies cleared, and with traditional Roosevelt luck remained clear during the outdoor exercises.

Greeted by 21 Gun Salute.

The President visited the camp not only as chief executive, but in his capacity as national president of the Boy Scouts of America and president of the Greater New York Boy Scout foundation, which by his influence several years ago acquired the 12,000 acres which now serve as a camp site for New York Scouts.

A fanfare of bugles, a thumping of drums, a barking of 21 guns heralded the President's passage down a driveway lined on either side with Scouts at the salute. An escort of mounted Scouts preceded the parade.

Initiated Into Scout Order.

Scout Executive Charles M. Heistend, assisted by Eagle Scouts Michael Fleming and Robert Scott, made President Roosevelt a member of the Order of the Arrow. They draped a white band bearing a red arrow across his chest and then to the clicking delight of the photographers and the whooping delight of the 1,000 boys they decorated the presidential poll with an Indian headdress of eagle feathers.

Luncheon followed in the camp mess hall and then the start back to Hyde Park. On the homeward journey a detour was made to Roscoe, N. Y., home of Miss Grace Tully, one of the President's confidential secretaries, who was taken ill during last year's campaign and was finally forced to return home for a rest. The President spent an hour calling on Miss Tully and her family, before driving back through more rain to Hyde Park.

Socialists See NRA Opening Way to War on Capitalism

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Amid the applause of socialist delegates from all over the world, Prof. Maynard Krueger of the University of Chicago at today's meeting of the Second Internationale congress explained how the American national recovery program had enabled United States workers to build up a fighting mass organization. The program is of little immediate value to the workers, he explained, but at least it gives them a chance to arm for the coming struggle with capitalistic bosses.

"The industrial control arrangement of the Roosevelt administration is a far cry from the control of industry that would be established by a socialist workers' government," Prof. Krueger said. "It is not only inadequate, but dangerous.

Sees Danger of Fascism.

"But it does offer workers a chance to build now a fighting mass organization and prepare for the race between Fascism and socialism that has clearly begun. If labor fails to rise to this opportunity, Fascism will be the next step."

Prof. Krueger said the gravest danger of the NRA was that it might easily become the framework of a fascist state.

European socialists were somewhat shocked to hear the NRA program denounced as inadequate and dangerous for workers, but were relieved to learn that it corresponds to a sort of training camp for American labor to mobilize and instruct itself in the use of revolutionary weapons as a preliminary step to seizing power.

Yanks Sponsor Bid to Russia.

The European comrades also were impressed with the ardor of the American delegation, which represents the extreme left wing sentiment at the congress. The American delegation is sponsoring the sending of an invitation to the Third Internationale at Moscow to forget its ancient grudge against its lukewarm brothers and participate in a joint congress against war and Fascism.

In keeping with this advanced position the United States delegation, through Prof. Krueger, warned the congress that the defense of bourgeois democracy against dictatorships and other evils "is not an exclusive or most effective means of attaining proletarian democracy."

[Prof. Maynard Krueger was in the line of 150 pickets who gathered in front of the dress manufacturing plant of Lipson Brothers at 337 South Franklin street on July 27 to protest the company's failure to co-operate in the national recovery act.]

JOHNSON 'SOLVES' INDUSTRY STATUS OF LABOR UNIONS

Interpretation Puzzles Both Sides.

tion by Johnson of a promise allegedly made to them that they could have a qualifying clause in their code.

The automobile men tonight made public the latest amended draft of their code, in which the following clause was included:

"Any employer in the industry may operate under an open shop policy, which is hereby defined to mean the selection, retention, and advancement of employés on the basis of individual merit without regard to affiliation or nonaffiliation with any labor or other organization."

But Gen. Johnson's "interpretation" declared: "The words 'open shop' and 'closed shop' are not used in the law and cannot be written into the law. These words have no agreed meaning and will be erased from the dictionary of the NRA."

As Johnson Sees it.

Repeating that the law gives employés the right to "organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing," Gen. Johnson went on:

"This can mean only one thing, which is that employés can choose any one they desire to represent them, or they can choose to represent themselves. Employers, likewise, can make collective bargains with organized employés or individual agreements with those who choose to act individually. . . .

"The law provides that employés shall be free from interference, restraint or coercion of employers.

"Under section 7-A employers are forbidden to require 'as a condition of employment' that an employé shall either 'join a company union' or 'refrain from joining, organizing, or assisting a labor organization of his own choosing.' The law does not prohibit the existence of a local labor organization which may be called a company union and is composed only of the employés of one company. But it does prohibit requiring, as a condition of employment, that any employé join a company union, and it prohibits the maintenance of a company union, or any other labor organization, by the interference, restraint, or coercion of an employer.

"If there is any dispute over who are the representatives of the employés of their own choosing the NRA will conduct an impartial investigation and, if necessary, a secret ballot to settle the question."

SUSPECT INSECTS AS CARRIERS AS SLEEPING SICKNESS CASES GROW

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 23.—(AP)—As the scope of a "sleeping sickness" epidemic in St. Louis widened to include victims in Oklahoma and Kansas, federal, state and city officials concentrated tonight on a story of insects suspected as possible carriers of infection which has been fatal to 20 persons.

Dr. J. P. Leake, United States public health physician, has reported belief that the current malady of encephalitis was not due to water. He expressed uncertainty regarding the possible spread of infection by insects.

As a result the United States public health service has ordered Dr. L. L. Williams Jr., medical entomologist, to St. Louis as a third federal representative in a study being conducted here.

A total of 191 cases of sleeping sickness has been reported in the Greater St. Louis area. Most of the victims reside in suburbs to the west of the city. Two deaths occurred here today. Deaths also have been reported at Wichita, Kas.; Kansas City, Kas., and Warrensburg, Mo. Cases of the disease have been located at Maryville, Mo., and Muskogee, Okla.

TAX LAW JOKER WOULD LESSEN WHISKY PRICE

But Shortage in Supply May Keep It Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A newly discovered joker in the tax law today paved the way for cheap whisky after repeal, but threatened to decimate the government's estimated revenue from liquor.

Treasury experts, hopeful that they would be able to assess the prohibition tax of $6.40 a gallon on whisky, today admitted that in all probability only the old pre-war tax of $1.10 a gallon is legal under existing law. Congress, meeting in January, may be asked to enact a higher rate.

Free from a heavy tax, whisky can be cheap, but it will be scarce at first, and for this reason may be expensive. America, which has drunk as much as 83 million gallons of whisky in a year, has only about 4,300,000 gallons of aged whisky with which to greet repeal, a checkup by the bureau of industrial alcohol shows.

Affected by U. S. Dry Law.

The joker in the tax law which today sunk the treasury's hopes for high revenue from whisky is the provision that the tax of $6.40 a gallon shall apply to whisky "diverted" for beverage purposes. After much argument the treasury's legal staff today agreed that this wording bases the high tax on the assumption of national prohibition.

Repeal, therefore, will automatically cancel the tax of $6.40 a gallon along with all other laws, like the Volstead act, which are based on the 18th amendment, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings explains. Liquor rates will revert to the pre-war schedules which call for a tax of $1.10 a gallon.

Budget Director Lewis Douglas roughly estimated that the country would yield 250 million dollars in the first year after repeal on liquor taxes. Now that the joker in the tax law has been discovered, experts admit that this estimate has been scuttled.

Fall Short of Estimate.

To pay 250 million dollars in taxes in the first year at $1.10 a gallon, thirsty Americans would have to drink twice as much as they did in their biggest year before prohibition, treasury statistics show. With half of the states still clinging to local prohibition laws such a large consumption is admittedly impossible. Liquor taxes, therefore, will be too small to make up for the new recovery program taxes, which they are to replace.

The near famine level of American whisky stocks eligible for withdrawal from warehouses was revealed today after the bureau of industrial alcohol had checked up on stocks in warehouses. Only 4,300,000 gallons of whisky is sufficiently aged to be used.

From 1919 to 1929 no whisky was made in this country. The first of the 1929 whisky will not be sufficiently aged until December of this year, when only 400,000 gallons will be ready for withdrawal.

Daughter of Judge Lyle Elopes to Crown Point

Miss Jane Lyle, daughter of Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, was secretly married on June 10 to Howard Height McCaskey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. McCaskey of Palos Park, the bride revealed yesterday. The couple eloped to Crown Point. Their families learned of the marriage last Sunday. The bridegroom, who is 21 years old, attended the Morgan Park Military academy and Columbia Military academy near Nashville. Mrs. McCaskey, who is 19, was graduated last year from the University of Chicago High school.

URGE U.S. APPROVE LOWER PRICE FOR CASH-CARRY MILK

Independents Offer New Plan.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The possibility that "cash and carry" milk may sell at a lower price in the Chicago area than that delivered to the doorstep on credit was the newest development last night in the attempts of the federal farm adjustment administration to regulate the milk business of Chicago and the suburbs.

Attorney Joseph Green, representing the Northern Illinois Milk Distributors' association, made public the terms of a plan which has been submitted to the administration in Washington. A suit filed by this association, composed of 120 operators of milk depots in the metropolitan area, is scheduled for hearing in Washington Monday.

In this action the independents are attacking the legality of the milk license recently applied by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, as well as the constitutionality of the farm adjustment act, part of the Roosevelt program to boost farm prices.

Hope for Public Hearing.

Jerome Frank, counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration, expressed confidence in Washington yesterday that this suit would be thrown out of court. The independents here point out that even if they lose in court they are entitled to a public hearing before the agricultural board on their proposal to sell cash and carry milk at prices lower than the prices established for delivered milk in this area.

At present all Chicago milk companies belonging to the Milk Council and the Chicago Milk Dealers' association have a flat price of 10 cents a quart retail. Milk is sold to stores on a basis that over the counter sales will be at the 10 cent rate. This has been approved by Secretary Wallace.

The cut rate independents charge 6¼ cents a quart and 25 cents a gallon for milk. In their proposition submitted to the farm adjustment administration in Washington they have agreed to comply with sanitary regulations of the city, to pay farmers "all the price provided in the license" and still sell at 7 cents a quart. The independents contend that they could pay farmers a flat sum of $2 per hundred pounds (46½ quarts) and still make a profit with milk at 7 cents.

Scout Idea of Differential.

Officials of the organized milk companies and the Pure Milk association at the close of their third day of negotiations on price readjustments in the Hotel La Salle last night, scouted the idea that a differential in price between delivered and cash and carry milk would be approved in the Chicago area.

The Hotel La Salle conference is to be resumed this morning at 10:30. At adjournment last night spokesmen for the farmers reported "considerable progress towards agreement."

GERMAN JUNKERS AGREE TO SHARE LAND WITH IDLE

Accept Hitler Plan for Agrarian Reform.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The Prussian Junkers, who for more than a century defied all attempts of succeeding governments to interfere with their great estates by successfully quashing agrarian reform plans, today bowed before Chancellor Hitler. They announced that they will "with cheerful heart" coöperate in the task of reorganizing German farming life and will supply whatever land is necessary "as far as possible."

This decision was reached at a meeting of representatives of East Prussian great estate owners at Koenigsberg. A resolution was adopted especially emphasizing the participation of representatives of entailed estates who "in the old tradition and in fulfillment of duty served their kings with blood and property." The resolution proclaimed that the estate owners "stand convinced behind Hitler's rescue work."

Jobless to Get Land.

The official organ of the German labor front, Der Deutsche, extolled the reasonableness of the present day nobility. It recalled that when agrarian reforms were proposed at the beginning of this century the Prussian Junker leader, Von der Marwitz, declared:

"We would prefer to lose ten battles of Jena to accepting this bill liberating the peasantry."

The chief aim of Hitler's agrarian reform is settlement of the jobless on land. While East Prussia is now declared to be free of unemployment, figures issued today as of July 31 revealed heavy unemployment in industrial centers. According to these figures, 163 of every 1,000 inhabitants in Plauen are without jobs.

Figures for other towns show 156 of every 1,000 out of work in Offenbach; 150 in Solingen; 142 in Breslau; 137 in Chemnitz, and 137 in Fuerth.

Put Reds on Short Rations.

An official warning was issued to local councils today that they must cease the practice of making payments from relief funds to employers who give employment to persons hitherto drawing doles.

As a reprisal for communist activities in Augsburg, all communists in the Augsburg and Dachau concentration camps have been placed on short rations for a fortnight. They also are not allowed to receive visitors.

It was announced that a prominent Bavarian communist leader, Franz Stenzer, was shot dead while attempting to flee from the Dachau camp.

LINDBERGHS FLY FROM ICELAND TO FAROE ISLANDS

TVERAA, Faroe Islands, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, unheralded and unexpected, landed here this afternoon after a four hour flight from Iceland in continuation of their survey of a northern Atlantic air route.

They took off from Eskifjord, on the east coast of Iceland, where they flew this week from Reykjavik. They did not reveal their destination.

May Visit Orkney Islands.

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A report received today that Col. Lindbergh might visit the Orkney islands in the course of his North Atlantic mapping expedition surprised authorities here. They hurried to make preparations for reception of the colonel and his wife.

CUDAHY TELLS FRANCE OF NEW DEAL IN AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt's indefatigable energy and "the perfectly amazing way in which the whole country is willing to follow his leadership," were pointed out today by John Cudahy of Milwaukee, new United States ambassador to Poland. Mr. Cudahy is stopping in Paris en route to his post in Warsaw.

"Industrial leaders have swung into line and even rock-ribbed Republicans are willing to follow President Roosevelt, exhibiting a fervid patriotism that is similar to the spirit prevalent during the world war," Mr. Cudahy said. "'As right as Roosevelt' is the new expression spreading throughout America.

"I am going to Poland with a message from Col. Edward M. House expressing admiration and friendship for the Polish people."

"A FREAK REDUCING FAD ALMOST RUINED MY HEALTH"

I looked perfectly ghastly..
I was dieting, following one of those freak reducing fads. True I was losing weight but at what a price! My color was sallow, my skin drawn and lifeless. I was on the verge of a complete breakdown. With dizzy spells, heart palpitation, energy gone, I was headed for a serious collapse..

Until I met Mary..
My husband's sister, a graduate nurse, told me I was crazy. "Dieting, she said 'doesn't mean starving yourself to death. Calories make weight. Be sensible and substitute Welch's Pasteurized Grape Juice for high calory foods. Then you'll lose weight, but keep healthy."

I couldn't believe her..
"But Welch's Grape Juice is sweet and sweets are fattening, I said. 'Not always,' she replied. 'Welch's simple grape sugars are quickly absorbed and used, and hence not stored as fat. Besides its potassium tends to remove unnecessary water from the body's tissue."

Just look at me now..
I bought Welch's, drank it freely. Following the Welch Way to Weight Control was simple and easy. I lost pound after pound and never felt better in my life. Today my weight is normal, my figure girlishly slender. Why don't you try the "Welch Way to Weight Control" too?

the Welch way to weight control

The Welch Way is quite the most pleasant reducing method known. Physicians endorse it because Welch's satisfies that craving for sweets and rich fattening foods. Taken in connection with proper diet, fat disappears, energy increases. People everywhere report that the Welch Way to Weight Control has made them more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start right in today. Get a bottle of Welch's from your dealer: drink a glass before breakfast, once or twice during the day, and before retiring. Because of its purity, Welch's may be diluted with one third water and many prefer it so. Continue—and in a few days you will experience the wonderful difference.

IMPORTANT. Be sure to insist on Welch's, because it is the Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified-Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and no tartaric acid crystals. Lowest price in 35 years.

FREE! Mail coupon for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down." It gives full particulars of the Welch Way to Weight Control, tells you how to reduce healthfully, delightfully.

Parents: Mail coupon for booklet, "Red-Blooded Children." It tells how Welch's helps amazingly to restore rosy cheeks and buoyant energy to run down, anemic children.

COUGHLIN HITS BANKS, HOOVER AT DETROIT QUIZ

Radio Priest Tells Views Before Crowd.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The one man grand jury inquiry into the causes of the failure last winter of Detroit's big banks today concerned itself in turn with the origin and development of the modern money system, the causes of the world war, the economy philosophy of Herbert Hoover and the prospects for the revaluation of the gold content of the American dollar.

At times the inquiry got down to the subject of the day, the reasons for the Detroit banking collapse which precipitated the final banking holiday. When, for example, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, crusading radio priest and the witness of the day, made the charge that officers of the Detroit Bankers company, holding company for the city's largest bank, the First National, had made misleading entries in reporting the bank's condition and given false testimony earlier in the present hearing.

Courtroom Is Jammed.

Three hundred admirers of the spell-binding priest of the Church of the Little Flower jammed to capacity the courtroom of Judge Harry Keidan, who is sitting as a one man grand jury in the case. The court attachés had difficulty in restraining the applause of the crowd when the priest launched into his frequent fervent expositions of his economic philosophy. He described himself as a believer in a capitalistic system, modified by the teachings of Christ.

He clasped his hands in front of him in a worshipful attitude and poised his fist pugnaciously on the arm of the witness chair as he uttered in turn an emotional plea for support of the Roosevelt new deal and made sweeping denunciations of bankers and "money changers."

He made scorching references to former President Hoover, who turned down an invitation to testify at the inquiry, and read into the record an article from a London mining publication purported to have been written in 1912 by Mr. Hoover. The article quoted Mr. Hoover as saying that money lost by investors in mining promotions might be reinvested by the promoters to more advantage than "if it had remained in the hands of the idiots who parted with it." No proof was given that Mr. Hoover ever said this.

Philosophy Under Fire.

Then the priest asserted that the economic philosophy expounded in the article was the same as that which motivated Hoover and other national leaders during the boom period in this country and which led to the nation-wide economic collapse. It was the same philosophy which guided the heads of the Detroit banks which failed last winter, he shouted to the court.

Prosecutor Harry Toy, county attorney, and Patrick H. O'Brien, state attorney general, had difficulty in steering the testimony of the youthful priest back to the Detroit banking situation.

Asked by Prosecutor Toy if he thought the First National bank, Detroit, had a chance to reopen with the aid of the federal government, Father Coughlin replied:

"The United States government is not Jesus Christ. It can't go down to the graveyard and raise a stinking Lazarus. The government hasn't a chance of reopening the bank. Only God could do that."

Accused Ex-Head of Bank.

The priest's charges of falsification of accounts and testimony by the former officials of the Detroit Banking company were directed chiefly at Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the company, who testified at the hearing last week. He charged that Mills in preparing the statement of condition of the First National bank at the close of last year and later in his testimony before the grand jury had padded the cash account and deposit figures of the institution.

The cash and government bond account shown by the statement included $35,000,000 of securities pledged with the government as security for special deposits and backing for outstanding currency, the priest declared.

Mills attempted to show in his later testimony before Judge Keidan, the Rev. Mr. Coughlin charged, that the bank had enough cash and government bonds to pay out 25 per cent cash on Feb. 11, the day the bank closed.

Actually, the priest declared, after deducting the collateral securing the preferred deposits there was not more than enough of liquid deposits to pay 14 per cent of the remaining deposit liabilities. The Rev. Coughlin demanded that Mills be summoned again and asked about the disputed points.

"I have the documents to prove that he falsified in his testimony and I use the word falsify in its correct sense as shown by the Oxford Standard dictionary," he asserted.

He also touched on the charge previously made by Senator James Couzens that the banks here had indulged in "check kiting" between themselves in order to swell their cash account. He did not go into this further, but asked that Mills also be put back on the stand and asked about this.

The only chance, he declared, that the Detroit banks would be able to pay out anything like 100 per cent on the dollar is that the gold content of the dollar be reduced.

Sees Dollar Devaluation.

Such devaluation he said would cause the assets of the defunct institutions to be revalued on a higher level and may enable the payment of 80 per cent of claims to depositors.

He had every reason to believe from his knowledge of the Roosevelt administration's policy that such a devaluation would take place "within a few weeks," he said.

When asked by Attorney General O'Brien what he meant by "revaluation of the gold ounce" the priest sketched the origin and development of the modern currency system. He dwelled at some length on what part the money system played in causing the great war and concluded by declaring that we "now have a dishonest dollar which it is the purpose of the administration to correct." He said that he has been in close touch with administration officials and was familiar with the plans and policies of President Roosevelt with whom he said he had a warm friendship.

Makes Thrust at Hoover.

Commenting on what he called the "laissez-faire do-nothing policy of the Hoover administration," he said that President Hoover had seen fit to "feed pigs with grain in Arkansas but refused to give a loaf of bread to starving people in Michigan."

"We stood like a bunch of monkeys on a cocoanut laden island and waited for death by starvation," he shouted to the great merriment of the packed courtroom.

"When the government has effected its dollar devaluation and the people of this town realize that bank stockholders are doubly liable for their stock then, and then only, will the depositors begin to realize what is rightfully theirs," he concluded.

Testifies Again Today.

The Rev. Coughlin will take the stand again tomorrow and he promised "further startling disclosures." He will be followed, probably on Friday, by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, junior senator from Michigan, who told Prosecutor Toy by telephone today that he is ready to appear. Vandenberg was one of those instrumental in causing the removal to Cleveland of Chief National Bank Examiner Alfred P. Leyburn. Leyburn was in charge of the Chicago district under whose jurisdiction the Detroit banks are and it was upon the basis of his reports that the controller of the currency ordered the closing of the banks here.

His Organization Banned in Ireland

"Business as Usual"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 23.—Contrary to expectations, no steps were taken by police today to follow up yesterday's prohibition of Gen. Owen O'Duffy's national guard [blue shirts]. The offices of the organization were open and Gen. O'Duffy arrived early and carried on his work as usual.

According to the government organ, the Irish Press, members of the national guard probably will be given two or three days in which to resign. At the expiration of the period of grace those who have not quit will be liable to arraignment before the military tribunal which was formed yesterday.

The national guard, in support of its claim to being a constitutional body, apparently intends to face arrests if necessary. Though the situation is obscure, all parties opposed to the government are known to be planning a determined effort to defeat President Eamon de Valera's party at a general election which is now believed to be imminent. The Center party [farmers] and ex-President William T. Cosgrave's party meet tomorrow to try to reach a basis of co-operation.

LAWYERS' FEES IN INSULL UTILITY CASE ARE HELD UP

Ettelson's Plea Blocks Receiver's Claims.

Following objections by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, to some of the payments, Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles yesterday postponed to Sept. 18 action on claims for fees aggregating $81,500 filed with him by Calvin Fentress, receiver of the bankrupt Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., and various lawyers.

Referee Charles indicated that he will refuse to allow any more fees in the case until the liquidation of the concern is completed and that when allowed the fees will be contingent upon the amount recovered for creditors of the bankrupt investment trust.

Reports on Assets.

Harry A. Bigelow, who was appointed trustee in bankruptcy after Attorney Ettelson, on behalf of a group of holders of the corporation's debentures, had succeeded in preventing confirmation of the appointment of Receiver Fentress as trustee, submitted his first report and accounting to the referee.

His report showed that he received $406,076 in cash from the receiver, has since collected $18,740, and paid out $7,618, leaving a cash balance of $417,198. He reported other assets consisting of securities of a market value of two million dollars, exclusive of securities pledged with banks as collateral on loans. Against these assets are claims of approximately 90 million dollars, of which 60 million dollars are those of the holders of the company's debentures.

Asks Fees for Lawyers.

Receiver Fentress filed a petition for fees of $10,000 for his services in Chicago, and for $7,500 for his services as ancillary equity receiver in the federal District court in New York. He asked fees of $9,000 for Allen & Dalbey, and of $5,000 for Cassels, Potter & Bentley, his attorneys here, and of $10,000 for Hines, Rearick, Dorr & Hammond, his New York attorneys.

The original petitioning creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings asked $15,000 as a "further and partial" payment to their attorneys, Jacobson, Merrick, Nierman & Silbert, and White & Hawxhurst. Trustee Bigelow asked $25,000 as a partial payment on account to his attorneys, Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser. Then Attorney Ettelson arose.

"Mr. Fentress had no right to the office of receiver and therefore has no right to any fees," he declared. "The Supreme court has held that no person connected with a bankrupt estate can be its receiver or represent the receiver.

Objects to Legal Fees.

"As to Allen & Dalbey, I object to any payment to them until they are able to show that they had no connection with the Insull interests. I have no objection to the payment to Cassels, Bentley & Potter, because they entered the receivership proceedings at a later date.

"Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson and Harold D. White, who are asking $15,000 for their firms, have already been paid $12,000. They were part of the original setup and are not entitled to any fees now. At the time of the filing of the equity proceedings they already had four bankruptcy petitions pending. Either they were in collusion with the Insulls or else they were very astute lawyers, able to foresee just what was going to happen and when it was going to happen. I do not believe any one could have foreseen that without collusion.

"I have no objection to payments to Trustee Bigelow's lawyers, but I think the amount they ask is excessive."

Attorney White made an impassioned plea to Referee Charles for an immediate further payment to his firm and that of Attorney Jacobson, but was refused.

MARTIN INSULL BACK IN CANADIAN REFUGE; DENIES THAT HE FLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 23.—Rumors that Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities man, had jumped his $5,000 bond and skipped the country were dispelled today when Insull turned up at his rooming house here. He said he had "just been around the country."

A couple of days ago it was observed that Insull was absent from his home. When this report reached Toronto today it bounded back to Orillia in a flurry of inquiries by officials and newspapermen as to Insull's whereabouts. Insull's bond, written by the Maryland Casualty company, is surety for his appearance before Justice J. Courtney Kingstone at Toronto, who is hearing Illinois' plea for Insull's extradition on charges of embezzlement and larceny by bailee in connection with the collapse of the Middle West Utilities empire.

Insull's last appearance in the Toronto court was on June 30, when Justice Kingstone refused an application on Insull's behalf for a commission to go to Chicago and gather evidence for the defense. Insull entered an appeal on July 4 and his next hearing will come up in September.

THIEVES TAKE GIRL'S MUSIC; ASKS RETURN

Last Saturday was a day of contrasts for Miss Naomi A. Evans, teacher of English in the Wellington, Ill., High school. In the afternoon she was adjudged the "best woman singer" in THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival vocal contest. That evening a large part of her wardrobe and music was stolen from her car parked near the corner of Canal and Maxwell streets. Miss Evans took part in the Festival program in Soldiers' field.

In a letter to THE TRIBUNE C. W. Hinton, publisher of the Iroquois County Times of Watseka, Ill., which sponsored the entry of Miss Evans in the contest, inquires: "Would THE TRIBUNE ask the thieves to return the music to Miss Evans, as it represents a lifelong work and there are markings on the music which she cannot duplicate?"

ASSYRIAN REVOLT PUT DOWN, IRAQ INFORMS LEAGUE

GENEVA, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The foreign minister of the Iraq government said in a telegram received by the League of Nations today that an armed rebellion by Assyrian Christians, a sect known as supporters of Mar Shumon, had been completely suppressed.

The foreign minister denied that Iraq troops were using oppressive measures against villagers. He charged that the Assyrians had mutilated the dead and wounded and had killed some women and children.

(Recent dispatches from Iraq told of fighting in the northern part of that new country between Assyrian Christians and government soldiers, in which the casualties were said to be in excess of 600. The Assyrians charged that Iraq police had massacred hundreds of their number.)

TEACHERS' PAY DAY ASSURED BY SCHOOL BOARD

2 Weeks' Wages in Cash; More in Warrants.

who will be dismissed through the five million dollar economy program, for reabsorption in the school system as needed.

3. The board decided to broadcast a special pamphlet throughout the city to prove that the economy program is of benefit to the public and will not "wreck the schools" as has been charged by foes of the retrenchment.

4. The board achieved a complete victory for the economy program in the courts. Two bills for injunction to restrain the school trustees from carrying out their plans were dismissed in the Circuit and Superior courts.

Would Complete Buildings.

The plan of Mr. Bogan, if carried through to a successful conclusion, will mean the completion of school buildings which have been halted in various stages of construction during the last two years. Mr. Bogan explained that he had devised the plan after corresponding with Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Supt. Bogan told the school trustees that the amount needed would be between $8,000,000 and $12,000,000, depending on how far the board wanted to go. Completion of the ten major building projects of the school board would cost $10,500,000, but the superintendent suggested four new ones.

"If the borrowing of this amount of money were to interfere in any way with the school board's plan of obtaining cash from the national government to pay our teachers I should not be in favor of attempting the loan," Mr. Bogan told the trustees. "However, I believe that this is for a specific purpose and with our overcrowded situation Chicago needs the money for the schools."

Sees No Tax Increase.

"As I understand it, this would not mean any additional burden on the taxpayers," said Trustee Joseph P. Savage. "It would merely take care of obligations already incurred."

"That's correct," said Mr. Bogan. "The government would donate an outright gift of 30 per cent of the funds needed and lend the remaining 70 per cent."

"It seems to me that the people of Chicago," said Trustee Savage, "should get 2 or 3 millions of dollars for this purpose if other cities are going to get money for new schools. The taxpayers in this city are contributing to the cost of the federal government."

On the motion of Trustee Charles W. Fry the board instructed the superintendent to continue his plans and bring in a further report at the next meeting.

Bogan Outlines Plan.

As a preamble to his suggestion Mr. Bogan quoted the national industrial recovery act. He said that the loan to the board would be for a thirty year period of repayment and have an interest charge of 4 per cent. Advantages of the plan as outlined by the superintendent were as follows:

Relief of seat shortage; reduction of the emergency relief fund employés by reemploying large numbers of local building trades laborers; completion of buildings partially constructed before too great deterioration takes place; material saving to the board in the difference between a 6 per cent interest charge on tax anticipation warrants and 4 per cent on bonds to the government; donation of 30 per cent of the money.

Mr. Bogan pointed out that in 1932 the gross shortage in public school seats was 70,192. He then called attention to the board of education's better housing program which would eliminate 336 unhealthy portables, discontinue 70 half day session classes, and utilize the existing school plant as nearly as possible to its full capacity. Despite these measures, the superintendent said, seats would still be sorely needed.

Structures Badly Needed.

The 14 school structures which Mr. Bogan described as being sorely needed are as follows:

1. Senn High school addition at 5900 Glenwood avenue—95 per cent completed, would provide 1,680 seats.
2. Lane Technical High school at Addison street and Western avenue—80 per cent completed, would provide 6,191 seats.
3. Steinmetz High school at Barry and Melvina avenues—65 per cent completed, would provide 2,830 seats.
4. Phillips High school at 50th and State streets—30 per cent completed, would provide 2,664 seats.
5. Wells High school at Augusta street and Ashland avenue—20 per cent completed, would provide 2,650 seats.
6. Verdi High school at 56th and Rockwell streets—18 per cent completed, would provide 2,144 seats.
7. Rembrandt High school at 82d street and Essex avenue—5 per cent completed, would provide 1,536 seats.
8. Jamieson elementary school at Hollywood avenue and Mozart street—25 per cent completed, would provide 924 seats.
9. New high school at 108th street and Avenue H—1,536 seats.
10. New high school at 108th street and Avenue H—1,536 seats.
11. Leyden elementary school at Cornelia avenue and 74th court—1,116 seats.
12. Mount Greenwood elementary school at 108th street and Turner avenue—1,116 seats.
13. New elementary school at 42d street and Lake Park avenue—700 seats.
14. Riverdale branch elementary school at 133d street and Calumet avenue—300 seats.

The report pointed out in connection with the proposed new high school at Northcott and Hurlbut avenues, the Galileo Junior High school, only 5 per cent completed, would not be needed at this time. The same is true of the proposed high school at 108th street and Avenue H. The Dvorak Junior High school, only 1½ per cent completed, would be abandoned at present.

The board meeting room in the Builders' building at La Salle street and Wacker drive was crowded with teachers when the trustees filed in. It had been reported that action would be taken on a list of 1,271 teachers who were to be dismissed under the $5,000,000 school economy program. No mention of the list was made, however, and James B McCahey, president of the board, denied any knowledge of it.

The school trustees, on the recommendation of Mr. Bogan, voted to hold examinations for high school teaching certificates on Dec. 1 and 2 to give some of the teachers a chance to come back into the system. Only those teachers who were on the assigned list last June will be eligible.

"This is a good idea," said Trustee Savage, "and the examinations should be limited exclusively to those in our own service in the future."

Trustee Savage then declared that a large number of people had received a false impression of the effect of the board's economy program. He proposed that a pamphlet be compiled setting forth the details and workings of the program.

"The schools are no better than their reputation," asserted Trustee Savage. "I move that the president be authorized to spend the money needed to carry the honest information regarding the program to the parents and 500,000 school children."

The motion was passed, with Mrs. W. S. Hefferan voting against it.

"I vote no because I voted no on the economy program," explained Mrs. Hefferan, "and I can't consistently vote for the expenditure of money to elucidate that program."

"I'm tired of hearing a distorted version of the job we are doing," said Trustee Ernst Buehler.

Owners of Income Bearing Property Rapped by Jarecki

County Judge Jarecki said yesterday that the operation of the Kerner-Skarda act in his court for the last seventeen weeks had convinced him that it is the owners of income bearing properties and not small home owners who are tax strikers. Judge Jarecki yesterday appointed County Treasurer McDonough as receiver for 62 tax delinquent properties to enable him to collect a total of $207,422 in back taxes under the Skarda act.

"We are not collecting taxes quickly enough," Judge Jarecki told Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly, who is in charge of the state's attorney's tax collection department, "and we must put pressure on the owners of income bearing properties to make them pay. I will show them no leniency. The small home owner is not shirking his tax burden."

The judge announced that he would continue his drive against property owners who were falsifying their income figures to avoid the appointment of the treasurer as receiver.

The following list shows the properties ordered into receivership yesterday and the amount of taxes owed by each:

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $454,364. A total of $38,712,116 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follows:

	1928.	1929.
Aug. 23	$ 17,818	$ 33,159
Uncollected	18,147,044	48,609,021
	1930.	1931.
Aug. 23	$ 176,720	$ 236,667
Uncollected	76,269,330	104,034,299

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $11,271.

WIN COURT VICTORY

Earlier in the day the school board won a complete victory for its retrenchment plans in the courts.

In the case brought by John E. Groves, a teacher and lawyer, before Superior Judge Charles A. Williams, a motion to dismiss the bill for injunction to restrain the board from carrying out the program was granted. The motion was made by Edward G. Woods, attorney for a morning newspaper, who was aiding Groves. The day before Judge Williams had denied Woods' plea for a temporary injunction.

The school attorneys, Frank S. Righeimer, special counsel for the board, and Ralph Condee, assistant attorney, then went before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan to oppose another bill for an injunction brought by the Tax Service Association of Illinois. After hearing the arguments on both sides Judge Finnegan dismissed the bill for want of equity.

Seeks to Enjoin Suits.

When the tax group's plea for an injunction came up before Judge Finnegan, Attorney Allan J. Carter, representing the Principals' club in a suit now pending, appeared with a petition that other suits against the board be delayed. Attorney Carter argued that his case, on which Circuit Judge William V. Brothers denied a temporary injunction three weeks ago, should be given a full hearing before the others. Judge Finnegan announced that he would hear the case at 3 o'clock.

"I take exception to that order," said Carter.

"Then I deny your bill," replied Judge Finnegan, "and you can take exception to that."

Carter then announced that he would go to the Appellate court.

CHICAGO TEACHERS BARRED FROM PAY OUT OF RELIEF FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—There will be no federal unemployment relief funds turned over for the payment of Chicago teachers, C. M. Brookman, acting relief administrator, declared today. The ruling is not expected to interfere with plans for the sale of $40,000,000 worth of bonds by the Chicago school board to the federal government in order to finance pay rolls.

Use of relief funds for the salaries of unemployed teachers of rural schools that have been closed was approved yesterday by Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, before he left the capital to address the Kentucky legislature. Brookman said today that the restriction of funds to rural schools was going to be rigidly maintained.

Through another channel, however, Brookman indicated that relief funds might be used to give Chicago teachers employment. If classes to teach illiterate adults are formed in Chicago or any other city and if unemployed teachers are hired, relief funds may be turned over to pay their salaries, Brookman explained.

Postal Card Mailed 23 Years Ago Delivered

Veedersburg, Ind., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A postal card dated and mailed at Poplar Bluff, Mo., 23 years ago has just been delivered to Walter Marshall. The card was in perfect condition and the message, written in pencil, was legible. The card was addressed to Mrs. Mary Widener, who at that time was employed at the Marshall home. It was signed by Minerva Gillman, a niece of Mrs. Widener, and told of the birth of a daughter of Mrs. Gillman. Mrs. Widener died at Hoopston a year ago.

George E. Mesley, 55 years old, 5323 Washington boulevard, a traveling candy broker, died suddenly yesterday at Monroe and La Salle streets Mesley, according to the police, suffered an internal hemorrhage.

FREE POLICEMAN ON CHARGES OF BEATING AUTOIST

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday dismissed charges of assault and battery and larceny against Patrolman Walter J. Reimer, 34 years old, lockup-keeper in the Shakespeare avenue police station.

The complainant in the case was William Hinricksen, 1213 North Lombard avenue. He charged that on July 30, after he had been arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, Reimer tripped and kicked him and stole his purse, containing $196.

Policeman Philip Larson testified that he arrested Hinricksen at North and Crawford avenues, and that he suspected that he was intoxicated at the time, but only placed a charge of disorderly conduct against him when he became abusive at the station. Hinricksen was accompanied by his uncle, John Haar, who joined him in making the charges against Reimer.

Dr. T. S. Proud, who was called to examine Hinricksen in his cell, testified that he thought Hinricksen had been drinking. Hinricksen and Haar denied this, and when Haar declared that he had never drunk anything stronger than lemonade Judge Green declared that o far as he was concerned the statement impeached all of Haar's testimony.

RELIEVE HAY FEVER NEW SHORT-CUT WAY

Specialist* Neutralizes Pollen Poison Without Injections . . . Gets Amazing Results

Verifies Findings by Tests in Famous Medical University

AT last it seems that the long war on pollen poisoning is finally and decisively won!

And by a simple, yet revolutionary discovery that cuts away the long tedious process of pollen testing and injection, and acts directly on the one common histamine-like poison in the blood of hay fever victims, which science now points to as the new found basic, underlying cause of all allergic suffering.

A Complete Right About Face

"It is the histamine poisoning caused by pollens—not the pollens themselves—which is the underlying cause of hay fever suffering," reasoned the doctor who discovered Histeen.

Amazing New Facts

This specialist thoroughly believed in the theory newly advanced by medical science that all allergic diseases (hay fever, hives, etc.) result directly from a poisonous histamine-like substance found in the blood in excess amounts. Histamine is a poisonous end-product of protein—and all pollens are protein. Regardless of what pollens the patient was sensitive to, science has found that the histamine-like substance was always present.

Finds a Quick Neutralizer

After two and a half years of research, the doctor developed a compound which acts with amazing directness to counteract histamine poisoning. Unparalleled relief was obtained in scores of hay fever and other allergic cases. Tests were conducted in the laboratories of a famous medical university to verify his discovery.

Already Histeen is bringing marvelous relief to hay fever sufferers who never hoped to have such freedom. Never before has there been such evidence that the final answer to hay fever suffering has been found . . . The relief that has been demonstrated in hay fever and related allergic cases is astounding—not only prompt, but thorough. So rapid in some cases that relief appeared in the first few minutes; so thorough that all apparent symptoms had disappeared.

Convenient Tablet Form

Now, after two and one-half years of testing, Histeen is in your drug store. It is in convenient tablet form, taken internally, and is complete in itself without the use of sprays, gargles, salves or any other assistance. There is approximately a week's supply in each bottle.

Get it today—just ask your druggist for Histeen. $1.00 a bottle.

NOTE: Hives, rose fever and urticaria are all "allergic" diseases, like hay fever, and also are accompanied by excess histamine. Consequently, Histeen, which combats histamine, is as effective in these diseases as in hay fever.

STONE OF ALAMO BECOMES PART OF TRIBUNE TOWER

Historic Symbol Dedicated on Texas Day at Fair.

The placing of a stone from the Alamo in the façade of Tribune Tower, a neighbor there of symbols from other historic structures, was commemorated yesterday as a feature of Texas day at the World's Fair.

It was a commemoration rather than a dedication, for, in the words of Peter Molyneaux, Texas editor and historian:

"It may be said, as Lincoln said of the Gettysburg battlefield, that we cannot dedicate or consecrate anything from the Alamo. The men who died within the walls from which this stone came made every inch of them sacred."

Texans Attend Ceremony.

Several hundred Texas visitors to the Fair, and many other Texans now living in Chicago, attended the ceremony. Mayor Kelly welcomed them and there was a brief address by Augustine de Zavala, whose grandfather, Lorenzo de Zavala, was provisional vice president of the de facto republic when the Alamo fell, and acted as interpreter for Gen. Sam Houston and the tyrant Santa Anna at San Jacinto.

Acknowledgment of the placing of the stone from the historic mission-fortress at San Antonio was made on behalf of the people of Texas by Mr. Molyneaux. He declared it especially fitting that the ceremony should be made a part of Texas day at A Century of Progress, for these reasons:

"In spite of all the marvels which the past century has brought into being, it has provided no instance of human heroism and sacrifice comparable to that of the Alamo. And it may be said that whatever progress has been achieved in Texas, or in the other states west of the Sabine, would have been impossible without the sacrifice of the Alamo. The Alamo was an indispensable link in the chain of events which ultimately carried the American flag from the old Louisiana line to the Pacific coast."

Supreme Instance of Heroism.

Mr. Molyneaux called the stand at the Alamo by 170 Texans under Col. William S. Travis one of the supreme instances in history which "set before us the awesome and almost incomprehensible fact that men can and do sacrifice life itself for intangible and insubstantial things—things which have only an ideal existence—and yet things which human loyalty and devotion have rendered holy."

He read the dispatches of Col. Travis to prove the realization on the part of the men that to remain there meant certain death. Travis' words were:

"The enemy have demanded a surrender at discretion; otherwise the garrison are to be put to the sword. I have answered the demand with a cannon shot."

To military critics who have called the defense of the Alamo against 4,000 men, when the Texans might have escaped with their lives, a needless and futile sacrifice, Mr. Molyneax replies that no one has disputed the magnificent heroism displayed. It is upon this latter circumstance that we should meditate on such an occasion today, he declared.

Explains Placing of Stone.

Mr. Molyneaux spoke of the motive which impelled THE TRIBUNE to obtain the stone from the Alamo.

"Undoubtedly," he said, "it was to symbolize the dedication of this great newspaper to the ideal of ordered liberty for which the martyrs of the Alamo died. THE TRIBUNE has long been known as an outstanding defender of the freedom of the press, and there is hardly need that it be rededicated to that cause. But the press must ever justify its freedom by untiringly defending and maintaining all the other liberties of the people that are involved in the ideal of ordered liberty for which the martyrs of the Alamo died.

"This sacred stone should be an ever present reminder of this fact."

Holmes Onderdonk expressed the gratification of THE TRIBUNE for the presentation of the stone and said that among those pieces in the façade from celebrated buildings and shrines throughout the world none is more cherished than the stone from the Alamo.

BRITAIN WEIGHS PLAN TO SEIZE SLUM DISTRICTS

Expropriation Is Urged in Housing Program.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Expropriation, nothing less, is being urged upon the British government as the final means of eradicating the squalor of the country's overcrowded tenements.

The government is now considering the recommendations, made by an official committee which investigated housing conditions in Britain under the ministry of health. If legislation based on the committee's report is brought into parliament this fall, half the residential quarters of many districts will come under the thumb of the government, which will then be able to do with the owners as it likes.

A new organization would be set up in the shape of a "central public utility council" which would act "to promote and supervise, in conjunction with the minister of health, the work of acquiring, reconditioning, and managing working class properties."

Government to Be Referee.

The term "working class housing" crops up throughout the report. It means the dwellings of workers such as miners, textile mill laborers, and dockyard hands. So far as the report indicates, the government would decide whether a particular residential district would be liable for confiscation.

The broad scheme set out by the committee would vest the financing of the project in the minister of health. He, in turn, would call upon the national debt commissioners for any funds needed. A special housing loan is also considered as a part of the plan.

Having established the financial machinery, the government would then set out to repair, buy up, rebuild, and, in many cases, to manage a large part of the British housing system. This management is deemed necessary because many landlords, although already compelled by law to maintain their premises in habitable condition, fail to do so through local maladministration.

Give Landlords "Last Chance."

Landlords still willing to turn over a new leaf would be allowed to keep their property on stipulated conditions. These are that voluntary programs for improvement be submitted and that local authorities see that all promises are carried out.

For those landowners whose property would be expropriated under the scheme a schedule of remunerations has been devised. They would receive alternatively what they themselves paid for the property, the value accepted for death duties had they just inherited it, or the value accepted under the British stamp duties had they just received it as a gift.

Compulsory powers of purchase would be conferred upon the local authorities. Where possible, however, the right would be exercised by approved "public utility societies" or local organizations.

COUNTY OFFICERS RUN A PAPER AND MAKE IT SHOW PROFIT

Brewster, Neb., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Blaine county commissioners are proud of their record as operators of a weekly newspaper, the Brewster News. They made it earn a profit.

County Clerk Elmer N. Demarry's record today showed the county operated the property for 10 months at a profit of more than $500.

In February, 1932, the Brewster State bank closed and for security on its funds the county had notes. One of these was for $3,000 by P. C. Erickson, then owner of the paper. The county took the News in exchange for the note.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES.

An article in the Paris Temps implies that the American naval building plans of the present administration are responsible for the increase of Japanese naval appropriation and foreshadow another naval building competition. The Temps frequently expresses views which the French government holds or wishes to give currency and its words are therefore taken more seriously than those of the run of French newspapers. Whether this naval article is inspired or not it deserves attention from the American public for more reasons than one. It is not the first indication that in some quarters in Europe serious friction between Tokio and Washington would not be regretted. There is an obvious tendency to exploit rumors and to hint at possibilities or even predict clashes which, though they do not pierce American popular indifference to our foreign relations, can be used in Japan by any part of the press disposed to take advantage of them to excite anxiety or hostility.

The Temps article is of interest to us also as an incorrect and unfair statement of the situation. It does not let its readers know that the United States stopped building for several years until its relative position fell far below the treaty ratio assigned to it, and, in fact, until in important categories not limited when the Washington treaty was agreed upon, we are below the strength of Japan. Owing to this abstention in auxiliary ships —that is, all ships except battleships, in which category there has been no new building by any of the treaty powers—Japan passed us in 1931-'32, and if this drift continues the ratios of the United States, Japan, and Great Britain at the expiration of the London treaty, Dec. 31, 1936, will be 10, 12, and 13.2 in the order given.

This is only one phase of the situation and probably the least important. The Temps article in implying that we are responsible for recent Japanese naval building not only ignores relative building but the fact that at Washington we surrendered our right to establish new naval bases in the western Pacific, with the result, which the Temps perfectly well understands, that a naval offense by the United States against Japan is impossible if not indeed the protection of our trade and communications in Asiatic waters.

French bad feeling toward the United States has been apparent since soon after the collapse of the armies of the central powers. We must take this into account in the formulation of our defense policies and programs.

Our relations with Japan are not as easy as the fundamental interests of both countries ought to make them, and we cannot be blind to the fact that recent developments in Japan have not ameliorated them. But the task of our statesmen is, we think, not an impossible one. It calls for tact with candor and firmness. Peace can be maintained if the major and lasting interests of both nations are permitted to direct their policies. Weakness and indecision on the part of Washington will endanger peace no less than unrestrained ambition and belligerence in the government at Tokio. The United States has given Japan substantial assurance of its peaceful intentions, although its ingenuous and inept diplomacy has caused irritation and offense to the Japanese. The failure of Mr. Stimson's experimentation has injured our influence in the far east, but it should not be aggravated by any course of policy which will give the impression of weakness and we are glad to find evidence that this present administration is not inclined to follow such a course.

We can easily blunder into trouble with Japan, but a self-respecting maintenance of national defense will not produce it, provided our policy is thoroughly clarified. The United States has legitimate interests in the Pacific which Japan will respect if the willingness and the ability of our government to protect them are made manifest at all times. The Japanese minister of war, Gen. Araki, perhaps the most powerful official in Japan at this time, has just said, in an article published through the Associated Press, that he "sees no serious question likely to cause conflict between us." Certainly war between Japan and the United States would be a calamity to both countries and to the civilized world, but it need not occur or even be threatened if our statesmen are competent.

SPADES VS. STEAM SHOVELS.

When the civilian conservation corps started its work of constructing a lagoon in the Skokie no machinery was used. All the digging was done by hand with picks and shovels. Now some machinery has been obtained and both the officers and men want more of it. One of the men was heard to say, "We could make a lot better showing with some big excavators."

That remark was a significant one because it demonstrated that the morale of the corps is excellent. Men who regarded the conservation camp as nothing more than a means of getting three meals a day and a place to sleep would not care whether they had machines to help them or not. They would not be interested in the goal toward which they were working or whether they ever reached it. On the contrary, the more slowly the work progressed the better they would be pleased.

The remark was significant for another reason. It indicated that Americans cannot think of physical work except in terms of power machinery. The backward-looking sentimentalists who promise to prevent depressions by restricting the use of labor-saving machinery have made no impression upon American thinking even in the sections of the population which might be expected to respond most readily to the argument. Americans believe that it is desirable to sweat while playing games and desirable to avoid sweating as much as possible while at work.

As long as this feeling persists it will be useless to insert in the various trade codes any provisions restricting the installation of improved machinery. You will have to search a long time to find an American who regards a spade as a more desirable digging instrument than a steam shovel or Mr. Gandhi's spinning wheel as anything but a silly anachronism.

GOV. SMITH'S WARNING.

One of the writers of Washington gossip has listed former Gov. Smith among the Democrats whose star these days is in the descendant. That may or may not be true as respects the influence which he wields in Washington; but it can safely be said that at no time in his career has he been more highly regarded by the great mass of his fellow countrymen and at no time has his thinking been clearer or his advice sounder.

These observations are prompted by Mr. Smith's remarkable radio address of Tuesday evening. It is no secret that Mr. Smith was unsympathetic with many of the measures which together constitute the New Deal. He discussed them weeks ago with great candor in his magazine, the New Outlook. But, like the vast majority of Americans, Mr. Smith is more than willing today to give the program the benefit of doubt and to join whole-heartedly in support of the President. His position, it need scarcely be said, is that of ninety-nine in every hundred citizens. They, too, are more than willing, they are eager, to do all in their power to assure a successful outcome of the great experiment in economic reconstruction. Many like Mr. Smith, questioned the wisdom of some of the measures and it would be folly to pretend that there is anything like unanimity now in intellectual acceptance of the program; but there is virtual unanimity in the desire to give it a fair trial.

Mr. Smith was no less in touch with the sentiments of the people when with his fine spirited appeal for loyal coöperation with the President he warned against use of threats and violence as a means of bringing about acceptance of the Roosevelt program. Coercion is superfluous because every one is eager to coöperate to the best of his ability. It is worse than superfluous, for nothing is so likely to alienate support as the application of Ku Klux methods.

"Threats, intimidation, compulsion, boycotts, blacklists and suppression of opinion were never contemplated by the national recovery act and therefore have no rightful place in this picture," he said. "The American people can be persuaded by a patriotic appeal; they can be led so long as it is clear that those who lead them are, in the last analysis, public servants and not dictators; but they cannot be driven."

That is sound advice. It comes from a man with an instinctive understanding of the minds and motives of the American people. There are some misdirected enthusiasms among the agents of the reconstruction program which if not corrected and restrained will produce a revulsion that will defeat it. The ideal of the President, which the nation shares and will support, is coöperation, not compulsion. We are still and intend to remain a free people. The spirit of individual sacrifice, if necessary to the common weal, the spirit of good will and coöperation in a common effort to solve our common problems, is the soul of recovery. It will not be inspired by threats and hasty condemnations.

Editorial of the Day

A DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

Behind the story of Cuba's new freedom from terror and the restoration of true government is the story of one of the finest diplomatic triumphs the United States has ever won.

The situation in the island republic was far more critical as regards this nation than most of our people realized. It was one which involved not only Cuba but the entire Latin peoples and nations.

The administration's entire program of Pan-American trade revival and a restoration of friendly relations and understandings with the neighboring republics to the south hung in the balance.

President Roosevelt had announced the position of this republic as that of a friendly neighbor. New treatics were negotiated looking to the removal of all troops from Latin American republics where we have had armed protectorates.

Sumner Welles, our ambassador to Cuba, went into a situation which former administrations had left untouched. And it was one which needed touching if the interests of humanity and the Cuban nation were to be protected. Past administrations had sustained the rule of President Gerardo Machado, which was a ruthless and cruel dictatorship opposed by an almost unanimous people.

Ambassador Welles approached the problem with courage and with understanding. His attitude met the approval of the Cuban public. But when it became apparent that he was not to be swayed by the ruling government, to which he gave full recognition as he carried on his negotiations, Machado rejected the mediation proposal and attempted to discredit Welles, and undoubtedly sought to force the armed intervention of the United States. It was his hope to actually oppose this intervention temporarily with the view of appealing to all Latin America.

Welles stood calmly on his first proposal. A less intelligent and less courageous man would have been stampeded into hasty action. He had the situation well in hand at all times. As a result Cuba was freed of a tyrannical and murderous rule which had all but wrecked the nation.

Under the direction of Manuel de Cespedes Cuba is to go forward economically and nationally. The future of the nation is now brighter than it has been for many years.

And back of it is the story of Sumner Welles, American ambassador, who did more with his experience and ability and courage than America has been able to do in previous experiences of a similar nature with the aid of men and guns. It is a diplomatic triumph and one of which the nation may justly be proud as pointing toward a real new deal in our relations with Latin America.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE FLAMBEAU.

There's a winding stream in the Great North Woods where the pines fringe the water's brink,
And a narrow trail through the silences where the doe comes down to drink.
There's a place where the wily "musky" lurks and the black bass leaps and plays,
And over it all the golden glow of dreamy Autumn days.

There's the singing ripple on rock and shore and shadows where pools are still—
From the silent woods there comes the cry of a wild bird, plaintive, shrill.
There comes the drumming of partridges, and at night the wailing loon,
When there swings low down in the Northern Sky
the ghostly Harvest Moon.

There's the paddle's dip and the light canoe that glides on the silent stream,
And the stories told by "Flambeau Joe" in the campfire's cheery gleam.
There's the wild free life that drowns the strife and the greed of the endless fray,
There in the peace of the Great North Woods—
where the Flambeau winds away.

Badger Bill.

A UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE HAS modified some former injunction to allow tanners to negotiate collectively for an NRA code. We don't see why it's a court matter or why tanners need a code, but if they're determined to have it we'd like to suggest from our Florida experience they limit their working hours, especially for the first few days.

Last winter a lady visitor from Evanston in Fort Lauderdale acquired a beautiful brown skin, but was distressed because there were white lines on the skin where shoulder straps of her abbreviated bathing suit protected. Her evening gown did not correspond in pattern to the bathing costume; therefore the protected area presented an annoying contrast to the tanned area.

So milady wandered down the beach a mile or so one day, erected on the sand a barricade of the prevalent windshields, allowing Old Sol to work three hours on his al fresco subject. Several days later the attending physician said milady might leave her bed of oiled sheetings, since blood poisoning had been quelled, and try to sit up if the pain from the sunburn was not too great. We therefore urge careful consideration of hours of labor in this tanning code.

WHERE HAS CHIVALRY WENT?

Dear Harve: Isn't it just too bad men can't accustom themselves to women having a few privileges? Mr. X. kissed Mrs. Z. and Mrs. X., the good sport, said, "The affair is just too silly," but Mr. Z., because he thought Mrs. Z. enjoyed the kiss and returned it, got himself angry and produced artillery. Now, the modern gentlemanly attitude for Mr. Z. to have taken would have been to retire gracefully from the scene murmuring softly: "I'm glad, my dear, you are having such a pleasant evening." Aren't some men brutes? V. C. R.

THEY'LL REACH THAT LATER.

HTW: Has any one stopped to consider how the wages of sin will be affected by the code?

INEQUITABLE.

A pity, you who love the canvases of Claude Monet
Should drive a garbage wagon all the day;
And you, poor shattered birdman, that your eyes
Should scan the spots on a speakeasy's dice;
You with your lapidary's fingers that have wrought
Cuttings of gems that kings and queens have sought,
God knows your customers do not deserve
To have your thumb dipped in the soup you serve;
You and a million others who have failed,
Been mocked and scorned and starved and sometimes jailed,
No wonder you are bitter at Life's show
Where foreign bootleggers get all the dough!

HOT WEATHER RAIMENT.

THE type of clothing which is most comfortable in hot weather depends very much upon one's occupation. The stoker who works around open fires and away from observation knows that he should wear no clothing over his chest and abdomen. He is working in an atmosphere that is considerably hotter than his bodily temperature. His muscles are making much heat. Since the air around him is very dry, his method of getting rid of his surplus heat is limited to evaporation. If he wears no clothing the hot, dry air has the maximum ability to reach the sweat on his skin and, by evaporating some of it, to remove some excess heat from the body. The worker could further increase his comfort by wearing nothing save a breechclout and sandals.

Ball players almost universally wear woolen garments, and fairly heavy ones at that. Their work is done in the hot afternoon in the sunlight. The amount of exertion expected of them is very uneven. Except the pitchers and catchers, the players have periods of great activity and others of relative inactivity. All, including the pitchers and catchers, sit on the players' bench for about one-half of the time of the game.

They might be more comfortable if, while very active, they were dressed in breechclouts and sandals. But the patrons of the game might not like that, and then there are the considerable periods of inactivity that enter into the question. Experience has taught them that when very actively exercising in the sun on a hot afternoon they are best off when they wear rather heavy garments capable of absorbing sweat and preventing the sunlight from reaching the skin.

People who must be in the sunlight in very hot weather should recognize the disadvantage of wearing dark garments, because they absorb heat from light. The coolest wear for those who work in the sun on hot days, other things being equal, are white garments. There being no other inequalities, a baseball team that wears white uniforms should beat one that dresses in blue.

The man who strolls down a sunny street should likewise dress in white, or as near it as dirty air will allow. For the inactive man the lighter the weight and the more open the weave, the more comfortable is his clothing. Air must be able to blow through the fabric and displace the hot air next the skin. If the day is a warm one and the temperature of the air is 95 or over, no heat can be removed except by evaporation. Light weight, open weave garments promote evaporation. The principal reason for the heating effects of woolen garments over cotton is the fact that wool traps more air than cotton. Woolen garments may not be very uncomfortable in hot weather if they are very loosely woven and if their weight is kept down.

The number of garments worn is a matter of importance. Between an outer garment and the one beneath there is considerable dead air. Dead air is a good insulator. Thoroughly wet undergarments are liable to be quite hot. Water fills the meshes of the weave and prevents air from reaching the skin.

TRY USING PREVENTION.

C. writes: Is there any quick way of sobering up a drunk? I have a friend with a tendency to get drunk at unfortunate moments. He doesn't pass out, but he gets visibly sodden and slowed down in speech and action. I've tried making him take cold baths and drink black coffee and take exercise, but the sobering effects are terribly slow. Food works, but also slowly. Is there any way to snap him out of it in, say, half an hour or an hour?

REPLY.

Have you tried aromatic spirits of ammonia? Have him drink milk. Emptying the stomach and washing it out is the best procedure. Of course, prevention is far better than cure.

MINORITY A DEFENSE.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago I bought a share of stock in an automobile club on the installment plan. After paying half of the purchase price I found it impossible to continue payments. At the time I signed the contract I was 20 years of age. 1. Is the contract enforceable? 2. Can I be forced to pay the balance? 3. Can the contract be voided by me? 4. If so, must the corporation return to me the payments I have made? A. F.

1. No, in the sense that your minority if properly proved in court would be a defense. We assume that you have not expressly or impliedly ratified the contract on coming of age.
2. No.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last year a dear friend of mine died, leaving a will, willing me two insurance policies amounting to about $3,000. All his bills were to be paid out of this, funeral expenses, etc. Not knowing there was an inheritance tax against this, I paid several large bills. Now I am informed that I will have to pay inheritance tax. 1. Will I have to pay on the total amount? Or on what is left after I pay all his just debts? 2. What is the rate of inheritance tax? M. G.

1. If the insurance was payable to his estate and then given to you by will, it would be only the net gift to you that would be taxable.
2. Depends on the size of the gift.

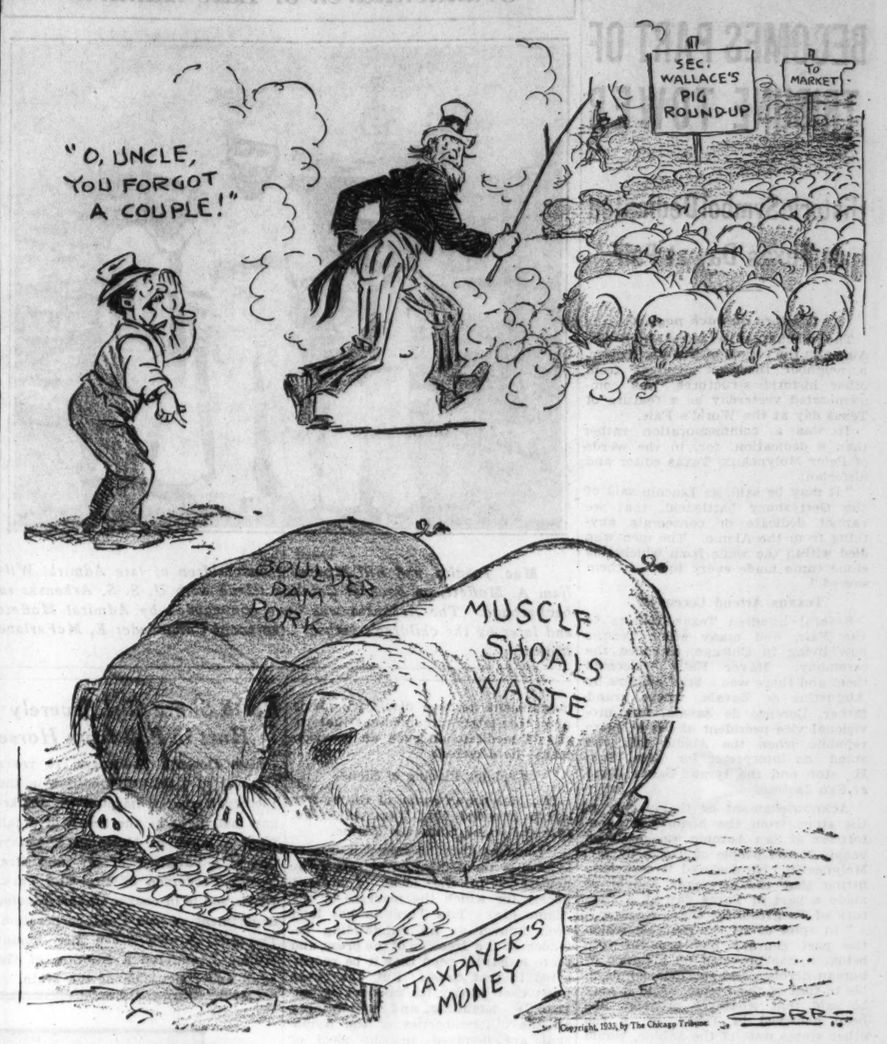
PIGS IS PIGS



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 24, 1917.

HOUSTON, Tex. — Twelve white men were slain and scores of persons —men, women, and children—were wounded in a race riot which raged for more than an hour at Camp Logan, which is being prepared for the training of the Illinois division of the National Guard for service in France. The number of Negro dead is not known, but it is believed several bodies will be found in and around the camp of the Twenty-fourth United States infantry, a Negro regiment, members of which started the riot. Capt. J. W. Mattes of battery A, Second Illinois field artillery, of Chicago, was shot to death while trying to quiet Negro soldiers who were firing on soldiers and civilians. He was scalped, his body was mutilated, and his right arm was cut off and chopped with bayonets. It was stated that seventy-five Negro troopers, heavily armed, were still at large this morning. Members of a company of the Eighth Illinois infantry, Chicago's Negro regiment, fought alongside of the white soldiers in camp, trying to quell the Negro rioters. Hundreds of civilians, armed with rifles, shotguns, and revolvers, quickly gathered about the camp. The mob spirit spread to Houston proper and armed whites began holding street meetings and parades through the business district. Many shots were fired. The mob grew to thousands. Negroes, carrying small bundles of their personal effects, began hurrying to the depots, fearing a repetition of the slaughter at East St. Louis, Ill. The trouble started when a policeman tried to arrest a Negro woman near the camp of the Twenty-fourth United States infantry.

WAR SUMMARY.—Russians were pressed back from their line in front of Riga. Berlin admits a French gain in the Verdun sector and slight British gains near Ypres and Lens. Italians claim gains on the northern and southern wings on the Isonzo front.

REWARDS FOR CRIMINALS.

Geneva, Ill., Aug. 19.—Like multitudes of Illinois readers of THE TRIBUNE I follow the daily reports of the judges' war against crime with great interest. Some progress is being made. And I am encouraged by the frequent editorial expressions of THE TRIBUNE relative to society and its attitude toward crime. Pictures are given today of four women on their way to the women's prison at Dwight, two of the four accomplices of murderers.

But is it generally known that the prison at Dwight is a mansion house of indolence and luxury for the prisoners confined there? It is reported that this prison was built at a cost of $10,000 per inmate held there. How many tax payers of Illinois live in dwellings costing $10,000 for each member of the family, $50,000 for a family of five? Yet the state department of public welfare houses murderers and other criminals in this fashion.

Moreover, the criminals at Dwight are provided with fine quarters and furniture, light and heat, picture shows and other entertainment, recreations of various sorts, the services of beauty parlors, the services of nurses, physicians, dentists, surgeons, and others free of cost, except to the honest taxpayers. These criminals are provided with expensive food, good clothing, and many other advantages, newspapers, magazines, books, and so forth, for which honest people have to pay.

This policy prevails in somewhat similar degree at all of the state penal and reformatory institutions. Is it right, while honest people have to work [if they can get work] or depend on charity, for the state department of public welfare to subsidize criminality through the policy of supporting criminals in idleness and luxury? Porter W. Clemons.

YES AND NO.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Will you and your readers answer me this question? Did nature intend a woman to be a fan dancer? Lorraine Lux.

CESPEDES.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—May I be allowed space to disagree with the findings of your reporter, as published on Aug. 15, regarding the pronunciation of the last name of the new president of Cuba.

In unmodified Castilian, Cespedes would be Thess-pethes—each "e" sounded not as "ay" but as in English "pet;" the first "th" as in English "thin," the second between the sound of "d" and that of "th" in "although." Presumably an accent is written over the first syllable, for otherwise the second or penultimate syllable would receive the accent.

It is important to note that throughout Latin America the Castilian accent is regarded as affected or stilted—as is the London accent in the United States.

My conclusion is that for Americans the pronunciation of Cespedes would be "Cess-pe-thes"—with accent on the first syllable. R. Fuller.

TURTLES AS SOUVENIRS.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Many complaints are being made to humane organizations relative to the shipment of tiny, live, gilded turtles to all parts of the country, as souvenirs of A Century of Progress.

May I ask visitors to our city not to send these tiny reptiles through the mails? The packing boxes are not particularly strong, and many of the creatures will die en route. The stores are full of many other attractive articles which will prove far more pleasing to the recipient as a reminder of the Fair than a dead turtle. E. C. Dow.

PICKING ON THE RICKSHA BOYS.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 9.—What, O what will become of the collegiate ricksha coolies who have disported [or should I say distorted] their educational talents at the Chicago World's Fair? Will they be reduced to beggary and hunger, or will they have sufficient intelligence [and strength] left to grasp the opportunity of emigrating to China, where, I understand, there is a golden harvest for human hosses? F. O. Dunham.

MAKE ARMY QUIT SELLING BEER, PANAMA TO U. S.

Demands More Favorable Canal Treaty.

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Aug. 23.—Ricardo J. Alfaro, minister to Washington, is putting up a battle for a new treaty and rumors are current here that unless the United States relents in its attitude, President Harmodio Arias has instructed Alfaro to present a letter of recall.

Panama protests that the United States owned Panama railroad is raising its real estate rentals without paying any taxes; that canal commissaries are ruining Panamanian business by selling such things as Doulton china, Indian silks, and Chinese rugs; that the canal's purchases of beef from Cuba has ruined the cattle business of the Panama republic, and that the importation of duty free American beer for the army and navy posts has retarded the business of the three local breweries.

Appeals to Roosevelt.

Victor Florencio Goytia, editor of Panama's oldest evening paper, El Diario, came out with the statement that Alfaro was about to be recalled and that relations between the two countries had been broken. This was ridiculed by the American legation here as well as the president of Panama.

However, Goytia, upon being called before the mayor of the city to give an explanation of his article, stood by his guns and insisted that there was a serious misunderstanding between the two countries. He said that he had received a cable from his Washington correspondent intimating that Alfaro had been requested to present Panama's case directly to President Roosevelt.

The Panama railroad was taken over when the canal enterprises were bought from the French in 1903. The railroad owns considerable real estate and operates two hotels, tax free.

U. S. Pays $250,000 Annuity.

On the other hand Uncle Sam pays Panama each year $250,000 and unquestionably real estate values here have risen owing to the presence of the canal and the army and navy.

Regarding the beer question, one large local brewery, which until recently had the beer monopoly, has loaned the Panama government considerable sums and in return has received protection in the matter of heavy tariffs against imported beer. This duty, of course, does not apply to the Canal Zone. Now with the 3.2 American beer on the market the commissaries handle it in competition with the numerous saloons which all pay heavy taxes to the government.

Carthage Holds Quiet Celebration of Its 100th Birthday; Contrast with Chicago

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carthage, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Carthage is holding a centennial celebration of its own this week, but it is quite a different affair from that gaudy and wonderful show up at Chicago. The approach there, especially at night, is breath-taking. Here all is quiet and reassuring; ancient and beautiful things come forth. The corn fields wrap it in peace. The great elms shelter it from the August sun. The locusts by day and the crickets by night furnish an incidental lullaby.

"Where is their exposition?" the visitor wants to know.

There is a tall Ferris wheel in the courthouse square and ring tossing barkers are shouting of their wonderful ten cent prizes. But this, the visitor is hastily assured, is not the show.

"All Around Town."

"It is all around town," says Mayor George Hearne, whose cool undertaking parlor is the meeting place for the centennial committee.

Just to walk around town is everybody's advice. The town is the show. Look at the people, the houses, the shop windows, the churches and schools. It might be called the idyll of an American town. The sign on the main road says Pop. 2,240, but Charles S. Tyler, town jeweler, says the population is 2,600. However, there is not much to brag about.

The roads are dusty outside the courthouse square, where all life centers. They run into tall corn fields in every direction. There are seven churches, public schools, high school, and Carthage college.

Many years ago Louis Stevenson and his family, journeying out of New England by way of the great lakes, stopped at Chicago and then came on to Carthage, looking for a place to settle. He decided that Carthage was the better place and would make greater opportunities in the world for his family. They remained here and his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Kirkpatrick, still lives in the old house.

Log Cabin Still Stands.

The Adolphus Cherrill residence, built in 1852, still houses the grandson and his family. There is the Wesley Williams log cabin, where the first white child was born in 1833, the year that the city was incorporated. The Davidsons, owners of the Carthage Republican, established in 1863, still live at Gospel Four Corners and run the old paper. It was J. W. Davidson, the founder, who first campaigned for sidewalks in town. There are no factories, and only two trains a day on branch line railroads.

"I don't know just what there is in the way of progress," said Judge Charles J. Scofield, Hancock county historian and a philosopher of the courthouse square.

"Farming is easier, but we still have to plant corn and depend on earth and sun. The doctors are no better than they were 50 years ago. The old general practitioner was hard to beat.

They "Killed Joe Smith."

"This county has always had a superior bar, but the lawyers of the old days were as good if not better than those of today. Schooling is more abundant, but I don't know as the product is any better. Politics is about the same. I remember things since 1865. We killed Joe Smith, the Mormon prophet, in the old jail here, but that is nothing to brag about.

"Life goes on about the same. People live and die. Don't know that they are any happier. The children are the same. They grow up and live their lives and one night the moon looks out on the garden and they are not there any more, as the Persian poet said. That is about all."

One of the main events of the centennial yesterday was a pets parade. The high school band, led by a strutting girl drum major, escorted all the children and their pets around the town square. There were ponies, dogs, cats and kittens, roosters, goats, sheep, and even a tiny turtle. Everybody turned out to see the show and the prize ceremony.

Run Without Money.

This is one centennial celebration that is being run without money. Nobody gets a salary and every one contributes. The Baptist church ladies have a quilt display. Carthage alumni chapter of Pi Beta Phi has an exhibit of rare shawls in the W. K. Hill home.

All the merchants are showing antiques. W. P. Bartels has his wonderful carved furniture on exhibit in the Smith paint shop. It was shown at the 1893 exposition in Chicago. The centerpiece is a picture frame in which rests a portrait of the artist's mother, an old German lady, reading a book. It is called "An Hour from Care," and many people think it a study equal to that of Whistler's famous mother.

Undisturbed by Chicago.

As county seat and center of legal and political talent, Carthage has pursued the even tenor of its way, undisturbed even by the greatness of Chicago, which it once surpassed in prospect.

"The only trouble is that everybody wants to go up to that Exposition," said Miss Mary Newcomer, secretary of the Alumni Association of Carthage College and also a leader in centennial activities. "They may not have much money, but they all have gasoline to go up there, as they call the Fair."

"What is the chief attraction at this centennial?" she was asked.

"Why, it is just Carthage. This is a good place to live. That is all."

It takes some digging under the surface to find the far flung influence of Carthage. There is a Carthage club in Chicago, another in Los Angeles. People write lovingly about the old home town. The things they learned here, the ideals they were taught, influenced their whole lives. An unchanging community in a bewildering world of change, it stands as a rock in many lives. Seven thousand have gone out from the old Lutheran college. The Missionary Union has reached across the seas.

Recollections of Lincoln.

There are recollections of Lincoln and Lee and John Hay. A part of the old Northwest Territory, drawing its settlers from New England and the near south, it has remained a distinctly American community. The old prairies where the forefathers hunted buffalo, deer, and wolves still support it. Wars have touched it lightly. Even the depression has waved its dark waves against a rock here, for the neighbors and friends help those in trouble and there is always food enough. Many farmers have become renters, but the countryside looks the same.

One of the chief places of interest to strangers is the old stone jail, two blocks away from the courthouse where Joseph and Hyrum Smith were shot and killed by a mob on June 27, 1844. The Mormons had crossed the Mississippi from Missouri in 1838-'39 to establish their new Zion at the pleasant land of Nauvoo, twenty miles away.

Indicted for Treason.

Their success in building a thriving colony, their political methods and other practices aroused resentment and jealousy among the people of the county and a war against them was carried on until they were driven to seek a new home in the far west. In the course of this war the two Smiths and other leaders were brought to Carthage for safekeeping in the jail. They were under indictment for treason and the Carthage Grays were detailed to protect them.

Joseph Smith was shot as he laned out of the jail window, his body falling outside. Hyrum was killed by a bullet through the door which is still shown. Marks of the battle are on the stone walls and bloodstains on the floor of the room where Hyrum died. It is a place of pilgrimage to the Mormons and the bloodstains are said to be miraculously renewed, so that they never wear out. The caretaker says she washed the spot many times, even using lye, but the dark stains remain.

Town Has Many Visitors.

Carthage has many visitors these days. Some come in horse and buggy, but the hitching rails around the square are crowded with autos. The carnival does a good business, but the churches and schools draw bigger crowds. Teachers' institute, American Legion, 4-H club, and other activities feature the celebration. A pageant of history is arranged by the citizens, who ransack garrets and old homes for costumes and relics.

The dancing girl show down on the square had to close last night because there was no patronage.

The town is noted for its musical talent and has a big Mandelssohn choir. The churches have always dominated the town politically and it has been dry for many years. Three beer saloons have recently been licensed and are doing a rushing business, which may be a sign of progress or not, as one looks at these things.

SAY CHINA USES U. S. LOAN TO BUY EUROPEAN GOODS

American Business Men Protest to Washington.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23.—American commercial interests here, through the Chamber of Commerce, today made strong representations to Nelson Johnson, American minister at Peiping, as well as to the state department at Washington, against China's alleged plan to use the proceeds of the $50,000,000 American wheat and cotton loan to purchase machinery from Great Britain and Germany.

American merchants claim that they possess documentary evidence that British and German firms here are planning large sales of machinery to the Chinese government to equip the government's proposed national farm program.

Want China to Pay Debts.

The Chamber of Commerce requested that Johnson communicate to Washington with the object of applying pressure on the Chinese government for the purchase of American instead of European machinery, since the loan was floated in the United States.

The chamber also suggested that a part of the loan be used to liquidate a number of long outstanding claims of American firms against the Chinese government.

The first shipment of American cotton, consisting of 5,000 bales, is scheduled to arrive here shortly. It has stirred up political controversy, due to the charge that the cotton has been sold to a Japanese company, which operates extensive mills in Shanghai.

Canton Supports Charge.

The Chinese government denies this charge, but Cantonese politicians insist that Nanking sold the cotton to the Japanese mills in order to obtain immediate cash for the purpose of financing further shipments.

Japanese military officers also claim that cotton has been purchased for Japanese mills here and that the Japanese are interested in preventing China's use of the money for the purchase of arms and airplanes, which they claim are likely to be used against Japan.

Canadian "Pants Bandit" Gets 7 Years, 10 Lashes

CHILDREN GIVE CAMP BENEFIT AT BARRINGTON

Dancing Class Raises $7 for Algonquin.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Several children who live in Barrington remembered their neighbors in Camp Algonquin the other day. The children, who are members of a dancing class, with the aid of their teacher, Miss Olive Swanson, gave a performance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frier. The benefit was advertised in the neighborhood. Admission was 15 and 25 cents. In all, $7 was raised for the camp fund.

"We could think of no other camp which deserved the money more than Camp Algonquin," wrote Mary F. Cameron and Mildred D. Durbin, "so we enclose the proceeds to you with all good wishes for a successful future."

With $10 from S. M. Schwartz and $1 from Mrs. Anita B. Cohn, enough money arrived yesterday to send a mother and a child to the camp for two weeks, with some to spare. An $8.40 check will buy the two weeks' outing. The camp fund now has a grand total of $1,861.02. However, several thousand dollars is needed to finance the entire vacation period.

Only $6 arrived for the free ice fund. Eta chapter of Thalia sorority sent $5 and M. Cohn $1, giving that found a grand total of $1,654.31. The need for ice will continue until cold weather and friends are urged to send their gifts to the free ice fund.

Contributions from TRIBUNE readers for the camp and ice funds should be sent in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. All gifts will be acknowledged.

SENTENCE NORTH SHORE VAGRANT.

Murray K. Edmonds, 30 years old, of the Loyola Arms hotel, 1235 Loyola avenue, arrested a week ago in the home of Mrs. Jeanette L. Hollister, 1235 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, was sent to the Bridewell yesterday by Justice of the Peace John J. Peters in Evanston to serve out a $100 fine for vagrancy.

MARIE CAHILL IS DEAD; STAGESTAR OF OTHER DAYS

She Won Fame with Song Called 'Nancy Brown.'

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The story of "Nancy Brown" is closed and the voice of "Nancy Brown" is stilled. Marie Cahill, for years a celebrated comedienne, died here early today. She had been in ill health for some months. Miss Cahill did not, during her life, ever disclose her exact age, but she was between 60 and 70 years old.

Thirty years ago Marie Cahill was the most conspicuous star on the stage, and that was a time of stars.

Won Fame in 1902.

Miss Cahill appeared in numerous Broadway successes, achieving premier stardom in 1902 when she appeared in a piece called "The Wild Rose." The show was only moderately successful until Miss Cahill interpolated a song called "Nancy Brown," which was an immediate knockout. Miss Cahill was the only woman who could get the full effect out of the song, which recited the experiences of a farmer boy who had met a girl calling herself Nancy Brown and had spent the summer vacation in the vicinity of his father's farm.

"Nancy Brown" became associated with Miss Cahill much in the manner as "Casey at the Bat" became associated with De Wolf Hopper. Many oldtimers recall her radiant blonde loveliness and her tiny but carrying voice warbling the words to the tricky music of "Nancy Brown," even though they have no other memory of her.

Miss Cahill was born in Brooklyn and Cahill was her real name. As a little girl she appeared in amateur theatricals, making such a hit at the age of 16 as the star in "Kathleen Mavourneen" that she attracted the attention of professional managers. She made her debut in Poole's Eighth Street theater, which long age passed into oblivion, in a piece called "C. O. D."

Appeared on London Stage.

Her next appearance was as Patsy in Charles H. Hoyt's "A Tin Soldier," which was the hit of the year. She so established herself during the New York run that she was asked to go to London to appear at the Shaftesbury theater in "Morocco Bound."

Returning to New York, she appeared successively in "Sporting Life," "A Runaway Girl," "Monte Carlo" and "Three Little Lambs." Then came "The Wild Goose" and "Nancy Brown." During the run of the latter piece she married her manager, Daniel V. Arthur, who survives her. She next appeared as co-star with Lew Fields in "It Happened in Nordland."

Later she appeared in "Molly Moonshine," "Marrying Mary," "The Boys and Betty" and "The Opera Ball." Her last professional appearances were in the "Merry-Go-Round" about four years ago and in 1931 in "The New Yorkers," in which she co-starred with half a dozen contemporaneous celebrities.

"AFTER THE BALL IS OH---VER---- AFTER THE BREAK OF DAWN---"
THE WAY THE AUDIENCE CLAPPED AND CLAPPED AND CLAPPED- THEY DID LIKE OUR ACT DIDN'T THEY?
LIKE IT- THEY WENT CRAZY- WHO COULD HELP IT? WITH THAT ACT YOU WOULD GO GOOD ON BROADWAY, EVEN-GEE, MR. CHIZZLER- DID YOU HEAR WHAT HE SAID ABOUT OUR ACT?
YES- YES- HA! HA! BUT YOU MUSTN'T BELIEVE ALL YOU HEAR- COME- LET'S HURRY, NOW, AND CHANGE- I'M GOING TO TAKE YOU AND MR. BALLAD TO DINNER-
WHY DOES HE HAVE TO KEEP TELLING 'EM HOW GOOD THEIR ACT IS? HE'LL GIVE 'EM A LOT OF CRAZY IDEAS THAT THEY'RE WORTH REAL MONEY- I WISH HE'D MIND HIS OWN BUSINESS AND LEAVE MY TRAINED SEALS ALONE-

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

SUES HOSPITAL, CHARGING BABY IS HELD FOR BILL

Stanley Shopkus, 837 West 34th place, a laborer, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday in the Superior court against the Evangelical hospital, 54th place and Morgan street, demanding the custody of his daughter, Elaine, who was born in the hospital Dec. 14.

His petition states that the child's mother died the day after her birth, and that he paid the mother's hospital bill. When he went to the hospital a month later to get the baby, Shopkus charges, he was informed that there was a $60 board bill for the child and that he could not have her until he had paid it. Since then the bill has increased to $260, which he has been unable to pay because he was out of work until recently, he states.

Judge Joseph B. David made the writ returnable this morning, and issued a subpœna for G. A. Kienle, superintendent of the hospital.

"Hospitals in Chicago deny that they do anything like this," said Judge David, "but if Mr. Shopkus' allegations are true I will put a stop to the practice at once. Even if the baby is released meantime I want Mr. Kienle in here tomorrow."

WOOD ALCOHOL BLAST FATAL TO PLANT FOREMAN

Anthony O'Donnell, 26 years old, 6117 Massasoit avenue, was fatally burned yesterday by the ignition of fumes in a tank of wood alcohol in the storage plant of the Publicker Commercial Alcohol company, 6028 West 66th street, where he was a foreman.

The tank, of 200,000 gallons capacity, was only a quarter full. O'Donnell had crawled to a hatchway ten feet from the bottom of the tank to examine a defective valve, when there was an explosion which enveloped him in flames and shattered windows in the nearby office of the storage plant.

Other workmen dragged O'Donnell away and took him to the Evangelical hospital. He died there this morning. John Henely, superintendent of the plant, told firemen that a spark caused by the contact of O'Donnell's flashlight with the side of the tank had probably caused the explosion.

Firemen prevented the spread of the flames from the tank to eight other tanks on the storage lot, which contained more than a million gallons of wood alcohol. Henely estimated the damage at $50,000.

JOSEPH D. OLIVER ESTATE TO WIDOW AND 4 CHILDREN

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 23.—[Special]—The will of Joseph D. Oliver, former chairman of the Oliver Farm Equipment Co., admitted to probate here this afternoon, revealed that the entire estate was left to his widow, Mrs. Anna G. Oliver and their four children.

The total worth of the estate is unknown. A number of trusts have been established, and estimates have ranged as high as $50,000,000, but attorneys said here that only about $2,000,000 of property would come into the hands of the executor, Joseph D. Oliver Jr.

After making bequests of $25,000 each for his two grandchildren and his son-in-law, C. Frederick Cunningham, Mr. Oliver gave $100,000 in cash to his widow and placed the residue in the United States Trust and Savings Bank of New York.

Half the income of the trust goes to the widow and half to the four children, Joseph Jr., James II., Susan Catherine, and Mrs. Cunningham.

CHURCH RADIO TO FIGHT U. S. CONTROL RULE

Lubbock, Tex., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Promising a fight to the finish, the Rev. Sam Morris of Stanford, one of 19 persons charged with violations of federal radio regulations, declares his small station will continue daily broadcasts.

The Sunshine radio station of Stamford, operated by the First Baptist church there, "will be on the air daily until the courts settle this case in the final stage," the minister declared.

All 19 are charged with violation of the code which prohibits transmission of unlicensed radio signals beyond state lines.

Miss Bertha L. Tatch, 58 years old, 1120 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, a teacher at the Jirka school, died yesterday afternoon in the Oak Park hospital of an infection which developed when a piece of a chicken bone lodged in her throat. Miss Tatch had been a teacher since 1891.

Loses 14 Pounds of Fat

On a Full Stomach

With New, Safe, Battle Creek Reducing Treatment

Miss Hilda G. Lantzer

"I have taken 3 bottles of BonKora and I feel like a new person. It took me only 11 days to reduce 14 pounds. I have lost about 8 more pounds since (22 lbs. in all) and I haven't been taking it regularly. I wear dresses 4 sizes smaller. It also ended my stomach trouble, constipation, headaches and tired feeling."—Hilda G. Lantzer, 156 26th St., S.E., Massillon, Ohio.

Use New Battle Creek Treatment At Home. Lose Fat Quick—or Pay Nothing

Many say that other methods had failed. But BonKora, the new Battle Creek Reducing Treatment, is different. It took off their fat: a pound a day for some. Others lost 15 to 41 pounds in 3 weeks. Very stout ones lost even more.

It reduces fat new "3-stage" way. Triple action: triple speed. Take a little BonKora daily to help body function properly; to remove heavy wastes, and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of foods you like, as explained in BonKora package. Don't get too thin. Reduce to normal, healthy weight. Then stop reducing and hold your new slender figure.

There are no dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. You feel and look younger.

Don't be fat any longer. Get a bottle of BonKora from druggist today. If not delighted with quick loss of fat, manufacturer refunds money you paid for this bottle. You don't risk a penny.

HENRY H. PORTER LEAVES MILLION, WILL REVEALS

Four Children to Share Bulk of Estate.

Henry H. Porter, financier who died Aug. 19, left an estate valued at $1,100,000 to his children and nieces and nephews under the terms of a will admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell.

Four children, Miss Mary A. Porter and Henry H. Porter Jr., of Chicago and S. Prentice Porter and John Pierrepont Porter of Lake Forest, were each left a fifth of the residual estate.

Seven Servants Rewarded.

The remaining fifth is to be divided equally between Henry Isham of Lake Forest, a nephew; his wife, Elizabeth; Ralph N. Isham of Chicago, another nephew, and Mrs. Helen Isham Hill of Brookline, Mass., a niece. The only other bequests were to seven servants, who are to receive $100 for each year they spent in Mr. Porter's service.

Mr. Porter, who lived at 1520 North State parkway, died at his summer home in Lake Geneva. He was 57 years old. He was a son of the late H. H. Porter, who served as chairman of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and was a founder of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Porter succeeded his father as chairman of the board of the Chicago Transfer and Clearing company, which owns the Clearing industrial district, and had a number of other business connections.

Four Other Wills Filed.

Four other wills were filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin in the Probate court and were admitted to probate, as follows:

MARTIN A. JOHNSON, died April 14. Estate, $6,000, to Bethel Swedish Lutheran church. The Chicago City Bank and Trust company is executor.

CARL SALOW, died Aug. 10. Estate, $15,000, to two nephews, four brothers, and two sisters. Hans Salow, a brother, is executor.

SAM WARNECKE, died June 15. Estate, $2,000, to widow, Wiebke Warnecke, who is executrix.

SARAH P. BARNES, died June 12. Estate, $20,000, to son, two grandsons, and two granddaughters. Blair Winter Dibble, the son, is executor.

Rites for Chas. H. Hillman, Marshall Field Veteran

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Charles H. Hillman, who was employed for 49 years as a fur expert by Marshall Field and company. Mr. Hillman died Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frederick L. Fake of Long Beach, near Michigan City, Ind. He was 87 years old. Surviving are the wife, Alphonsine, and five children. Burial will be at Oakwoods cemetery.

IN every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

They know that Hursen elegance, Hursen unmatchable equipment, and the use of Hursen Organ-Chapels, always free, cannot be matched in their own neighborhood.

They know, too, that Hursen funerals cost less!

L. J. McCormick and Bride Will Visit Chicago

Couple Will Land in New York Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the Berengaria lands tomorrow in New York two of the passengers will be a couple anxiously awaited in Chicago by his many friends, all eager to meet his bride and to see him again. The couple is Mr. and Mrs. Leander J. McCormick, whose marriage took place in London on the 12th of last month. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick—we are told she prefers the simple title of Mrs. rather than the one of countess, to which she is entitled—will visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, in New York, and then will come to Chicago.

The date of their arrival in Chicago is not definite, but when they do come his friends and relatives here will welcome them with a brass band, figuratively speaking. From here they will go to Santa Barbara to visit the Alister H. McCormicks, who also have with them the eldest McCormick brother, Edward H., and his wife and two sons, who live in Weybridge, England. Mrs. Leander McCormick was the Countess Renee de Fleurieu before her marriage.

Cricket Players Arrive Tonight.

Tonight at 9:30 o'clock the eighteen young Englishmen who are giving Canada and this country a view of English cricket and rugby are arriving in Chicago, but ten of them will be leaving almost immediately for St. Louis. The other eight, however, will have a gay week-end in Chicago, for something pleasant has been planned for them for every day.

Tomorrow night Miss Lillian Dudley will be a dinner hostess for the visitors and she has invited Miss Jeannette Peterkin, Miss Jean Wingfield, Miss Margaret Carr, Miss Veronese Beatty and her house guest, Miss Elizabeth Dunscombe of Memphis, Tenn., to supply the feminine beauty and charm at the party.

Saturday morning the young men will leave their bungalow atop the Medinah Michigan Avenue club to spend the week-end in Lake Forest with Gaylord Donnelley. Miss Jean Schweppe will entertain them at dinner that night, later taking her party to the Onwentsia for dancing, and on Sunday Miss Jean Wilhelm will give a luncheon for them. Monday morning they will come back to town to join their comrades who will arrive from St. Louis that morning, and from then until they leave on Sept. 5 they will be busy not only with social activities but with the sports that have brought them here and seeing the Fair.

Youth Returning with Rowing Cup.

A young man who would have a very good reason for finding his hat several sizes too small but who isn't feeling any undue pride but just a proper elation over victory is Charles Blair, who is returning this week on the Olympic from England. He stroked the Kent school crew, winners last month of the Thomas Challenge cup in the Henley royal regatta at Henley-on-Thames, and, as those who follow the sporting news know, the Kent boys were the only foreigners to take a trophy out of England after this summer's regatta.

There were 117 entries from eight countries, the largest since the establishment of the rowing classic in 1837, so the Kent boys have every reason to feel pride in their achievement. Charles, who was graduated from Kent this year, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Blair of Geneva and Chicago, and he had the pleasure of having his entire family see his crew win, for Mr. and Mrs. Blair and their other two sons, Bob and John, and their daughter, Jane, all went to England for the event.

Bob and John, who also are Kent boys, are now with their mother climbing the mountains of Switzerland, and Jane, who attends Vassar, is at summer school at Fontainebleau. This foursome will return home in late September in time for the young people to return to school. Charles is entering Yale this fall, but until he leaves for New Haven he will be with his father, who returned home right after the regatta, at the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne.

The Blair house, one of the oldest and most charming in Geneva, is occupied this summer by the John R. Mauffs and their family of East Delaware place, who will be moving back to town around the 15th of September.

Henry Stanton of Wayne and Tom Potter of Lake Forest were the other Chicagoans graduated from Kent this year. Henry is going to Williams and Tom to Princeton in the fall.

Mrs. Jacob Baur Gives Luncheon.

Mrs. Jacob Baur was a luncheon hostess yesterday at her Astor street house for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scandrett, who are here with their cousin, Miss Constance Morrow, to see A Century of Progress. Miss Morrow was not a guest at the luncheon, for she was at the Fair, where she spends practically every waking moment, with a group of young people. Mr. and Mrs. Scandrett and their young cousin are staying at the Stevens hotel.

Mrs. Baur has been busy the last fortnight entertaining two young nieces, twins, fifteen years old, Mary and Alice Dickey of Terre Haute, Ind., who wanted to see every single thing at the Fair. Mrs. Baur is expecting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull, to arrive on Sept. 1.

The Stuyvesant Peabody family, divided into two groups, will spend the next fortnight widely separated. Mrs. Peabody and Stuyvesant Jr. left Monday by motor for New York. They went east particularly for the races

Enjoy Long, Cooling Drinks at the Century Club

Long, cool drinks in the "Peter Arno" room at the Century club were enjoyed before luncheon the other day by Mlle. Matilde Martinez de Hoz, Theodore Hardeen, and Mrs. d'Orsay Palmer (left to right) during a tour of the Fair. It is not only easy to look at these two attractive sisters but also a pleasure to listen to them, for they both speak English with the most enchanting accents, due to their Argentine birth and Spanish ancestry. MRS. JAMES MILLER, better known to her countrymen in Brazil as Rosalino Coelho Lisboa Miller, is worrying about what kind of a show to put on for Brazilian day at the Fair. There is no Brazilian colony in Chicago, or at least she has encountered no Brazilians who could present the native dances and songs. Mrs. Miller is assistant commissioner to the Fair from Brazil, and it was at the Harold Strotzes' buffet supper in her honor the other evening that she was voicing her worries. She is petite, feminine, with great dark eyes and lashes as long as the artificial ones Dietrich wears in "Song of Songs," and it occurred to us that Mrs. Miller's best Brazilian exhibit might be Mrs. Miller herself. She is influential in Brazilian politics and a leader in the feminist movement in Brazil, a poetess and a winner of a national prize of some kind for her novels. She also is a typical Brazilian beauty, so there is some merit to the idea. However, she is pinning her hopes on the next boat that arrives in New York with some 200 tourists for the Fair. Perhaps there will be talent aboard. Or do you know any one who can dance the samba or the more sophisticated and civilized maxixe.

Brazilian—Beauties—Dancer—Propaganda.

ANOTHER dark eyed beauty in town is Wheeler Williams' bride, Margaret McManus. The afternoon of their arrival, at Martha Blair's cocktail party in their honor, they sat at either end of the davenport and afforded an interesting study. Mrs. Wheeler Williams is as dark as her sister-in-law, with her spun gold hair and wide blue eyes, is fair. His bride will be Sculptor Williams' next head. And those black panthers you heard about, executed in Hollywood with two panthers loaned from the zoo as models, are now on exhibit in New York.

THE other day Rosalia, dancer at Old Mexico, decided to ride to the observatory atop the Skyride. When they got to the top the elevator man said to Rosalia:

"This is as far as we go, daughter."

"Why do you call me daughter?" she asked.

"Well, I brought you up, didn't I?" wisecracked the elevator man.

AND Rosalia is the girl who says that if all the fan-dancers were placed end to end each one would have her feet in somebody else's face.

WE'VE heard of cinema and stage stars who felt it was better policy not to have the public know of their marriage, but it struck us as a morbid note that the fellow who was dug up the other day after having been buried underground for 64 days had the same idea. His wife was waiting to greet him beside the "grave" he occupied in a lot on Western avenue in the vicinity of 90th street when, pale and weak, he emerged from the ground. A woman who had paid 15 cents [the original charge was a quarter] for the doubtful privilege of peeking down the shaft at him complained about it.

"It was advertised that you weren't married," she said.

"Well, I had to give that out. It would have hurt my business if people had known I was a married man," the dug-up one explained.

Big Double Header Today Will Be Last Sally Party of Year

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, today's the day of our farewell party, boys and girls, and it's really going to be a festive occasion!

We'll all meet at the appointed place today to see the big double header out at Comiskey park. Two games—the Chicago White Sox against the Boston Red Sox. So don't forget your invitations—'cause you can't come in without 'em—and don't be late!

The members of the Central Eleanor club will hold their third golf meet of the season on Saturday at the Edgebrook Country club.

Illinois Hostesses Offer Program for Children at Fair.

At the Illinois Host building at A Century of Progress tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock there is to be a very special party for children, with Georgene Faulkner, dressed in costume, telling stories from the life of Lincoln.

Miss Faulkner will wear a gown worn by a former Chicagoan to a reception given at the old Tremont house for Lincoln, and her talk will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

After the story the children will be invited to go through the Lincoln Hall and see the old manuscripts and the furniture, which has been copied from that used by the Lincoln family in Springfield.

Big Audience Sees Texans Present 'Aida'

Excellent Performance Wins Reviewer's Praise.

"Aida," opera by Verdi, presented by the Texas Grand Opera association at Soldiers' field Wednesday, Aug. 23.

THE CAST:

Aida	Della Samoiloff
Amneris	Dreda Aves
Radames	Joseph Wetzel
Amonasro	Martino Rossi
Ramfis	Amund Sjovik
The king	Leo de Hierpolis
A priestess	Maria Palleria
A messenger	George Holliman
Conductor	Vittorio Verse

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is an opera that never loses its drawing power. Apparently the more space is given for an audience, the larger the number of patrons. The Texas "Aida" was no exception.

At the time this is bring written there is no opportunity to check the figures of the box office, but as nearly as a fallible eye can estimate there must have been between twenty-five and thirty thousand in the audience last night. This is an attendance to gladden the heart of any opera promoter, and Texas showed its sense of obligation by giving the patrons a performance well worth watching and hearing.

For "Aida" depends for its effect upon more things than merely the efforts of a few brilliant singers among the principals. It is an opera of spectacle and pageant. Last night's performance had the soloists, and it also had the other elements. The Texas Grand Opera association deserves sincere congratulations for its Texan chorus. It is a large group of singers with good voices, and so well trained that the organization ought to fell encouraged to continue in the task of putting on other operas in the future.

The triumph scene is one of the tests of an "Aida" performance, and the company passed the test with disdainful ease. The stage had been given an Egyptian setting of pyramids, pillars, sphynxes, and palms. Here the choristers, the ballet, the supernumeraries, and the principals were disposed with an accurate eye to mass and color, no casual crowd, but an assemblage conveying the idea of a triumphal scene.

There was some excellent singing; the ballet, directed by Serge Oukrainsky, was as a gleaming group of dancing gold and silver statues; there was a fine stage band, and an exceptional orchestra, though these last two organizations belong to Chicago and not to Texas. Over the various elements Conductor Verse presided with the authority that comes from knowledge, welding them all into what was generally if not invariably a smooth, well balanced, and, in spite of the vast spaces of the field, at times a stirring performance.

The principals, it was said, were Texans either by birth or residence. Texas may be proud of both its children and its guests. It was an entirely able cast, with special honors due to Miss Samoiloff, Miss Aves, Mr. Rossi, and Mr. Sjovik. Applause ran high, and the music department of this newspaper is in hearty accord with the verdict.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written, private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray calls the members of the household together for questioning. He has found, spread out on Cresap's desk, a new will, disinheriting Florence. As it is unsigned the old will stands. Cresap had disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence.

UNDER FALSE COLORS.

Once more I put in my oar, answering the question which Bray had put to Florence, "Van Houk's Neck is a narrow blade of sandy land, heavily-wooded with scrub pine and scrub oak, that has a swampy swale on one side of it and on the other a little marsh that lies back of Kettle pond. It makes out from shore on the opposite side from here. If there was any daylight left you could see the tip of it from those east windows just yonder."

"That's all clear. So you and your young man, you meet by appointment over there in that lonesome strip. And you tell him what's come up—your uncle swearing to destroy him and determined to make a new will leaving you out and all?"

"I won't tell you what we talked about."

"No need that you should. An idiot could guess. Anyhow, the young man hears what you have to say. Being a high-spirited young fellow, he gets mad—mind you, not that I'd blame him for that—and nothing will do him but what he'll come skirting around the edge of that pond and have it out with your uncle to his teeth on his own dunghill—I mean his own ground. You didn't want him to do that, though?"

"No, I didn't!" By his shrewdness he'd fairly extorted that from her.

"Sure. But he would come, leaving you behind. And you waited. And in an hour—maybe less time—he was back and told you what kind of an interview he'd had with the old man. Just what did he tell you passed between them now—rough stuff, wasn't it?"

Being a spirited young fellow he gets mad.

"You've no right to ask me that."

"Granted! And then he told you good-by and he put off for the city and you came home, thinking nobody had seen you."

No need to look at Sabino, humped there like a chunky little stinging lizard. I knew who yesterday's spy had been and who today's informer was.

Bray droned on:

"Now then, Miss, I'm coming to what I've been working towards all along here. So far as you know, this young Mr. Thorpe drove straight back to town once he'd left you yesterday and went to the hotel where he was stopping?"

"Yes, to the Hotel Algonquin."

"West Forty-fourth Street—exactly! And so far as you know, he's still staying there?"

"I—I think so."

"Don't you know so?"

"I'm not sure."

"Why ain't you sure?"

Under his cropped mustache his mouth had lost its amiable contours—had turned to a tight, hard trap.

"Because I haven't heard from him since he left me yesterday over on the Neck."

"Well now, ain't that curious!" he marveled. "By now, he must've seen three, four regular editions of today's evening papers, not counting extras, and each and every one of them with this here murder plastered all over the front page and your name sticking up here and there—and still and all, nevertheless and notwithstanding, he don't come dusting right back to stand by you in this here terrible jam you're all in. Nor he don't even telephone you? Nor even send a measly little wire? That's awful curious, if you don't mind my saying so, Miss . . . Well then, did you try to get in touch with him?"

"Twice today I called up the hotel—once fairly early this morning and again about an hour later, not long before you men came. He—he must have been out both times."

"You mean to say, miss, you called up the Hotel Algonquin and asked for Mr. Gregory Thorpe and still you got back no word from him then or thereafter?"

"No, you see, I asked for Mr. George Thomas."

"But who is he?" He manifested complete bewilderment and I think it was the genuine article.

"Gregory. He registered under an assumed name—I mean a different name."

"Why?"

"How—why should I know?" she fenced desperately.

"Why should any one know better than you, miss? That's what I'm after asking myself."

"Don't let her lie to you!" Sabino fairly shrieked it out and at the corners of his mouth there were foamy beads of spittle. "She called up twice today—yes. But ask her about last night—last night just before eleven o'clock when she called her precious Mr. George Thomas."

"Wipe off your chin, brother—you're dribbling on yourself," counseled Bray calmly. "I don't like that word 'lie' you used, neither. And there's a saying—little ones shouldn't speak till they've been spoken to. So I'm asking you to shut your jaw and get out and stay out and leave me run this in my own feeble way."

His features working convulsively, the pigmy slid off his stool and toddled out. Across at her Bray leveled an accusing finger, like a pistol muzzle.

"Is that true, Miss, what he says—that you called up last night around eleven?"

"Y—yes," she said shiveringly.

"Why leave that out? You leave out so much, Miss."

"I must have forgotten. You—twist me up so."

"I'm sorry if I've rushed you off your feet. I'll swear 'twas unintentional on my part, and your foster uncle here would tell you the same of me if he wasn't by way of being, for the moment, a bit upset and overheated. . . . Well, leave us figure this muddle out a step further along: At maybe the very minute when your other uncle, Uncas Cresap Esquire, is having his brains clouted out of his skull, or anyway within half an hour of it, your young man, and him for no reason that you seem willing to explain, sailing under false colors, apparently still hasn't got back to his hotel, yet having slathers of time for to do so counting from the time when you say he left here. And twice today he don't answer calls, neither. Nor does he call you up, though surely you must've left your name and the number? Well, p'raps now somebody else might have better luck than you did, Miss, or p'raps again he wouldn't. But all we can do is try. Mr. Motley, would you be so good as to go to the phone in that reception hall adjacent to us here and raise the Algonquin Hotel people by long distance, and ask them would they kindly ascertain and report back why Mr. Gregory Thorpe, of Toledo, alias Mr. George Thomas, of nowheres in particular, don't answer to urgent and pressing phone calls at all, at all? . . . That'll be sufficient from you for the present, Miss. I'm sorry if I've tired you out and wore you down with my blathering. Suppose you run along to your room and lie down and drink a dish of tea for your nerves. Without something absolutely unexpected should crop up, I promise you we'll not be disturbing you again—not tonight, at least."

I led her to the door, she all sagged and heavy in the loop of my arm and her feet dragging as though there had been clogs on them. She didn't move like the vivid, vital, gorgeous thing she is; she moved like one weighted down by age and decrepitude. At the door I kissed her twice on her haggard face and I told her to brace up and get hold of herself.

Notre Dame Singers Will Give Programs During Chicago Visit

The Notre Dame glee club, which has been on a road tour for fourteen weeks, will appear at the Palace theater tomorrow. It is the first time in the history of the school that one of its organizations has been permitted to give public performances in theaters.

During the summer tour the club appeared at leading theaters all over the country. The boys also sang on radio programs. They will sing over WGN from 7 to 7:30 Sunday night. They gave a program for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House and were welcomed in Washington by Postmaster General James A. Farley. In New York they received a greeting from Alfred E. Smith and were invited by Cardinal Hayes to sing in St. Patrick's church on Fifth avenue, the first time in the church's history that an outside choir was invited to sing there.

at Saratoga this week-end. While they are away Mr. Peabody and their younger son, Patrick, are on a restful trip aboard the Anita, Patrick's new cruiser.

Miss Virginia Vanderlip, always a popular Chicago visitor, is expected to pass through town any one of these days. She is motoring west to join her parents, the Frank Vanderlips of New York, who are at their vacation home in California. Several weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlip stopped off for a day on their way west to see the Fair and to have a cup of tea with the Robert Maynard Hutchins before the latter left for Europe.

More attractive visitors to the city who are staying only a short time and are cramming that time full of visits to the Fair and with old friends are the Dewey L. Pierces of Riverside, Conn. Mrs. Pierce is the former Leslie Thorne and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, who now live in Pasadena.

Miss Lucy Fairbank, daughter of Mrs. Dexter Fairbank, will return early in September from a month at Camp Brynafore at Roosevelt, Wis.

New Members of Walker Clan.

Two new members have been added to the Walker clan in the last two months. The more recent is the son born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Walrath [Edith Walker] Tuesday morning at the Presbyterian hospital. Although no name has been chosen for him, his grandmother, Mrs. William Ernest Walker, thought that it might be Junior.

The other baby born in this family is a girl. She made her appearance last month in the household of the W. Milton McCoys of Middleburg, Va., and Sheridan, Wyo. Mrs. McCoy is the former Carolyn Walker. She and the baby are in Virginia now.

Miss Virginia Miller, daughter of the Harry E. Millers, has a most attractive guest visiting her at the Millers' summer home in Barrington. The guest is Miss Dorothy Lewis of Philadelphia. She is Miss Miller's roommate at Smith college. The first part of the two weeks that Miss Lewis has been here she and her hostess spent visiting mutual friends, but from now until the end of Miss Lewis' visit the two will be in Barrington.

Miss Miller will return to Smith this year for her senior year. About the time she leaves for the east, near the end of September, her parents will move back to their lovely home in Winnetka for the winter.

Mrs. Allan M. Clement, who has been at the Biltmore hotel in New York since Aug. 1, is expected at home on Lake Shore drive within the next day or two.

James Minotto is to be host this evening at dinner at the Stevens hotel to a half dozen of the city's rodeo visitors. Gen. Jesus Jayme Quinones of the Mexican Federal cavalry, Señora Quinones, their daughter, Teresa, 18 years old, and his nephew, George Guzman, 15 years old, will be among the guests. They will attend the party in native costumes. The rodeo is to open at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon in Soldiers' field.

Tells Beauty Group Cosmetics Should Be Under U. S. Drug Law

A warning of the harm that may come from the misrepresentation of cosmetics by manufacturers was sounded yesterday by Dr. Arthur J. Cramp, director of the bureau of investigation of the American Medical association. He spoke before the convention of the All American Beauty Culture Schools Associated in the Morrison hotel. Dr. Cramp advocated the amending of the pure food laws to include cosmetics.

"If the manufacturers label their products, then the public can decide what they wish to use," Dr. Cramp said. "Most cosmetics are harmless, many beneficial and some harmful. In many cases the cosmetics are not harmful in themselves, but if used by persons having certain skin idiosyncrasies they may be harmful. In certain cases hair dyes, depilatories, and freckle removers may be harmful if left on the skin too long. Some freckle removers have little more in them than lemon juice and never in the world would remove freckles. What the manufacturer claims should be the truth."

Estelle Wingler, a first aid instructor for the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross and on the staff of the E. Burnham School of Beauty Culture of Chicago, declared that a code of ethocs must be emphasized in schools of beauty culture, based on those of the nursing profession and in coöperation with the medical experts and the department of public health.

Couturiere Cuts Dark Brown Satin Frock on the Bias

BY BETTINA BED'WELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Women are going to brighten up styles by wearing lustrous materials this fall. And they also will keep on getting around in the dullest of dull materials. That's a question that already has been settled.

During the grande semaine, the last glorious week of the social season in Paris, women wore frocks. It must be said that dresses of satin were only to be found in exclusive pleasure places, but they got a certain small but important okay from ultra-smart women.

The Maggy Rouff dress, shown in our sketch today, is one of the first satin frocks to come out during the grande semaine. It is a formal afternoon frock and was worn at a garden party of the Polo club. This dress is in the new dark, tobacco brown of which so much is expected this fall. The whole frock is cut on the bias, so it slinks close to the body lines underneath.

Maggy Rouff widens the bodice at the shoulders and sets the sleeves into it with sunray tucks. In front there is a plastronlike piece that extends below the simple satin belt. The collar of this dress is very high, and there is a scarf of cantaloupe yellow satin that ties in a bow on the left side of the neck.

Episcopalians of Chicago to Mark Oxford Centenary

The Rev. Harold Holt, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Oak Park, has announced that the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will observe the centenary of the Oxford movement by a service of solemn evensong to be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Sept. 29, in the Chicago Stadium, West Madison street.

Bishop George Craig Stewart will officiate.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE MISSING WATCH.

"It must have been deliberate murder," Joan Younger was telling Prof. Fordney.

"Now, just relate what happened—and take your time," the criminologist said.

"Well, being such a calm, lovely evening, John and I were walking along the beach discussing our marriage plans when suddenly I heard a sharp report and he dropped to the ground—just as you see him—shot—without even a cry. I stood paralyzed with terror for a moment and then turned and ran to seek aid. I'd gone just a little way when I met this man," indicating a fisherman. "I asked him to rush for help. Then I sat down over there and must have fainted, for the next thing I knew you were here."

"Pardon me a moment," Fordney walked over to the body sprawled flat on its back. "H'mm, died instantly," he murmured as he brushed the sand from the man's vest and searched the pockets. He then turned the body over and again murmured, "H'mm. I wonder now why he didn't carry a watch? Unusual." He had failed to find one in Morton's pockets or on either wrist.

Walking thoughtfully back to the excited girl who was pacing up and down in great agitation, he asked, "Had Morton any enemies?"

"Well, I don't know of any particular one:, but as powerful a financier as John was I should think it possible he did have. However, I can't . . ."

"Let's sit down, Miss Younger; then you can tell me the truth about this murder," Fordney interrupted.

HOW DID THE PROFESSOR KNOW THE GIRL WAS LYING?

[See solution on page 29.]

Neglect Adds Years to Eyes; Creams Banish Lid Wrinkles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you've been playing tennis, golf, or swimming, the hard glare of the sun probably has bothered your eyes. Maybe you haven't done anything about smoothing out those fine little lines that this sunstrain provokes. If the eyes are very young of course there is no trouble, but if there is any tendency to lines, these are somewhat exaggerated during the outdoor season.

Well, there are creams to be had now that promise to nourish the delicate tissue of the lids and prevent wrinkling and drying. In fact, I see no reason for putting a season on the use of these eye creams. Curiously enough, in many otherwise beautifully tended and groomed women the eyes are given an age dimmed impression because of the neglected lids.

These eye creams are simply applied over the lids, under and around the eyes. They are patted in gently with the finger tips. Better, if you can, to let the cream remain on all night to help build resistance for this unusually sensitive tissue.

If you want to help the eyes along at the same time, before you give this eye tissue treatment, rinse them out with warm water in your eye cup, then a cold water rinse. Then the eye cream treatment. In the morning be sure to give your eyes an opener of cold, cold water. You may leave a film of this same eye cream on for day wear. Just a tiny, almost imperceptible film—to give that moist young look to eye and tissue. If you use eye shadow, try it atop this basic film. It will look better.

All the time we are being treated to new and better lipstick colorings. Amazing how the trade can work out these fine tints in so small a cosmetic item. I can't name the new shades, of course, as they are trade names, generally, but the brunettes and red heads doing a little scuttling about on their own may find in a couple of the new lipstick shades just the answer to their own individual prayers. For the blondes, too, there is a cherried red on the market which, on the pale or light golden girl, is stunning.

This pursuit of the right shade of lipstick should be followed avidly, since it is the outstanding makeup feature of the moment.

White Trims Black Velvet Dance Gowns

Lace Used for Yokes and Angel Sleeves.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New black velvet "smoothies" . . . the long, clinging dinner and dance dresses, the first stunning models of the season are now on display in the shops, a terrific temptation to any gal who knows how these wickedly black things can skin inches off a well fed silhouette.

You can find audaciously lovely backless affairs for sums that belie all the frenzied predictions of mounting prices. . . . young looking, deceptively simple things that hang closely to the knees, where they flare glamorously and dip and swirl when you dance or walk.

Many of the most daring models are contrasted with entire yokes and angel sleeves of starched chalk white lace. One exceptionally breath-taking model is made with the new drawstring or puckered neckline, with two very slender but adequate straps streaking across the exposed back, and, as if this were not sufficiently daring and different, two perfect half circles of starched white lace are used as perky stick-out-over-the-shoulder epaulets. . . .

Another coal black velvet is trimmed with quantities of ermine tails—a regular collar of them. And another has dripping epaulets of the same black tipped white tails, and these alone are all the trimming, contrast or decoration. You can find chiffon and velvet combines with the filmy chiffon around the neckline and shoulders. You can find braid used as a contrast or gleaming white satin, flattering shell pink satin or dull crêpe, and metallic brocades, anything, even a new pale, interesting shade of turquoise blue that must be seen to be properly appreciated. This blue and black combination is lovely on the right person. It ought to be devastatingly successful on redheads and blondes.

Other colors of new velvet creations are equally attractive, especially the new blues, rich wine-rose shades and the lovely dusky tones of old gold.

Junior Hadassah Will Open Convention Saturday

The 11th national convention of Junior Hadassah, an organization of 10,000 young women, will convene at the Palmer house beginning Saturday afternoon. The convention will be formally opened by a luncheon Sunday. Three Palistinian projects will be considered by the 600 delegates from 200 cities. Junior Hadassah expends more than $50,000 annually to maintain an orphanage and a nurses' training school, and to help cultivate orange groves in Palestine.

Avoid Shoppng in Busy Stores with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"It's no trouble at all, madam," said the salesman in my favorite department store. I had been saying that I disliked having any more children's clothes sent home when I was certain some of them would have to be returned after being tried on. I had done it so much, but under the circumstances there was no other way I could manage.

"We do this all the time," he went on. "Many women shop this way almost entirely for their children. It's easier for them and it's easier for the children."

It's true, and except for shoes and perhaps hats and a few special things, you can do most of your shopping for the children without dragging them along. I've noticed that women must be coming to recognize this, because you see fewer and fewer children nowadays in the stores. This was always true in the more exclusive shops, but it holds now in the more generally popular and crowded stores. In these stores that appeal to the people of modest or less than modest incomes one used to see child after child, weary and cross, submerged by the towering forms of grownups, being led or pulled from counter to counter while mothers shopped for themselves and the children.

You don't see much of it nowadays. My own errands or my trips about town take me into all sorts of stores and crowds, and I didn't need the salesman's comment to make me realize that lots of women who used to take their children with them on shopping trips don't do it now.

Women are so much more intelligent now than they used to be about so many things connected with children. And this is one of them.

There are various ways you can contrive to shop without the children. If you haven't a maid or nurse or relatives or friends you can call on, it's possible to join forces with a neighbor or acquaintance. Plan your shopping carefully, so that your time counts. Then, one time you keep her children and yours and the next time let her keep your children and hers.

Or if your budget will stand squeezing, eke out enough to pay some one by the hour—perhaps a responsible young high school girl on Saturday. Avoid shopping trips in crowded stores with the children tagging along. Where there's a will there's a way.

London Papers Print Memorial Notices on Valentino Death

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—In their memorial notice columns London newspapers today carried numerous expressions of sorrow over the death of Rudolph Valentino, film actor, who died seven years ago today in New York.

Many of the mourners' messages appeared as follows: "In grateful and ever living memory of a great artist. Mass at Westminster cathedral Sunday, Aug. 27, at 10:30. Valentino association."

The Times today carried four notices and the Post an equal number. Two of these were duplicates. One mourner equaled the Valentino association in the number of insertions. This message read: "His star is uneclipsed—an admirer."

Six separate expressions of remembrance were printed altogether. One of these, in Italian, declared undying love for the man and an undiminishable admiration for the artist. A second was in French. "Don't weep—life is beautiful and good."

One message used the name Guglielmo.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

We're great borrowers, we Americans, but who'd ever have thought that it would be an onion soup this time would cause us to go knocking at foreign kitchen doors with an empty tureen and a most hopeful look about us. But such is the tale—and the results of our borrowing, some say, are even better than the original.

Anyway, the heart of the matter is that the French nation is composed of citizens who love onion soup and make no bones about telling you so. Dumas extolled it. Talleyrand elaborated on its virtues. The American doughboy brought it home from France. The American housewife loved it—but couldn't be bothered. And now the big business man who dotes on the stuff has taken it up and captured its rich succulence in a can, making it available for everybody. Reports also have it that this new soup now on the market is made just like the original—French fried onions, Parmesan cheese, and rich beef stock, cooked together and begging to be served with crunchy rusks and yet more cheese.

But now for a batch of questions, for despite the unconventional beginning we will make this a Question Box day. From Mrs. C. M. W. comes a question about pie crusts: "What is wrong with my pie crust? It's very rich and short, but soft instead of crisp and flaky, especially if it has stood an hour or two."

Though not knowing your method and recipe, Mrs. W., I should say your trouble might be one of two things. Oftentimes what we call a short-mealy crust may seem somewhat soft, though it was made from the same recipe as a flaky one. This is caused by the very complete mixing of the fat with the flour so that no largish particles are left, or from the use of oil or melted fat as in hot water pastry. On the other hand, pastry may be soft from underbaking, sweating in the pan when the oven is too slow, too soft a filling, or possibly too much sugar or baking powder (if used) in the crust mixture.

Now another departure from the usual. Did you ever cook artichokes the Fascist way? We hear that the following is a method they root for most enthusiastically in Italy, and I believe it is what Mrs. M. R. S. was looking for when she asked for a recipe for baked artichokes.

BAKED ARTICHOKES.

Artichokes are really flower buds with their leaves or petals attached to a meaty center and curled up over each other, forming a roundish ball. Select green, not brownish, ones. Clean them and remove the "choke," carefully extracting all the prickly sections. Now chop together a little mint, a little parsley, and a very small clove of garlic. Drop a little of this mixture into the center of each artichoke, season with salt and pepper, and place the prepared buds upright in a baking pan. Add sufficient cooking fat to cover the bottom of the pan and bake till tender in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Milo Sargent Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. Van Courtland-Moon, who arrived on the Rex from Paris, are spending a few days here before starting for Bar Harbor, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee.

Miss Stephanie de Neufville, who has been at the Westbury for several weeks, sailed on the Olympic today and will join her mother, Mrs. Jules J. de Neufville, in Paris.

A Few Things That Happen on Studio Lot

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Sometimes clowning isn't so funny. It was on the set of MGM's "The Prizefighter and the Lady." Among well known persons who are not working in the film but who came to gaze at Max Baer and the other man mountains were Ed Wynn, Ivan Lebedeff, who escorted Wera Engels, and Patsy Kelly, the girl who nearly lost her life when Jean Malin's automobile hurtled into the ocean and Malin lost his life.

Vince Barnett, the "professional ribber," is in the cast and was doing some of his professional ribbing around the sets.

Going to Miss Engels, a beauty from Germany who never saw or heard of professional ribbing, Barnett swung into his routine with "What you are doing here? You can't even speak English. You foreign girls come over here and our good American girls can't get work. Our American girls then have to starve or do worse."

It was all a joke; that is, it started to be a joke. But Miss Engels burst into tears.

Daughter of a German naval officer who was commandant of three naval districts during the war, she came to America on a contract with Radio-RKO, but through bad advice gave up the contract. She hasn't worked in months.

Baer made a shot in the ring today and forgot they remove ropes from one side to give the cameras shooting room. Baer leaned back to bounce himself forward on the ropes and he kept on going backward. He barely missed landing on his head as the unanchored ropes gave way.

Katharine Hepburn has a new stunt for reducing, keeping fit, and fighting sunburn. She does a daily swim at 10 p. m. All it takes is an estate like hers in Coldwater canyon, equipped with an outdoor swimming pool, and pep enough to resist the shivers of the first cold splash.

Richard Dix went to the desert location near Yuma for tying in scenes for "Patrol" in advance of the Radio company. The next day the studio received this wire: "One hundred and eight degrees in the shade today. Suggest starting the shots a little later; may be cooler by Saturday."

The film is that which Ernest Schoedsack shot last fall in Arabia, depicting how English aviation subalterns keep the wild Arab tribes under control with their daily air reconnaissances over the steamy desert. Victor McLaglen is hurrying back from London to get into the "tying-in" shots which will supplement Schoedsack's already completed authentic Arabian shots, and which will carry the thread of the plot through the story. Boris Karloff, Alan Hale, Wallace Ford, and Billy Bevan are in the cast. There will be no women in it.

The Radio studio announces that Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt, after visiting Merian Cooper, head of the studio, yesterday and seeing the run of the unreleased film, "Annapolis Midshipman," put a navy department O. K. on the film.

Paramount has borrowed Jackie Cooper from M-G-M and in the Paul Sloan adaptation of Will James' story "Lone Cowboy" has so shaped the story that Jackie may be the star. Jackie is the little son of a cowboy, who goes to live in the city but returns to the range. When he does so, there is little love or understanding exchanged between the city raised kid and his outdoors loving father.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

This Man Craves Crayons.

"Dear Miss Brown: You have helped so many patients at this sanitarium I thought perhaps you could assist me. I should like very much to obtain a set of colored pencils or some water color drawing paper. I have a great deal of spare time on my hands and would like to resume my former profession of drawing.—M. D."

This man is a patient in a local tuberculosis sanitarium, and some discarded crayons or unused paper would make the hours a good deal lighter for him.

REPUBLICAN DAY AT STATE FAIR IS QUIET AFFAIR

Democrats to Have Their Innings Today.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—For the first time in twenty years Republican day at the state fair today meant practically nothing. The Republican minority discreetly left the field to the Democrats who will celebrate tomorrow. The schedule of special trains arriving tonight and tomorrow indicates that the field will be filled.

Although the big grand stand in the fair grounds was filled with harness racing fans, the Republican chieftains were few and scattered. National committeeman Frank L. Smith of Dwight was the generalissimo of those present and Francis G. Blair, the veteran superintendent of public institutions was his first lieutenant.

Leaders Are Missing.

Former Secretary of State William J. Stratton of Ingleside, an announced candidate for state treasurer, did not put in an appearance. Neither did C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, defeated last year by Treasurer John C. Martin of Salem, nor Oscar Nelson of Geneva, former auditor. Another name bandied about the stands for the fiscal job today was that of Maj. Carlos Ames of Chicago, former president of the Civil Service commission.

For months political gossip has held that both Stratton and Nelson were to try for the post and, if elected, run for governor in 1936. But Nelson has kept silent in the face of Stratton's announcement several weeks ago. Mr. Brooks is popular with the war veterans, as is Maj. Ames.

Committeeman Smith Explains.

Explaining the dearth of Republicans present, Committeeman Smith said that he had been notified only last Thursday by Director of Agriculture Walter W. McLaughlin that today had been set apart for the party. Inquiries by Mr. Smith brought the information that State Chairman Franklin J. Stransky of Savannah had gone fishing and few of the other state leaders showed much interest.

"They advised against a demonstration," Smith said, "for two reasons: First, the time was too short and, second, the psychology not right."

Democratic day tomorrow promises to bring a record crowd of Jeffersonians who have not been allowed to hold a celebration which counted at the Fair since Dunne's time. Gov. Horner and Senator Dieterich will speak, Mayor Kelly is expected to lead a large group of Chicagoans, and the downstate folks from as far south as Egypt plan to pack the grounds.

Five Killed, Six Injured in Jap Naval Maneuvers

TOKIO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Five men were killed and six injured during the Japanese naval maneuvers ended Aug. 21, a belated navy office communique said today. One seaplane was lost. High seas swept several of the men overboard. The war games took place several hundred miles south of Tokio and included nearly all ships on the navy commissioned list.

'CO-OP RESTAURANT' LUNCH POISONS 150; NONE FATALLY ILL

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Between 150 and 175 employés of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., credit rating firm at 290 Broadway, became violently ill of food poisoning today, following luncheon in the employés coöperative restaurant.

Police were inclined to attribute the illness to egg salad sandwiches.

Twenty internes, a corps of nurses and several squads of patrolmen were in the building from 3:30 p. m. until almost 8 o'clock helping the sick to taxicabs or ambulances. Twenty-two were taken to the hospital to remain over night.

About 600 of the 1,200 men and women employed by the firm had had luncheon in the coöp restaurant. Of four women employed in the restaurant, one prepared the egg salad at home and brought it to the restaurant in five gallon tubs, according to the police. One of the tubs was taken for inspection to the health department. So were samples of the egg mayonnaise.

Lieut. John Hanley said there were no arrests and that none was contemplated.

JAPAN SEES SELF SLATED FOR U. S. TRADE ALLIANCE

Predicts Closer Ties with America.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 23.—Increased American trade in the far east, especially in raw materials, is regarded by political and business leaders here as certain to result from the failure of the world economic conference. These leaders ascribe this to the following reasons:

1. Japan feels that the United States faces trade antagonism of a nature amounting in fact to hatred from a practically united Europe. This antagonism, it is pointed out, came to full flower at the world economic conference. The conference ended in failure largely because, Japan agrees, the United States refused any longer to be the "sacrificial goat" on the altar of European selfishness. Accordingly, the United States will look for markets elsewhere, especially in the far east.

2. With the notable exception of the United States and Canada, Japan also now finds itself confronted by a barrier of determined trade enemies. It becomes increasingly evident that this country will have to wage a most strenuous battle to preserve the extensive world markets that it has built up for most of its main lines of export, especially cotton textiles and rayon yarn and fabrics. The most formidable antagonism comes from Great Britain. Accordingly Japan, in retaliation, will strive to purchase much of the raw materials it formerly bought from Great Britain and some of its possessions from other countries, principally the United States.

Much as in the case of Japan, the United States, business leaders here say, is now economically isolated with the exception of Canada and Latin America. What could be more natural, then, the Japanese declare, than that their country and the United States should work together wholeheartedly?

If an economic and political entente could be reached with America, Japan also feels that the two countries could declare a naval entente likewise which again would be of immeasurable benefit to both.

STRIKES MENACE CHILE AFTER ONE YEAR'S INFLATION

Workers Demand More Pay as Prices Rise.

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 23.—This country which for more than a year was flushed with an artificial amelioration produced by inflation, is now experiencing some of the reactions which usually follow an overdose of "watered currency."

The newspapers today carried stories of strike threats in five industries because the workers have found that their wages are buying less food and clothing than before. Printers, state and municipal workers, street car and bus men, sailors and school teachers figured among the agitators for more purchasing power.

When inflation began in Chile the people were told that if judiciously used and taken in small doses it would be their salvation. At that time there were approximately 400 millions of pesos in circulation. The "small doses" of inflation have brought this today to nearly 900 millions. The gold reserves declined by one-half during the same period.

Prosperity for a Year.

During the first year's paper printing—"judiciously done"—there was ostensible prosperity. More money circulated, the exchange value depreciated to help exports and stop imports, and a good demand for national goods sprang up. Many jobless found work and factory dividends began to mount again.

The reaction came just when the monetary adventure was being hailed as a success. Elated at the initial success, the government let itself go. It printed 200 million of pesos to make up a budgetary deficit and whenever it found itself short set the printing machinery to work again. It paid all its debts in this way.

The new money, however, did not find its way into circulation, as the inflationists claimed. It simply went back to the banks and apparently will remain there until traders have more confidence in national policy. Latest central bank statistics show that of the 900 millions "in circulation" roughly 450 millions is in the banks. When there were only 400 millions of pesos the unit was worth 12½ cents in gold. Today when there are 900 millions the unit is worth 2 cents gold.

Living Costs Rise.

The rise in the cost of living for the average worker has been 50 per cent during the last year. Taking 100 as the index figure, clothing is recorded at 133, food at 146.8, light and fuel at 140. The charge on the worker is much more, however, because the increase is based on national food and clothing. The foreign value of the peso has declined to such an extent as to preclude purchase of better quality imported goods.

Wages have not increased correspondingly, as Chilean inflationists claimed they would when the inflation doses were begun. Taking 100 as the basic figure again, the daily wage scale in Santiago registered about 78 when the last central bank investigation was made.

The present finance minister, Gustave Ross, who inherited the inflationist legacy from the Socialist régime, recognizes that "big wage increases must come" and has started off by conceding a 10 to 50 per cent increase to public employés.

Injunction Denied Against Evanston Draught Beer Ban

A petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the enforcement of the Evanston beer ordinance, which prohibits the sale of draught beer and allows the consumption of bottled beer only in homes, was denied yesterday by Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court. The bill for injunction was brought by Attorney Crittenden Jarvis on behalf of four restaurant owners in Evanston who charged that the ordinance was in violation of the state and federal laws. Judge Williams held that the city of Evanston had the right to regulate the sale of beer. He allowed Attorney Jarvis ten days to file an amended bill.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Capt. Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's outstanding player for three years, will lead the gridiron stars of the central states to Soldiers' field tonight at 8:30 to battle a team from the far west, most of whom are from the University of Southern California, whose deeds of valor have twice won national championships. The intersectional cry: "California against the world," is expected to attract a crowd of 30,000, one of the largest to see a game at Soldiers' field since the historic days when Knute Rockne and Notre Dame faced an older generation of Southern California men.

WESLEY FESLER.

The test of east and west, football's contribution to A Century of Progress, by virtue of selection of seven players from Southern California on the western starting lineup by Coach Howard Jones, the bellwether of the Trojans' rise to national fame, now has become a test between Southern California men and the players of the central states.

Warner System vs. Jones System.

There are exceptions. Dave Nesbit of Washington, at end, and Max Krause, Gonzaga's hard running back, will start. Two stars from the University of California, Sam Gill, a guard, and Frank Schaldach, quarter back, complete the lineup, but the key positions are filled by Trojans. It will be Southern California football against the double wing back Warner system as taught by Dick Hanley.

Seven of the players chosen by Hanley for the opening kickoff are from the Western conference. Notre Dame will have two representatives while Nebraska has sent its all-star center, Lawrence Ely. Don Zimmerman, best known of Tulane's players, completes the eleven.

Stars Are Plentiful.

In picking his first team Hanley has named six men who are thoroughly familiar with the double wing back system of attack. Pug Rentner and Jack Riley, outstanding on Northwestern's 1931 championship team; Brad Robinson and Clarence Munn of Minnesota; Wes Fesler of Ohio State, and Harry Newman, Michigan's great quarter back, have played this system. This assures a coherence of play after only ten days of practice that otherwise might not be obtained.

The question of tactics may be be-

Six Dare to Race Equipoise Today; He's at 1-4 in Betting

BY FRENCH LANE.

Five trainers of race horses—brave at heart, but shivering a bit at the knees—walked into the offices at the Hawthorne race track yesterday morning and entered six steeds to oppose the great champion, Equipoise, in the running of the $25,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup this afternoon.

The horses which dare to take issue with mighty Equipoise are Gallant Sir and Plucky Play, nominated by Woody Fitzgerald, who trains for Norman W. Church of Los Angeles; Indian Runner, from D. Wood's stable of Benton, Ill.; Mr. Khayyam, representing Mrs. J. N. Austin's Catawba farm in New York; T. H. McCaffrey's Big Brand, from Kentucky, and old Jim Dandy, from John McKee's barn in California.

Ton of Money on Equipoise.

After the entries were announced for the ranking weight for age championship race of the year in America, which will be run before a crowd of more than 20,000, Equipoise's admirers came forward with their wagers.

They speculated so stoutly and in such volume the price against the champion shrunk to 1 to 4.

Despite their excellent workouts for the race the Church entry of Plucky Play and Gallant Sir could master but little support. Yet the entry was the second choice at 4 to 1 with Indian Runner and Mr. Khayyam the equal third choice at 12 to 1. With the skies clear and a fast track in prospect old Jim Dandy didn't seem to have a friend in the world. The odds against him were 100 to 1, and if one coaxed his bookmaker a bit he could get 200 to 1 against Old Jim.

May Raise Mark to $313,000.

If Equipoise wins this afternoon he will earn around $16,000. This will boost his total to slightly more than $313,000. Yet it will leave Equipoise in fourth place in the race for high money winning honors, just a few hundred dollars back of Zev, which is in third place.

The standing of the four leading winners follows:

Horse.	Starts.	Wins.	Amt. won.
Sun Beau	74	33	$376,744
Gallant Fox	17	11	328,165
Zev	43	23	313,639
Equipoise	39	24	297,170

Second money today is worth $5,000; third money, $3,000; fourth money, $1,500, and fifth money, $500. If the consolation prizes were not so liberal Equipoise would have a chance to pass Zev's mark.

1,000 Watch Workout.

Equipoise comes up to his Gold cup engagement in excellent condition. His final workout at Saratoga on Monday offered the proof. He was on the Hawthorne course for a short speed test yesterday morning and going easily and well in hand galloped a half mile in 49 seconds. He was just breezing all the way.

Despite his early appearance on the track—it was before 7 o'clock—about 1,000 people lined the rails to see his training move. He went just like a machine all the way. Mr. Khayyam galloped the same distance in the same time. Gallant Sir went a half breezing in :55 and Plucky Play was opened up for five furlongs in 1:04 2-5.

The Gold Cup will be run before the largest crowd of the year at Hawthorne. All clubhouse and most of the grand stand box seats had been sold yesterday.

Sun Beau Wins Three.

The race was first run back in 1928 when Display beat Mike Hall and Crusader in a thrilling finish. The next year Sun Beau was first, Misstep was second and Diavolo third. In 1930 Sun Beau rolled up his second cup victory, beating out Pigeon Hole and Alcibiades. He won it again in 1931 with Mate second and Plucky Play third. The only big upset came last year when Plucky Play, running one of the great races of his career, was up in time to beat Faireno and Mate. The Gold Cup is the sixth race on today's program.

Here They Are

THE field for the sixth running of the $25,000 added mile and a quarter Hawthorne Gold Cup this afternoon is as follows:

P.P.	Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.
1	Jim Dandy	126	W. Wright	100 to 1
2	Big Brand	126	H. Schutte	30 to 1
3	*Gall't Sir	126	L. Hu'phries	4 to 1
4	Equipoise	126	R. Workman	1 to 4
5	*Pl'ky Play	126	G. Woolf	4 to 1
6	Ind. Runner	126	A. Tipton	12 to 1
7	Mr. Kh'yam	117	P. Walls	12 to 1

*N. W. Church entry.

MRS. HILL CARDS 75, DUDLEY TWO 69S IN PRACTICE

A couple of the leading favorites in the western open tournament, beginning at Olympia Fields tomorrow and the national women's tournament, which opens at Exmoor Monday, quit practicing yesterday and played some real golf which makes both of them persons to be reckoned with when the actual firing commences.

MRS. O. S. HILL.

They were Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, Mo., three times western champion and always a contender in the national, and Ed Dudley, the tall Wilmington, Del., professional who won the western open in 1931 and was a member of this year's American Ryder cup team. Mrs. Hill supplied the principal excitement of the day and one of the best rounds of the Chicago season when she went around Exmoor for a 75, four under par and three under the old record of 78, held by Jane Weiller of Northmoor.

Two 69s for Dudley.

Dudley, who apparently will not observe any NRA code as applied to golf, went over the No. 1 and No. 4 courses at Olympia Fields, both of which will be used during the tournament. He shot a 69 on both, the figure being one under par on the difficult No. 4, to equal the round shot by Horton Smith of Oak Park on Monday, and three under par on the No. 1 course.

The cards of Mrs. Hill and Dudley follow:

Exmoor par—Out	555	554	343	39
Exmoor par—In	544	345	555	40—79
Mrs. Hill—Out	544	554	353	38
Mrs. Hill—In	443	344	555	37—75

OLYMPIA FIELDS NO. 1.

Par—Out	443	543	445	36
Par—In	543	434	445	36—72
Dudley—Out	432	443	455	34
Dudley—In	443	435	354	35—69

Ed did not turn in his card for the 69 on the No. 4 course. He went out in 34 and came home in 35.

Enid Wilson Expected Today.

A number of stars in both tournaments are expected to arrive today to join the army already practicing both at Exmoor and Olympia Fields. Enid Wilson, who has held the British woman's championship for the last three years, is one of the anticipated arrivals at Exmoor. Densmore Shute, who recently returned from his triumph in the British open tournament, wired last night from Philadelphia that business would prevent him from competing in the western.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE success of the interleague baseball game at Comiskey park July 6 has given rise to numerous suggestions for repetition of the event or variations of it in 1934. The most recent or at least the one most widely discussed calls for a radical departure in schedule making by which the American and National leagues next year would try out a midseason series of interleague contests.

The plan provides for each club to play four games with every team in the other league on a home and home basis, the results and averages to count in the standings.

While the idea has developed some support among National league magnates, we doubt if it is adopted because it is based on the presumption that the sport is in a state of decadence. There is nothing wrong with baseball, no more than any other industry. Give the fans a winning team or an outstanding attraction and they will attend. That is true in all lines of entertainment. The theaters were in a bad way until they found out what became of Sally. A couple of fans put the show business on its feet.

Baseball faced serious financial problems during the war but it bounded back when normalcy was restored. There is no reason to doubt it will repeat when and if its supporters return to work. More than 500,000 participated in the nation-wide poll recently conducted by THE TRIBUNE to pick players for the Game of the Century. Although the Cubs and Sox are lagging in the pennant races, you can't walk fifty yards in a residential district without hearing radio announcers informing housewives of the progress of the day's game. The interest is still there.

I recently read an article by a reporter on another newspaper in which he bemoaned the decreased receipts in 1933 baseball. I am wondering if they were greater than the reduction in advertising revenue his newspaper suffered for the same period.

There probably never has been a time when all the clubs in the major leagues operated at a profit. The fans support winners or teams with colorful figures. Over a span of years most of them get a break.

The figures for attendance at National league games this season are not available, but the American league is less than 10 per cent behind 1932. If the Yankees close in on the Senators to maintain interest up to the closing days of the campaign the season's records may surpass last year's

The proposed interleague series for 1934 might help the leading clubs but I do not see how it would stimulate interest among the tail enders. For instance, could you become excited about a duel between the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Browns?

Let's suppose that at midseason in 1934 the Cubs are leading the National league and the Yankees are ahead in the American. That would be a natural, Chicago versus New York. Let's suppose further that the Yankees repeated their feat of 1932 by winning four straight from the Cubs. Can you imagine the effect on the world series in event the same clubs carried through their league seasons victoriously?

Including the interleague games in the standings would lead to complications, too. The Giants, for example, might owe their leadership in the National league race to victories over the Boston Red Sox or St. Louis Browns. They then would not be the champions of the National league but the champions of the National and American leagues. And Washington might yell murder.

Judging from the difficulties encountered in getting 16 club owners to agree on one interleague game, and an exhibition at that, we doubt if they ever will unanimously favor a program of 32 interleague games involving so many complications.

MULLIGAN, IRISH BOXER, STARTS JOURNEY HOME

Patrick Gerald Mulligan, heavyweight on the Irish boxing team which fought the Golden Gloves champions at Soldiers' field Aug. 2, left Chicago yesterday afternoon for New York, whence he will sail for home. Mulligan's ankle was broken in his bout with John Pacek of Chicago and he has been in a hospital since.

Capt. McEwan Signs to Coach Brooklyn Eleven

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Christian Keener [Red] Cagle, new co-owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football league today announced he had signed Capt. John E. McEwan, his former Army coach to coach the Dodgers during the coming season.

W-G-N inaugurates its football season tonight when the all star East vs. West teams meet on Soldiers' field. A complete broadcast of the contest will be presented by THE TRIBUNE station starting at 8:20 p. m. Bob Elson, W-G-N sports announcer, will present the play by play account.

Reb Russell, Former N. U. Star, Signs with Giants

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The New York Giants of the National Football league today announced the signing of Reb Russell, former Northwestern university backfield star from Coffeyville, Kas.

CUBS FACE FOUR DOUBLE HEADERS NEXT FOUR DAYS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 23.—The weather man now is overplaying his hand on the Cubs. They didn't mind being rained out yesterday in New York, but when another vacation was forced on them today they began to take a different slant at the situation. They now face four double headers in a row starting tomorrow. Three of the twin bills are booked for disposal here and one in Brooklyn on Sunday. On top of this another double header will be encountered at Brooklyn Tuesday. That's 11 games in six days. The pitching staff is already ill just from contemplating the program.

The afternoon of idleness wasn't without its amusing features. The report spread around that Manager Charley Grimm and Riggs Stephenson had gone out into the driving rain and got themselves killed by a skidding automobile. Mr. Grimm was located in his room arranging a new parody for "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More." Mr. Stephenson, when informed that he was supposed to be among the deceased, declared, "I am glad that it isn't true." The rumor is supposed to have started from misinterpretation of code words on a race track wire.

Veeck Rejoins Team.

William Veeck, the Cubs' president, rejoined the team today after a day in New York, during which he was widely publicized for making a statement that he favored the idea of devoting about a month next season to the playing of games between American and National league teams as a business stimulus

The succession of rainy days also is increasing the appearance of stories touching on the managerial situation with different clubs and Grimm hasn't been excluded. To these Mr. Veek has nothing to say, except to declare that the boys have to write about something. However, it is fairly definite that there is no intention of unseating Grimm immediately on the possibility that a fresh manager might stampede the team into a pennant. Veeck's comments indicate that he now is satisfied the team is lacking in certain particulars, principally hitting, and that the managerial incumbent isn't responsible for that.

Bush, Tinning to Pitch.

If play is conducted tomorrow, Guy Bush and Bud Tinning will operate against the Phillies, who probably will come up with Phil Collins and Ed Holley. Possibilities for a game are slim, however. The field today was covered by water and tonight the rain was still driving in off the restless Atlantic. Any games not played during this series will be transferred to Chicago, as were the two Giant battles which were washed away yesterday.

JONES ALLOWS ONLY 3 HITS AND DURHAM 4

Kress Leads Attack with Homer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday swept a double header from the Boston Red Sox, the second time they have done such in the two afternoons since the Boston fellows came to town. In the first game Sam Jones allowed only three hits in registering a 3 to 1 victory, and in the second contest the lads romped in behalf of Ed Durham for a 12 to 1 decision. Durham allowed only four hits, two in the fourth and two in the fifth.

RALPH KRESS.

The second game should have been the second shutout of the series, but Kress and Simmons, after waiting till two were out in the ninth, made the only Chicago errors of the afternoon. Simmons' error let the lone run get home. He dropped an easy fly because he started to the club house before he had the ball.

Kress Packs Big Wallop.

Red Kress was the big shot of the Chicago offensive in both games. He drove in the winning run with a single in the third inning of the first game and his double drove in the velvet counter in the eighth. In the fourth inning of the second game Kress broke a 0 to 0 deadlock by knocking a homer with the bases loaded.

Kress' homer started a lot of riotous hitting, for the White Sox made three more runs in the fourth. Haas contributed two hits and Simmons two putouts in the inning.

Charley Berry was runner-up to Kress for hitting honors, with four safeties in four times at bat in the second game. The string included two doubles. Charley also scored three runs.

Simmons Still in Slump.

Simmons continued his terrific slump. In the first game Tuesday he was the only Chicago player who failed to get a hit and his batting operations were confined to an infield single in the second game. Yesterday he made an infield single in the first game and in the second contest again was the only White Sox who failed to make a hit. The Sox total hits, of which Simmons got none, was 15, exactly the same as in the case of his solo failure Tuesday.

FIRST GAME

The Sox scored enough in the first three innings to accomplish a victory—making one in the second and another in the third.

Hayes walked with one out in the second and went to third on Grube's single to right. Jones at this point was deprived of the first of his legitimate hits. He drove the ball into right, scoring Hayes, but Grube failed to run to second. Johnson got the ball and threw to Warstler, forcing Grube. Naturally Sam's hit was erased from the book.

Kress Drives in Simmons.

The winning run was started on its way after two were out. Simmons beat out an infield single, stopped at third on Appling's double to left, and scored on Kress' single which Hodapp knocked down back of second.

Ferrell made the first hit off Jones, a single in the fifth. He immediately was blotted out in a double play.

In the Red Sox' half of the seventh inning Jones was deprived of a shut-

HOPE TO DO CAN'T DO IT; QUITS IN STRETCH AT 3-2

Royal Blunder Wins Best Race at Hawthorne.

Admiral Grayson's Hope to Do, the 3 to 2 favorite in the Fox Valley purse, the feature at Hawthorne yesterday, ran a dismal race and quit so badly in the stretch that he finished fifth in the five horse field.

Royal Blunder, from Audley farm, which was given a stirring ride by Earl Pool, got up in time to trim Dusky Devil and Big Red by a margin of a length. In the mutuels Royal Blunder paid $7.60, despite the red hot tip which went out on him near post time.

Jockey Westrope, who wasn't doing so well during the afternoon, engaged in a galloping fight with Jockey J. Kacala in the sixth race. Kacala was riding Brains and Westrope was up on Happy Fellow. Westrope thought Kacala was crowding him into the rail heading into the last turn. He struck Kacala across the face with his whip. Kacala drew a five day suspension for the encounter and Westrope was fined $50. Replevin won the race. Brains was second and Happy Fellow third.

Westrope's only victory came on Gallop Along in the second race, which started off a daily double winding up on Stroll Along. All the hunch players were down hook, line, and sinker, and the double paid but $10.40.

After L. Balaski had ridden Ondott to an unexpected victory in the fourth race he fell off his horse. The ambulance was called and Balaski had to weigh in on the scales at the first aid hospital room. It delayed the flashing of the "official" sign for nearly ten minutes.

Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, will see the running of the Gold Cup at Hawthorne this afternoon. He has recently transferred his headquarters from downtown Chicago to Lincoln Fields track, where he will direct preparations for the Lincoln Fields early autumn meeting which opens on Sept. 4.

Among the innovations at Lincoln Fields will be the new mutuel ticket selling machines, which successfully met all tests at the recent Latonia meeting in Kentucky. The machines are electrically operated and lock with the release of the barrier.

Several hundred citizens of Texas, here for the World's Fair, will be in the Gold Cup crowd this afternoon. They reserved blocks of seats in both the clubhouse and grandstand sections. Charley Ford, Hawthorne stockholder and director, will entertain a large party from El Paso, headed by W. A. Crawford.

Tramblie and Firpo Finally Box Tonight

Henry Firpo, Louisville, Ky., boxer, and Ray Tramblie of Rockford, Ill., will meet in an eight round bout tonight at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Inclement weather caused postponement of the match last week.

It will be their second meeting. Several weeks ago Firpo was awarded a decision over Tramblie at Louisville. In recent contests Firpo whipped Bud Saltis and Tramblie beat Joe Mendoza.

Eddie Stiegal, stock yards welterweight, will face Mickey O'Shea in the six round semi-final. Stiegal has won eight straight bouts. Last Monday O'Shea held Henry Rothler to a draw. Leo Rodak is paired with Al De Rose at four rounds in his third professional appearance. Other contests:

Henry Hamburg vs. John Liston.
Oscar O'Hanion vs. Joe Lunnetto [4]
Popeye Huber vs. Johnny Reba [4].

Einar Hedquist and Sammy Adams have signed to box six rounds tomorrow at the Rainbo Fronton. A four round match will bring together Jack Otey and Fred Miller. Four other contests are being arranged.

Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, scheduled to arrive on Sept. 1 to train for his 10 round encounter with King Levinsky at White Sox ball park Sept. 15, has postponed his arrival until Sept. 5. Sharkey will be making his Chicago debut against Levinsky. Sharkey handled the late Ernie Schaaf against Young Stribling at the Stadium two years ago.

The first indoor show here is to be presented at the Cicero stadium on Sept. 8. Harry Dublinsky and Jacquotte Elverillo are being sought for the main bout. Dublinsky is in Tomahawk, Wis., for a rest. . . . Buck Everett, Gary heavyweight, signed yesterday to box Charley Belanger in a return bout at Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 21. Everett is scheduled to meet Corn Griffith at Asheville, N. C., Sept. 4.

Roy Wallace, Indianapolis 168 pound fighter, and Henry Firpo accepted terms yesterday for a match at Shewbridge field a week from tonight. . . . Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., featherweight, and Joe Sanchez are paired at Hollywood, Cal., tomorrow. . . . Vincent Sireci has replaced Frankie Battaglia against Karl Ogren at Northwest stadium next Wednesday. Battaglia is being sought as an opponent for the Sireci-Ogren winner at the Northwest arena Sept. 6.

Tony Herrera, El Paso, Tex., boxer, returned yesterday from his home after recovering from a leg injury sustained several weeks ago. . . . The annual convention of the National A. A. U. will be held the first week in November. . . . An amateur card is scheduled for tonight at the C. Y. O. stadium, 1140 Jackson boulevard. Eight matches are booked, with Tom Kenneally, Tom Pacetti, Ed Mileski, and Sam Alfano among the contestants. . . . Lenny Cohen will represent Chicago in an intercity tournament with amateur boxers from South Chicago at the Ashland arena tomorrow. His opponent will be Eddie Citek.

Winner trained by B. Rosenheim. Went to post at 2:15. At post 1 minute. Start good for all but Mayreen from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

FIRE STAR, away fast, but taken under mild restraint to follow the pace, slowly wore down SOCIAL SERVICE and won under strong urging. SOCIAL SERVICE, placed in front under strong urging, saved ground after a quarter and failed to withstand winner, yet held on fairly well. LUNA BRIGHT hesitated as if to bolt or wheel shortly after the start, was in close quarters much of the trip, and closed resolutely.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by O. L. Foster. Went to post at 2:42½. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

GALLOP ALONG, raced wide throughout and never a great distance back, bettered his position slowly when under strong hand riding in stretch and was up in closing strides. PRINCE PLATO, a strong factor throughout, held on gamely and wore down PORTCODINE in final strides. Latter reached the lead on inside and before going a quarter, came away slightly in stretch, but weakened in final eighth.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by J. Stewart. Went to post at 3:07½. At post 2½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

STROLL ALONG, in close quarters the first half mile, worked his way through when entering stretch and, drawing out into a safe lead, won easily. LAZICANTER lost ground throughout and held on well. HIS LAST moved up on stretch turn and weakened under pressure. Last placed HOPULIKIT.

Time, :24, :47 3-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:20. Two dollar mutuels paid: Ondott, $14.90 straight, $6.02 place, $3.60 show; Meloy, $3.54 place, $2.58 show; Sarazen II., $3.36 show. Winner trained by J. B. Partridge. Went to post at 3:33½. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

ONDOTT, away slowly and in close quarters early, found room on inside when entering stretch, came around STOCK MARKET and MELOY in the final eighth, and won driving out. MELOY forced the pace under snug restraint, drew into command slowly after reaching the stretch, but could not withstand the winner. SARAZEN II. lacked room much of the trip and closed stoutly after coming out in stretch.

Winner trained by J. F. Patterson. Went to post at 3:59. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

ROYAL BLUNDER, under strong restraint for three-quarters and raced wide the final half mile, took command with a rush approaching the final eighth and then weakened, but stalled off DUSKY DEVIL. Latter forced a fast pace, failed to withstand winner after reaching stretch, but held on well and gained slightly on the victor in the closing stages. BIG RED dropped out of it approaching the far turn, rallied in final quarter, where he bore over and went evenly the final eighth.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :25 2-5, :50 1-5, 1:15, 1:40, 1:47 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Replevin, $24.42 straight, $9.28 place, $6.16 show; Brains, $4.22 place, $3.62 show; Happy Fellow, $3.32 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:24. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

REPLEVIN, going in his best form and much the best, raced restrained to final three-eighths, easily disposed of BRAINS, and won drawing out. Latter, taken back repeatedly, lost much ground on lower turn and could not withstand winner, but was best of others. HAPPY FELLOW suffered interference from BRAINS on far turn and could not keep up in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Ultra Marine, $13.52 straight, $7.86 place, $3.50 show; Prose and Poetry, $4.60 place, $2.98 show; Captain Ed, $2.28 show. Winner trained by E. McCown. Went to post at 4:49. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

ULTRA MARINE, improved and poorly ridden, went to the front under urging when leaving the backstretch, was taken under strong restraint on the stretch turn and, holding on well, outstayed PROSE AND POETRY. The latter had speed but was taken back repeatedly, lost much ground the final three-eighths, and held on gamely under pressure, but could not get up. CAPTAIN ED, slow to begin, saved ground to the stretch, where he came to the outside and, closing strong, was wearing down the leaders.

Time, :25 2-5, :50 1-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:41, 1:48. Two dollar mutuels paid: Belgian Lass, $6.82 straight, $4.02 place, $2.84 show; Ed Lark, $4.90 place, $2.28 show; Royal Guinea, $4.46 show. Winner trained by J. D. Mikel. Went to post at 5:16. At post 2¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

BELGIAN LASS, under strong restraint until reaching the final half-mile, lost much ground on the stretch turn and, racing wide thereafter, disposed of ROYAL GUINEA and ED LARK for a handy win. The latter, cleverly rated, took command gradually, but could not withstand the winner. ROYAL GUINEA went over sharply soon after the start, was well rated, but weakened in the final three-sixteenths.

CALIFORNIA PARK SWIMMERS EYE TRIBUNE TROPHY

Blackhawk Park to Have 45 in Race Sunday.

California park, located on the west bank of the north branch of the Chicago river and one block south of Irving Park boulevard, has one of the finest outdoor pools in the city. Perhaps this is the reason why large numbers of Californaia park swimmers always have entered tl annual races sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. At any rate, Alvin J. Ott, director of the pool, will have another fine team in the fourth renewal of the 100 yard free style races Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln park lagoon.

Several of the members of the team have competed in all THE TRIBUNE races. The youngest entry this year is Harriet Hurtienne, who placed fourth last year in class A for girls 11 and 12 years old. She will swim again Sunday in the same class.

California park will be represented by eight girls in the first three of the age divisions and 41 boys in all five divisions. From this group of selected swimmers, all of whom have been practicing daily, Director Ott believes will come several champions.

Blackhawk Park Enters 45.

Blackhawk park of the northwest park district also has consistently sent its best swimmers to the 100 yard races. This year E. G. Peavey, swimming instructor, hopes to win at least one of the two team trophies. Blackhawk's 45 swimmers will be entered in nine of the ten age classes as follows: Class A girls, 3; class B girls, 4; class C girls, 4, and class D girls, 5. Class A boys, 3; class B boys, 5; class C boys, 8; class D boys, 1, and class E boys, 12.

The team competition this year, since it has been enlarged to give a trophy for boys and another for girls, promises to be very close. But the value of the races centers more on individual accomplishment. There are ten gold medals for the winners, ten silver medals for those who finish second, and ten bronze medals for third place. However, each contestant who reports for the races and proves his or her ability to swim 100 yards will receive a souvenir button. No other swimming events in Chicago offer as much opportunity for novices. Consequently novices form the bulk of the entries.

SENATORS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH DETROIT

Lose First Game, 2 to 1; Take Second, 9 to 5.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—(AP)—After outstanding work by Tommy Bridges on the mound and at bat had won the opening engagement of a double header with Washington, 2 to 1, the Detroit Tigers today suffered a return of their pitching weakness and the Senators won the closing game, 9 to 5.

Bridges worked the entire first game, yielding seven hits. In the second inning he drove in a run with a single. In the ninth he opened with a triple that turned into the winning score.

Fred Marberry dropped the second game in the opening inning, walking four men, allowing three hits and four runs. Auker relieved him in the first and Hogsett took over the assignment in the third, but the Senators coasted to victory. Stewart went the route for Washington in the second game. Score:

Boston, Mass., Aug. 23. — (AP) — Wally Berger hammered out the winning runs for the second successive day, as the Boston Braves today strengthened their hold on second place, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, in the first of a three game series, played in mist and fog.

Berger, hitting his 23d and 24th home runs of the season to capture the lead in the National league from Chuck Klein, drove in all of Boston's runs. Yesterday he hit a homer in the 14th inning to give the Indians a decision over the Pirates.

ROSS ARRIVES IN NEW YORK FOR CANZONERI BOUT

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Barney Ross, new lightweight champion, arrived from Chicago today to begin training for his match Sept. 12 with Tony Canzoneri, from whom he won the title last June. Ross, who was accompanied by Art Winch and Sam Pian, his managers, and Izzy Kline, trainer, was greeted at the station by Jimmy Mattern, the flyer, who made the champion's acquaintance in Chicago.

Also at the station to greet Ross were twelve members of the New York News Golden Gloves boxing team, including Al Santora, whom Barney defeated for the intercity featherweight title in 1929.

Ross will start training tomorrow at Stillman's gymnasium. On Saturday he will leave for Lake Swannanoa, N. J., to set up his camp there.

Sox Win Two from Boston, 3-1 and 12-1

out, and in the White Sox' half he had a hit erased for the second time in the game. After Judge had fanned and Cooke had grounded out to Appling, Johnson walked and scored the lone Boston run on Ferrell's triple to the right field corner. Hayes made a nice play to throw out Jolley.

Jones opened the Chicago seventh with an apparent double off the left field wall. But when the ball was relayed, Jolley to Hodapp to Judge, Jones was called out for having failed to touch first. It was just a putout.

Blot Out Boston Threat.

Hodapp led off the first of the eighth with a double to right center, causing the Red Sox to become hopeful that they would tie the score. The hope faded, however, when Warstler grounded to Jones who threw to Dykes in time to spear Hodapp at third. Alexander battled for Kline and rounded to Hayes. Hayes' toss to Appling was too late to force Warstler at second, but Appling's relay got Alexander at first. Dykes, Jones and Grube collided in front of the plate in getting under Werber's popup, but Grube, being rugged, managed to hold the ball.

With Rhodes pitching in the eighth, the Sox added a run for comfort. Appling singled with one down and scored on Kress' second run producing hit, a double to left.

SECOND GAME

Some unbelievably inept base running by Hayes prevented the White Sox from scoring in the third. Hayes walked. Then Berry doubled over first base. Hayes ran almost to the plate and then stopped, although Jackson's throw was high and about eight feet to the right of the plate. Jack could have scored easily, but was a soft victim on his retreat. Durham fanned and Swanson lined to Johnson.

Nice fielding, some of it himself, saved Durham embarrassment in the fourth. Simmons made a fine race to the neighborhood of the scoreboard to get Cooke's drive. Hodapp singled to right for the first Boston hit and stopped at second on Johnson's single to left. Alexander slammed a hot grounder to Durham, who launched a double play through Appling.

And here's the way the scene was set for Kress' big act in the fourth. Haas opened with a single through Warstler and Dykes was hit by a pitched ball. Simmons flied to Cooke, but Appling walked, filling the bases. Red then drove the ball on a line into the left field stands about six feet inside the foul line, Haas, Dykes, and Appling trotting in ahead of him, of course.

Hayes popped to Hodapp, but Berry came through with his second hit, a single to center. Durham and Swanson walked, filling the bases. Then Haas bounced his second single of the inning, Berry scoring and the bases remaining full. Dykes followed with a single to center, Durham and Swanson scoring and Haas taking third. Simmons then supplied his second putout of the inning when he forced Dykes on a tap to Werber.

Simmons, Kress Err.

The Chicago Sox grabbed off four more runs in the fifth. Appling started it with a single to right, paused while Kress popped to Alexander and scored on Hayes' triple to right. Berry knocked his third successive hit, a single to center, scoring Hayes, and went to second on Durham's sacrifice. Swanson singled to center scoring Berry, and stole second. Haas bounced a triple over Jolley's head, scoring Swanson. Dykes fouled to Gooch.

The Sox brought their run total to an even dozen in the seventh. Berry doubled to center for his fourth straight hit and scored on Durham's single to center.

Durham was deprived of a shutout when Kress and Simmons each made an error after two were out in the ninth. Hodapp walked to start the ninth and Seeds popped to Appling. Alexander fanned and Jolley was safe when Kress fumbled his grounder. Werber sent an easy fly to Simmons, who in his efforts to be nonchalant, dropped the ball, Hodapp scoring.

Caretaker of Polo Ponies Is Killed in Fall Off Train

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Harold Quinn, 23 years old, Westbury, L. I., caretaker of polo ponies used in Chicago in the East-West series, was killed instantly late yesterday when he fell while asleep from a Pennsylvania car attached to a fast passenger train express as it passed through Plymouth. The body was discovered beside the track by Carl Lamborn, Plymouth. Quinn's father, Joseph Quinn, who was on the train, learned of the tragedy and returned here for the body.

Canadian Cricket Team Beats Chicago West Indians

The St. George cricket club of Winnipeg, Canada, defeated the West Indians, Chicago south side team, in a match at Washington park yesterday. The Canadian squad scored 99 runs while the West Indians had 43. The Canadians will meet the Pakenham club of Oak Park today on the latter's field, Ridgeland avenue and Division street.

Eastern Stars Battle West Team Tonight

side the point, however. Merely because Kurth and Harris, and Roy Horstman of Purdue, have played the back field shift as designed by Rockne, will not disqualify them by any means from blocking as hard, tackling as fiercely as any other member of either squad.

This same is true of the men who represent the west and in their university days fought against Southern California and now find themselves aligned with their one time foes.

Tonight's game also offers a cast replete with more than adequate talent in every branch of play. Each of the coaches has several experienced kickers, more excellent forward passers than either ever has dreamed of, and pass receivers who are as proficient as they are speedy.

Both Teams End Drill.

Both teams finished preparations yesterday. The west held a secret practice in the afternoon. At night the eastern players went through their formations for the last time.

Tonight's play will be broadcast over loud speakers so that all may follow the scrimmage. The stadium lights have been increased 30 per cent and there should be no difficulty in following the flight of the white ball.

Two special rules have been written for the contest. Forward passes may be thrown at any point behind the line of scrimmage, which in the opinion of the coaches will lead to more scoring and at least an open game. The head linesman has been shifted to an umpire's position with equal authority. An assistant will mark the position of the ball and the ground to be gained so that both umpires may follow the play more closely and be stationed at each end of the scrimmage line.

In event of rain the game will be played Saturday afternoon at Dyche stadium.

If it isn't Billy Baxter, it isn't self-stirring.

WestlandWins Silver Tassel Golf with 147

BY CHALRES BARTLETT.

Jack Westland, who has played infrequently in this year's Chicago invitational tournaments, but has seldom failed to score when he did, turned in another handy workout for the national amateur yesterday by shooting 147 to win the thirteenth annual Silver Tassel tournament of the North Shore Golf club.

Chicago district fans were looking around in the early part of the season wondering what had become of the Sunset Ridge star, when he suddenly turned up at Memphis a month ago and walked off with the western amateur championship. Next he qualified for the national amateur at Cincinnati two weeks hence, and it now appears that he will be Chicago's leading hope for the title which he came so near winning at Beverly two years ago, when he was runner up to Francis Ouimet.

Gets 71 in Afternoon.

Playing against a field of more than 100, which included several sharpshooters, Westland went over the same agriculture where Johnny Goodman won the national open in June and dashed off a 76 in the morning round. In the afternoon he quit fooling and knocked a stroke off par with a 71, playing the back nine first for a 34.

Three strokes back of Westland was Douglas Casey of Riverside, who had a 76—74—150, just enough to beat Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, who turned in 78—73—151, for second place. Westland's 71 and Lehman's 73 were the best performances of the day. A 74 by Casey and a similar score by Harry Wolf, North Shore's club champion, were next.

Westland's 147 earned him first low gross for 36 holes, with Casey taking second prize. The low net winners for the full distance were G. H. Martin, 163—18—145; William Snyder, 176—31—145; Joe Wunsch, 174—28—146, and C. H. Jenkins, 175—28—147. W. D. Fowler won the morning low gross with a 38—39—77, while Lehman's 73 was the afternoon's best. Low net winners in the morning included Col. H. B. Hackett, 87—15—72, and William Pearlman, 105—33—72, while Harry Wolf, 74—3—71, and H. W. Mollison, 88—16—72, won in the afternoon.

Low Foursome Has 663.

The 36 hole low gross foursome prizes went to Casey, Lehman, M. R. Richards, and C. D. De Barry with 663. Low net honors were taken by a quartet composed of L. E. Schwab, M. J. Lark, R. G. Creviston, and Harry Kleist, who finished with 611.

61 Wins Medal for Morrison in County Golf

Keith Morrison of Indian Wood won medalist honors in the 26th annual Cook county amateur golf tournament at Garfield park yesterday. Morrison went out in 30, one stroke under par, and came in with a 31 for a medal score of 61.

Seven players finished with 67, and there were only three places left in the championship flight, making necessary a playoff this morning at 9 o'clock. The four eliminated will play in the first flight.

The pairings in both the championship and first flight will be made this morning. The 48 qualifiers follow:

Keith Morrison, Indian Wood, 61; Jim Marek, Twin Orchards, 63; Sid Smith, Lincolnshire, 64; Hymen Judelson, Harlem, 64; Ralph Luneburg, Garfield, 64; Cal Self, unattached, 65; Russ MacCauley, Garfield, 65; Joe Hennessey, Cherry Hill, 65; Gene Hammes, Rob Roy, 66; Elmer F. ROTHERMELLS SHOOT 164 IN THE SKOKIE TOURNEY

C. T. Rothermell and his son, William, scored 164 to win low gross in the morning round of the annual Pater-Filius tournament at the Skokie Country club yesterday. W. R. Watson and his son, Walter, won low net with 143.

In the afternoon round G. J. Pope and V. Pope had an 85 in the one ball twosome to win low gross, while H. M. Keefe and H. M. Keefe Jr. scored 74 to win low net. The driving contest was won by William Rothermell, who averaged 225 yards.

RAAP WINS CLUB RELATIONS GOLF IN 5 EXTRA HOLES

Pete Raap of Medinah won the 20th club relations tournament of the Chicago District Golf association at Beverly yesterday with 79—82—161. However, he had to play five extra holes to do it, as Ralph Reedy, also of Medinah, had another 161 and succumbed on the fifth hole, only after he had shot into the woods and then into a trap. By that time it was dark.

W. G. Leininger, president of Westward Ho, was best of the reigning officials, shooting 83—81—164 to lead class A. His 83 was low gross for the morning round, but he was only allowed one prize. Clyde C. Marshall, vice president of Westmoreland, had low net in class A in the morning with 95—24—71, and G. D. Shorney, secretary of the Brookwood club had low net in the afternoon with 97—21—76. A. C. Perry, president of Bob o' Link, shot low gross in the afternoon round with 40—46—86.

In class B, for directors, Art Hancock won the morning low gross with 45—39—84, and Ralph Leffler, Rolling Green, 83—13—75, and George A. Miller, Midlothian, 85—10—75, tied for low net. Class B low gross in the afternoon went to Don Hamilton, Beverly, with 41—40—81, and Claude Gordon, Rolling Green, 93—20—73, won low net.

Beverly won the team trophy with a four man total of 336, Medinah being second with 357. The winning team was composed of Don Hamilton, John McKinlay, 81 each; Van V. Lain, 86, and Phil Lenz, 88.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—After a morning period of fair activity and rising prices the bond market today reverted to extreme dullness, although the tone remained strong for the most part. Demand dried up shortly after noon and the market became exceedingly quiet, with tape idle for long intervals.

A generally upward trend was noted in early dealings. Gains ranged from fractions to better than 2 points, with interest converging on speculative descriptions.

Rail Issues Strong.

Railroad bonds like Canadian National 4½s and Chicago and North Western 4¾s were active and strong. New York Central, Missouri Pacific, and Wabash were outstanding strong features among carrier liens.

Santa Fe general 4s touched a new high for the year and then eased off. Other high grade issues maintained a firm tone in desultory trading.

Federal Issues Gain.

American government issues were strong all around. The new treasury 3¼s reached 101, the highest since their listing ten days ago, while the 2¼s extended yesterday's gain.

Rising ⅞ of a point net, British 5½s again dominated trading in foreign bonds, having a turnover during the greater part of the session in excess of all other foreign issues combined. The foreign list in the main favored higher levels.

Predict Home Loan Bonds Will Be Quoted 90 to 100

One of the first La Salle street houses to plan participation in the marketing of bonds to be issued by the Home Owners' Loan corporation is Sterling, Barron & Co. In an analysis of the bonds, which are to be guaranteed by the United States government as to interest, although not as to principal, the company states a survey indicates a tentative quotation of 90 bid, offered at 100. The bonds, which are to be acceptable as collateral by the R. F. C. at 80 per cent of par, will be in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000.

City Ice and Fuel.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a report on City Ice and Fuel common?—A. O.

Answer: City Ice and Fuel company is the largest manufacturer and distributor of ice in this country. About 45 per cent of profits normally comes from sale of ice at wholesale and retail, 35 per cent from ice for railroad car refrigeration, 12 per cent from coal, and 8 per cent from cold storage. It serves 75 cities and metropolitan areas in 23 states and Canada.

In July of this year the management approved plans to open two breweries, each with a proposed capacity of 100,000 barrels a year, in Miami, Fla., and Granite City, Ill. In the early part of August final approval was given to the plan whereby the company acquired control of Detroit Cities Service company.

Revenues from sales for the first half of 1933 totaled $9,190,000, and net profit was $1,177,000, or 46 cents per common share. For the corresponding 1932 period gross was $10,451,000 and net income was $1,400,000, or 64 cents per common share.

Coal tonnage sales held up relatively well in 1932, but dollar sales and profit margin were lower. Total sales in 1932 were down about 20 per cent from 1931, due mainly to decreased takings of ice. Net income was $4,026,000, or $2.35 per common share, against $6,510,000, or $4.43 per common share, for 1931. Net for 1930 was $6,612,000, against $6,057,000 for 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets, including $1,021,000 cash, totaled $7,242,000, and current liabilities were $2,362,000, including $1,000,000 notes payable. Working capital was $4,879,000, against $6,673,000 the year before.

Funded debt totals $7,032,000. There are outstanding 198,558 shares of $100 par 6½ per cent preferred and 1,165,194 shares of no par common. The common pays 50 cents a quarter.

The company thus far appears not to have been vitally affected by increased use of mechanical refrigeration. Its future appears to depend on its continued ability to resist the competition of mechanical refrigeration, or, failing in that, to build up the earning power of its other lines and to branch successfully into new industries, such as the brewing trade.

Portuguese Money.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me what Portuguese money [reis] is worth at the present time.—O. M.

Answer: There is no active market for Portuguese money in this country, according to the head of the foreign exchange division of one of the leading banks. If you can find some importer who does business with Portugal you should be able to sell your reis to him. Otherwise the only way we know of to dispose of it would be to make purchases in the country itself.

WALLACE DELAYS FIXING CUT IN WHEAT ACREAGE

Gives World Parley Time to Agree.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Informed that international wheat negotiations at London have reached a "decisive stage," Secretary Wallace today delayed the domestic wheat program until all possibility of agreement there has been exhausted.

He postponed until Friday or Saturday his announcement originally scheduled for tomorrow of the percentage of acreage reduction to be required of American farmers to qualify for $136,000,000 in benefit payments. It was indicated that, if necessary, he would further delay his decision, but the department of agriculture was privately advised that there are strong possibilities of an agreement in the next 24 hours.

Prospects of an early agreement also was credited with postponing action by the department on an export policy for wheat.

May Change Cut.

The acreage reduction to be required under the wheat plan now being laid before farmers in the four American wheat growing areas will not exceed 20 per cent. Wallace has indicated it will be substantially lower, probably 10 per cent, in case no international agreement is reached to assure a production curb by other countries. He has indicated this country's willingness to cut acreage more than other countries if an agreement is signed.

Postponement of the decision was accompanied by a statement from the department, saying:

"In view of possibilities that an international agreement may yet be reached for curtailment of wheat production, and in further consideration of the bearing such an agreement would have upon the United States' plan for acreage reduction for next year's crop, Secretary Wallace announced himself willing to postpone from Thursday until Friday or Saturday the department's decision on the percentage cut to be asked of farmers."

WORLD PARLEY PROGRESSES

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The world wheat parley made considerable progress today. This morning the advisory and technical committees completed their reports and the full conference gathered this afternoon and approved them.

The technical committee's findings were chiefly notable in that gold was accepted as the standard of wheat prices and for its observations on paragraph three of the draft agreement. This binds the importers to lower tariffs when the international price has risen to a certain height and remained there for a fixed time.

On the basis of this report it is agreed that the "international wheat price" should be understood to mean the duty free gold price c. i. f. [free of cost, insurance, and freight charges] on the world market. This would be calculated according to the methods followed by the food research institute at Stanford university of California. This is an average of all parcels of imported wheat of all grades sold during each week in all ports of Great Britain.

Plan London Headquarters.

This price remains to be fixed, but the importers won a round when the conference agreed that it should be maintained for four months, instead of two, before they reduce barriers.

The advisory committee constructed a temporary world wheat headquarters in London. It will advise on conference decisions, but cannot regulate production or marketing. It will act in close coöperation with the economic committee of the league of nations and the international institute of agriculture at Rome.

The chief exporters—United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina—as well as Russia, will be separately represented and the Danubian states will have two representatives of their own. In addition, there will be an equal number of representatives drawn from exporting and importing countries. It will elect its own chairman and has power to increase its membership and meet where it likes.

Importers Meet Today.

The importers are meeting tomorrow to name their representatives on this committee and then the hard push begins. The conference has to decide what the international price of wheat will be, hear the reports of all delegates on the draft agreement, and finally determine, if possible, how soon after the international price has been reached and maintained the tariffs must be reduced by importers.

Grains Stage Early Upturn, Then Relapse

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain markets again gave a demonstration of strength in the early trading yesterday. Wheat moved up 1⅞ to 2½ cents over the finish of the previous day at the extreme, the May delivery selling at 97⅞ cents. Scattered buying disclosed a lack of pressure, but later there was fairly general selling on weakness in Winnipeg and the market reacted toward the last, closing unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. September was 88⅝ to 88½ cents, December 91⅝ to 91¾ cents, and May 95⅝ to 95¾ cents.

A report from Ottawa to the effect that wheat pools and private grain interests in Canada were appealing to the dominion government for financial assistance through guaranty to the banks was responsible for the Canadian decline.

Winnipeg wheat closed 1 to 1⅛ cents lower in Canadian funds, the October delivery being 70⅝ cents, or only ½ cent above the "pegged" price in that market.

Canadian Growers Ask Aid.

The appeal for Canadian government assistance was said to be based on the necessity of taking care of the carryover of 251,000,000 bushels of old wheat, and at the same time providing for orderly marketing of the new crop. Failing such assistance, it was claimed wheat would have to be marketed in quantities that would seriously depress prices. The dominion government was said to be awaiting the result of the London wheat conference before making a decision.

While the movement of wheat to terminal markets in the United States has fallen off sharply, especially in the winter grain area, the after harvest movement is just getting under way in the Canadian prairie provinces.

Spreading operations in the way of buying September and selling December and May wheat furnished part of the trade here yesterday, and there was also buying by mills, presumably against sales of flour.

Corn Sags After Advance.

Failure of new buying to follow an early advance in corn resulted in scattered liquidation developing in the September delivery shortly before the close, and the upturn was quickly lost. Net losses of ¼ to ⅛ cent was shown at the last, with September at 51⅜ to 51⅞ cents and December 56⅝ to 56¾ cents at the close. Oats were ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, with December finishing at 40½ cents.

Rye is attracting much attention from traders, owing to the shortage in the crop, the official estimate on the yield of 23,500,000 bushels being around 8,000,000 bushels less than average annual domestic requirements. Net gains of ⅞ to 1⅛ cents were recorded for the day. September rye closed at 72 cents and December at 77⅝ cents, showing at the top around 8 to 10 cents above the low on Monday.

More interest is being taken in the barley market, which showed a firm undertone. The close was ½ to 1½ cents higher, with the December closing at 57½ cents and May at 62½ cents.

RATES REDUCED ON ACCEPTANCES OF LONGER TERM

Rates on the two longer term bankers' acceptances were reduced by ⅛ of 1 per cent yesterday. Bills of 60 to 90 days remain unchanged at ½ of 1 per cent bid, ⅝ of 1 per cent asked. The 120 bills now are quoted at ¾ of 1 per cent bid and ⅞ of 1 per cent asked, while the 5 to 6 months bills are quoted at 1 per cent bid and ⅞ of 1 per cent asked.

Prime bankers' acceptances, which are among the most important types of commercial paper, are quoted on a discount basis. Yesterday's change in rate was the first since July 12.

La Salle street houses handling this form of paper stated that the reduction in rate is due to the fact that there is a good demand for acceptances, with few available on the market. The banks, with limited outlets for their funds, are retaining their own bills.

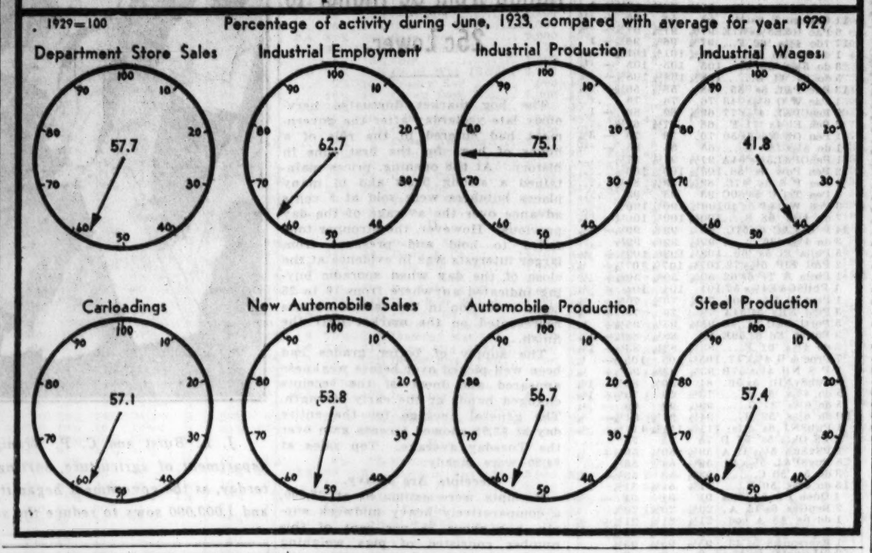
The Stage of Business at Midyear Compared with 1929



U. S. GAINS $6,000,000 IN GOLD BY REMOVAL FROM UNDER EARMARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—More than $6,000,000 of gold previously earmarked for hoarding purposes was restored to the monetary gold stocks of the country today, following a ruling by the treasury refusing the owner of the gold an export license.

The incident was disclosed in the daily gold report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which showed a release of $14,583,100 gold from earmark and an export of $8,333,800 gold to France. The difference between the two items, $6,249,300, was a gain to the country's gold stocks, the largest gain since the gold embargo was established.

The circumstances surrounding the surrender of this gold were not revealed. Apparently, it was said, the metal had been earmarked by some commercial or private bank for the account of a correspondent, most likely a foreign correspondent, some time before the United States went off the gold standard. At the time of the earmarking the gold was deducted from the monetary gold stocks, since the presumption was that it would ultimately be exported.

GROUP FORMED TO OPPOSE PLAN OF ARMOUR & CO.

Formation of a "stockholders' advisory committee" for Armour & Co. of Illinois was announced last night. The committee is headed by M. A. Borders, former director of Armour & Co. of Kansas City, and includes William M. Butler, former United States senator from Massachusetts, Charles Wetmore of Warren & Wetmore, architects of New York City, Ralph M. Shaw of Winston, Strawn & Shaw of Chicago, and Alexander Berger of Howison, Va. William Leary is secretary of the committee and Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin are counsel.

The committee charges that the company has not accurately or fully advised stockholders of their rights under the proposed reorganization plan. Mr. Leary said tonight that under the plan, preferred stockholders will lose their preferred lien on the assets and all interest in the $10,000,000 of accumulated back dividends. The A and B common stockholders, he asserted, would lose voting control. The committee will ask stockholders for proxies to be voted at the meeting scheduled for Sept. 1.

New York Telephone Net in July Well Over Last Year

New York, Aug. 23.—The New York Telephone company reports July net operating income of $2,931,206, compared with $2,089,728 in the same month of 1932.

Am. National Leases Bank on La Salle St.

BY AL CHASE.

The American National Bank and Trust company, now in the Straus building, at Michigan and Jackson, leased the former banking quarters of the Foreman-State National bank, at 33 North La Salle street, for twenty years, with a renewal option for ten years. It will move across the loop from the boulevard to La Salle street about Dec. 1. Meanwhile the structure will be extensively remodeled and rechristened the American National Bank building.

All of the 45,000 square feet of space to be used by the new tenant, comprising the bank, mezzanine, fourth, and fifth floors, is to be cooled in summer and warmed in winter by an air conditioning system.

Change Stairs in Lobby.

Much is to be done in the way of alterations. The main stairway, now leading from the lobby to the banking floor, is to be changed so that instead of having to make a left hand turn depositors can walk directly in from La Salle street and up a new east and west flight leading directly to the main floor.

It has been suggested that an escalator be installed. If that is done, it will be the second bank in this country to have a moving stairway, the first being a bank in Battle Creek. Weary & Alford are architects for the bank and Holabird & Root for the building corporation.

Remodel Banking Space.

The former banking space on the first floor of the building is to be remodeled into shops opening on both Washington and La Salle streets and also on an east and west arcade connecting La Salle street with the new Washington arcade to be built between the Conway and the Foreman buildings.

Weymouth Kirkland of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, attorneys, represented the bank and Edward C. Kohlsaat of D'Ancona, Pflaum & Kohlsaat the lessor. The George S. Lurie company was broker.

PLAN TO REOPEN DISTILLERY IN PEORIA ON JAN. 1

Plans to put the Atlas distillery, Peoria, Ill., into operation by Jan. 1 were announced yesterday by directors of Allied Mills, Inc., following the annual meeting. The formation of a new corporation for the purpose is under consideration, but no action has been taken yet, they said.

The distillery would manufacture alcohol, whisky, gin, and other grain products, and is intended to have a capacity of 5,000 bushels of grain per day, H. J. Buist, secretary-general, said.

N. Y. EXCHANGE MAY GIVE STOCK SELLERS TWO DAYS TO DELIVER

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Consideration of plans to extend delivery periods from the present approximate 24 hours to two days, in order to lessen the burden on brokerage house organizations in active markets, was announced today by the governing committee of the New York stock exchange. Formal action will be taken on the plans at a special meeting Aug. 30.

The exchange, it was said, for a number of years has been discussing the advisability of adopting a measure for second day deliveries with the idea of obviating "much of the night work which is the principal cause of fatigue in members' offices." Owing to the business rush in 1929, and recently, the exchange was forced to shorten trading hours and even close for one or more business days.

The change in delivery periods would give securities which are being shipped from out of two an extra day in which to reach New York before delivery must be made, this reducing the number of failures to deliver. It would also eliminate many disputes, it was pointed out, which arise now as to whether the customer or the broker shall pay interest on transactions which fail of delivery because the securities have not been received in time. Stocks would sell ex dividend one delivery earlier than at present.

SALES OF LOOP STORES UP TO 60% OVER LAST YEAR

Retail department store sales in the loop have maintained the same high volume as in recent weeks and gains in comparison with sales during August, 1932, are running as large as 60 per cent, according to the weekly review of business conditions in the Chicago district by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Holiday items which were manufactured in advance of textile code and other cost considerations, have sold freely. A large number of buyers have been in the local wholesale field, according to the review.

Today, investing is a job—

Today, you can't buy securities to "put away". Things are happening too fast. Inflation is threatening. Industry is being revolutionized. The old line that separated investments from speculation is becoming more indistinct. Today investing is a job . . . a job of constantly watching and interpreting significant developments . . . a job far too big for any one man to handle . . . a job that Moody's Personal Management Service is doing to the complete satisfaction of many conservative institutional and individual investors.

How this Service can help you

This service offers a critical analysis of each of your securities, and your portfolio as an investment unit . . . Definite recommendations on what and when to buy, sell or hold. . . STOCKS START WITH RUSH BUT END IN SLUMP Majority Show Loss; Trading Expands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—After an early display of broad strength the stock market wound up looking rather fuzzy around the edges today. Forenoon gains for the most part were displaced with net losses running from fractions to two or more points.

The turnover was the heaviest in weeks, mounting to around 2,583,000 shares.

Early buying was attributed to the inflationary interpretation placed on overnight dispatches regarding the move of Gen. Johnson, a big chief of the NRA drive, for further credit expansions as a means of speeding up the recovery program. Some speculators guessed that something of this sort was brewing yesterday afternoon and started a rush to buy which gave prices a sharp uptilt in the late dealings on the exchange.

Market Starts Strong.

The impression became a community affair this morning and for the first hour bids came out in such size and volume as to make it look as though something was really doing on the bull side of the camp. A number of trading favorites were boosted to new highs for the movement.

Weakness in the dollar on the foreign exchange heightened the "inflationary" zeal and a sag in wheat, which came coincidentally, was ignored.

Around the turn of the day, however, the pace began to slow up and by midafternoon a selling movement was in full cry. Brokers said the offerings represented a general move to take trading profits. Offerings became quite pronounced in some sections of the list.

The selling subsided somewhat in the last hour but closing prices in the majority of cases were around the lows of the day.

Railroad and automobile shares were the outstanding features of the list while the going was good. Activity in Chrysler and General Motors was particularly heavy and the fraternity heard that pools were doing some tall heaving in both stocks.

New York Central Leads Rails.

Reports from the automotive and steel centers that automobile sales have been looking up sharply all over the map lately, just at the season when the manufacturers were looking for a letdown, served to stimulate buying in this share group.

New York Central led the forenoon upturn in the rails group, rising about two points on a sharp gain in the car loadings. The issue bore up well under the realizing which overtook it when the market tide turned and was one of the few pivotals to hold to the plus side of the column. Atchison sold off nearly 3 points from its early high and Union Pacific and other favorites of the group had their troubles.

Liquor shares held within a comparatively narrow range but the close found the group a point or two below the previous close. Some of the utilities dropped sharply on a light turnover. Detroit Edison lost nearly six points on a single transaction and Laclede Gas gave up nine. United corporation, Consolidated Gas, and other favorites were under some pressure.

Power Output Widens Gain Over Year Ago

Electricity output for the nation in the week ended Aug. 19 edged up to 15.2 per cent over output in the parallel period of 1932, in comparison with 15 per cent for the week ended Aug. 12, reports the Edison Electric institute. The gain was numbered as the sixteenth consecutive one by the institute.

The aggregate output amounted to 1,650,205,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,627,339,000 for the week ended Aug. 12 and with 1,431,910,000 for the corresponding week of 1932. The output for the week ended Aug. 12 and that for the week ended Aug. 5 had shown decreases from output of the preceding weeks.

Chicago Spread Narrows.

The electric power production for the Chicago district, on the other hand, showed an increase of 14.6 per cent over output in the corresponding week of 1932, in comparison with 16.7 per cent for the preceding week. The total for the district was 95,945,000 kilowatt hours, against 83,703,000 in the like week of 1932 and 96,905,000 in the preceding week.

"This week's output continues to hold the improvement of recent weeks when consideration is given to the brighter and cooler weather this week compared with earlier weeks," says the announcement of the Commonwealth Edison company.

Chicago District Comparisons.

Following are the output in kilowatt hours and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district:

Week ended—	1933.	1932.	Per cent increase.
Aug. 19	95,945,000	83,703,000	14.6
Aug. 12	96,905,000	83,008,000	16.7
Aug. 5	97,056,000	83,354,000	17.2

Two of the major territorial divisions, the southern states and the Pacific coast, were most responsible for the improvements, the first with a gain of 18.1 per cent over output in the like week of 1932, against 17.4 in the week before, and the second with a gain of 9.3, against 6.8 per cent.

DOLLAR DROPS NEARLY A CENT TO 72.55 IN GOLD

The dollar weakened in foreign exchange transactions again yesterday, presumably on the renewal of inflation talk. Weakness developed in London and continental markets as soon as trading opened and continued throughout the European trading and later in the American market after the European exchanges had closed.

At the close in New York yesterday afternoon the dollar was worth 72.55 cents in terms of French gold, compared with 73.37 cents at Tuesday's close and 73.20 cents Monday.

In London when trading began the pound was being quoted at $4.49¾ cents, Tuesday's final quotation, and gained ¼ cent in the first hour. The pound advanced to $4.51⅛ early in the afternoon and then rapidly rose to $4.54.

In New York the pound closed at approximately the same as in London. French francs advanced .06 of a cent to 5.40 cents. Canadian dollars gained about ¼ cent.

Grandson of Elbert Gary Sells Winnetka Residence

Elbert Gary Sutcliffe, grandson of the late Elbert Gary, steel magnate, yesterday sold his residence at 614 Pine lane, Winnetka, to Hill Blackett of Blackett-Sample-Hummert, Inc., advertising. Mr. Sutcliffe now lives in Louisville. Frederick Thomas was broker. Montgomery, Hart, Pritchard & Herriott were attorneys.

CODE FOR STEEL CLEARS DOUBTS; UPTURN IS SEEN

Seasonal Sag Brings Output to 50%.

Adoption of the code for the iron and steel industry, though taking effect experimentally for only ninety days, has removed some of the uncertainty impeding transactions in recent weeks, according to the Iron Age. The codification will encourage the work of lining up under the NRA program other branches of the metal working industry, observes the journal.

The Daily Metal Trade declares that with the steel code out of the way consumers of finished steel, who have been reluctant to make commitments, may be expected to return to the market. It surmises, in addition, that the seasonal letdown in specifying will be short lived.

Output Recedes Again.

Over the country steel production has declined to 50 from 53 per cent of capacity, reports the Iron Age. The rate at Pittsburgh has descended from 45 to 40 per cent; in eastern Pennsylvania from 45 to 44 per cent; in the Cleveland-Lorain district from 65 to 63, and in the valley from 60 to 55.

Codification has made the trend of prices plainer.

"While it is by no means certain that quotations for fourth quarter will be advanced on all products, the stabilization of present market levels seems assured since concessions from published prices are now outlawed," observes the Iron Age. "Already there are evidences of anticipatory buying as consumers hasten to take advantage of preferential quotations that are still outstanding."

Price Situation Complicated.

There are two especial complications in the price situation which the Iron Age mentions. First, the automobile companies are hostile to the single price provision of the new code, according to the journal, and for a time they may rebel against quotations under the code. In the second place the necessity of filing prices before a code for the coal industry is adopted offers particularly serious problems to the steel producers.

"While, for the time being, the fuel market is easier on the surface," adds the Iron Age, "underneath remains a degree of labor unsettlement which may not subside even with codification."

Steel bookings from the automobile industry, reports the journal, have reflected an unexpected rebound in retail sales. Automotive manufacturers have given steel mills fill-in orders and postponed "changeovers to new models."

Expect Railroad Buying.

The Iron Age hopefully remarks that "railroad buying, which has been long dormant, may be given a sharp stimulus this fall by R. F. C. loans." Better demand from agricultural areas also is expected despite smaller grain crops.

The decline in heavy smelting steel at Pittsburgh has reduced the scrap composite from $12.08 to $12 per ton. The finished steel and pig iron composites are unchanged pending the filing of code prices.

EASTERN ROADS HOLD GAINS IN FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Three Big Carriers Report for Last Week.

Freight traffic on the large eastern railroads continues to hold the gains which have developed over last year. The New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Baltimore and Ohio reported substantial increases for the week of Aug. 19 over the corresponding week in 1932.

Cars handled by the New York Central last week totaled 105,886, compared with 100,439 in the preceding week and with 78,581 in the same week a year ago.

The Pennsylvania handled 98,342 cars, compared with 74,056 a year ago and with 100,087 in the preceding week of this year.

The Baltimore and Ohio reported that it handled 30,404 cars, compared with 23,524 in the like week of 1932 and with 30,744 cars in the preceding week of this year.

Other Lines Show Gains.

Missouri Pacific loadings totaled 20,442 cars last week, compared with 19,933 in the preceding week and with 17,358 in the like week of 1932. Missouri, Kansas and Texas loadings totaled 6,701 cars, compared with 6,335 in the preceding week and with 6,404 in the like week of 1932.

The bureau of railroad economics reported yesterday that the volume of freight traffic handled by the class 1 roads in June, measured in net ton miles, showed an increase of 27 per cent over the same month last year. Freight traffic handled in June totaled 23,712,435,000 net ton miles, compared with 18,673,341,000 net ton miles in June, 1932, an increase of 5,039,094,000 net ton miles.

The increase in the eastern district in June was 29.5 per cent over the June, 1932, volume, while the southern district reported an increase of 27.2 per cent and the western district an increase of 23.4 per cent.

Small Decline for Seven Months.

For the first seven months of this year the volume handled was 3.3 per cent under that of the corresponding period of last year.

Among the roads reporting yesterday on their July net operating incomes was the Chicago, Great Western. This road's net was $285,498, compared with $256,492 in June and with an operating deficit of $91,884 in July, 1932. It was reported that the road had a profit of around $135,000 for July after bond interest.

Net operating income of the St. Louis-San Francisco in July was $365,304, compared with $180,677 in July, 1932.

The Lehigh Valley had an operating income of $537,482 in July, compared with an operating deficit of $196,047 a year ago.

The Erie system reported a profit for July of $636,163, after all charges, compared with a profit of $494,826 in June and a deficit of $706,045 in July, last year.

Total revenue of the Soo Line railroad for the month of July, 1933, was $2,129,194.88, as compared with $1,819,635.47 in July a year ago, according to a condensed income statement of the railroad made public yesterday. The month showed a net deficit of $370,566.69, as compared with a net deficit of $881,649.23 in July, 1932.

Preliminary reports on freight car loadings for last week indicate a national total of approximately 630,000 cars, a rise of about 21 per cent over 1932. In the week ended Aug. 12 traffic totaled 622,759 cars.

EASTERN ROADS REVAMP WORK OF CO-ORDINATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—The coördinating committee for the railroads in the east appointed three committees today to assume the duties heretofore carried out by the general committee for the eastern railroads, whereupon it was announced that the general committee would be dissolved. This action was taken in conformity with a request by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator.

The coördinating committee was formed under the terms of the new railroad law, and, as such, its activities were controlled by the provisions of the law relating to the protection of labor. The general committee, which succeeded another body known as the committee on preventable wastes for the eastern railroads, was formed soon after organization of the coördinating committee, and was not subject to these provisions of law.

Both the coördinating and general committees had their purpose the reduction of competitive wastes. Mr. Eastman had indicated disapproval of this duplication of functions.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm and unchanged today at 3.56c for spots. No sales were reported and aside from a small quantity of Philippines for September arrival, for which 3.60c was asked, nothing was firmly offered. Local refiners were said to be interested at 3.50c in specified positions, but outport refiners would pay the last sale price or 3.56c. Futures were firmer on covering and heavy buying by houses with Cuban connections, although full advances were not maintained, with the market closing 1 to 4 points net higher. Sales including exchanges of 14,100 tons amounted to 54,000 tons. In the late afternoon considerable realizing developed and part of the early upturn was lost with final prices 2 to 3 points off from the best. Prices follow:

	Open	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	1.43	1.48	1.43	1.44	1.43
December	1.53	1.57	1.53	1.54	1.53

May	1.70	1.73	1.69	1.71	1.67
July	1.75	1.79	1.75	1.76	1.73

There was no change in the refined situation, although second hands were steadier owing to the firmness of the raw market. Prices were quoted at 4.70c for fine granulated by refiners, with second hands held at from 4.50@4.55c.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Coffee was slightly higher today on outside buying, believed to be covering in advance of first September notice day on Friday. Santos opened unchanged and closed 1 point lower to 4 higher. Sales, 9,000 bags; No. 7 opened 2 to 8 points lower and closed 1 to 7 points higher; sales, 14,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos, September, 7.97c; December, 8.20c; March, 8.40c; May, 8.48c; July, 8.54c. Rio prices follow:

SECURITY LAW BARS INDUSTRIES FROM EXPANDING

Firms Cite Difficulty in Raising Capital.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Specific cases where the new federal securities act is working hardships on companies faced with the necessity of raising capital are being discussed in La Salle street.

One of the chief objections to the law raised by its critics is that it makes a well-nigh impossible for companies to issue securities and for underwriting houses to handle them. Without being able to secure new capital, the activities of many companies may be severely curtailed, thus working against the plans of the Washington administration to provide more jobs and work.

Case of Utility Cited.

One case cited yesterday was that of an eastern utility company. This organization was described as an operating company with an excellent earnings ratio. Its bonds, now selling in the 90's, were handled by an investment house of good reputation. Despite the depression the company has been able to show a good financial statement.

The company met its financial needs by borrowing from its bank, issuing mortgages when the loans reached such size as to make this action warranted. The extent to which the company could issue mortgages was limited.

Now the bank is asking the utility company to repay its loans, which must be done out of earnings. Under present conditions this will prevent the company from undertaking any capital improvements, such as might have provided many jobs, because the officials of the company hesitate to issue bonds under the strict provisions of the securities act.

Financing Turned Down.

Another case discussed was that of a small industry manufacturing glass products. Business with the company has been good. The officials saw better days ahead and desired to increase their manufacturing facilities. To do this they needed to raise more capital.

The president of the concern wrote to an investment house with which he had done business before and asked if the house would handle an issue of preferred stock. The investment house thanked the company president for the proposed offer and wrote back that because of the obstacles put in the way by the securities act, it would be unable to market the proposed issue.

Asked if it could suggest any other firm that might handle such an issue the investment house answered that it knew of no reputable house that would undertake it.

Utilities Are Handicapped.

An official of one La Salle street investment house pointed out yesterday that a number of high grade utility companies will be among the hardest hit concerns by the securities act. Because of the depressed state of the bond market, these companies have been raising capital to buy new generators, enlarge power houses, and to undertake other capital investments by issuing "open end" mortgages. These mortgages were issued as the need for capital investments arose.

Banks in the past handed cash to the utilities, taking the mortgages as collateral. Bond issues were amply secured, it was stated, and provided an easy way to raise required funds.

The securities act will stop this practice because the "open end" mortgage bonds will have to be approved by the federal trade commission under its provisions the same as any other security, according to the investment house official. He added that this will hold up improvements planned by a number of well known utility companies.

U. S. JOINS QUIZ ON CLEVELAND BANK COLLAPSE

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The federal government today joined the state in investigating the collapse last spring of two of Cleveland's three largest banks.

United States District Attorney Emerich B. Freed was informed by Attorney General Cummings a "thorough investigation" would be made of the closings of the Union and Guardian Trust companies. A state senate committee already has sought to determine why the banks, with deposits of more than $200,000,000, failed to reopen after the March banking holiday. The investigation, Freed said, will attempt to determine if federal laws were violated.

At the same time, Freed reserved decision on a request for a federal inquiry into the closing of the First-Central Trust company of Akron.

PROPOSE TO SPLIT PIERCE-ARROW AND STUDEBAKER

Seek Stockholders' O. K. on Share Exchange.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—A plan for recapitalization of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company and its segregation from the Studebaker corporation has been prepared and the approval of a majority of the stockholders has been sought, according to a report circulated in the financial district today.

Under the plan there will be an exchange of existing outstanding stock and notes on this basis.

Exchange Stock for Notes.

For the $2,000,000 6 per cent gold notes issued to the Studebaker corporation 240,000 shares of new capital stock will be exchanged; 3.2 shares of the new stock will be offered for each share of existing 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, one share of the new stock will be exchanged for ten shares of class A stock, and one share of the new stock will be exchanged for twenty-five shares of the class B existing stock.

The new authorized capital of the company is to be 750,000 shares of $5 par value, it is said, which will be issued for the existing classes of stock, and 496,450 shares will be issued for the cancellation of notes.

Cancel Accounts Due.

It was also said that open accounts due to the Studebaker corporation, aggregating $108,187, will be canceled under the plan.

The Studebaker corporation, now in the hands of receivers, owns all of the Pierce-Arrow B stock and 23,500 shares of Pierce preferred, along with 152,214 shares of the class A stock. Accumulations of dividends on the preferred shares June 1 totaled $7.50 a share.

Insurance Lawyers Begin Three Day Session Today

One of the largest insurance gatherings of the year will open today when 500 insurance lawyers from the United States and Canada begin a three day convention of the International Association of Insurance Counsel at the Stevens hotel.

C. & O. Delayed Dividend Meetings Set for Aug. 29

CHEESE BOARD NAMED TO FIX MARKET PRICES

More than one hundred leaders in the nation's cheese industry yesterday agreed to the formation of a price fixing commission which is intended to supplant the farmers' call board and the Plymouth Cheese exchange at Plymouth, Wis., where cheese prices have been set for many years for the wholesale trade.

According to W. F. Hubert, Plymouth, Wis., the new commission will consist of three farmer producers, three assemblers and a seventh man not of the cheese industry and who will not vote in the daily price listings except in a tie vote among the other six members.

The industry's leaders announced that another meeting would be held today during which it is expected a code will be drawn up and signed for submission to Washington.

DENY CALDWELL COMPLETES HUGE TOBACCO SALE

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Denial that the deal by which Rogers Caldwell of Nashville, Tenn., was reported to have purchased approximately 40,000,000 pounds of dark fired tobacco had been completed, so far as the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers' association is concerned, was issued today by S. T. Howard, secretary.

The Paducah Sun-Democrat said today the deal had not been completed for either the Eastern or Western dark fired cooperatives; that each was insisting on selling only for cash, and that Caldwell had so far been unable to raise the necessary cash, about $3,750,000.

The deal was called the second largest sale of tobacco in history.

Chicago Board Puts Cotton Trading Hours on Old Basis

Hours of trading on Saturdays was announced yesterday in the cotton market on the Chicago Board of Trade. The market will be open between 9 a. m. and noon, restoring the hours which prevailed previously. This will result in the local market's keeping open one hour after the New York and New Orleans markets close on Saturday. No change was made in the schedule for other days.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—Business continued spotty in the Boston wool market, but demand appeared broader and prices remained very firm. Territory wools of about all descriptions were selling in small lots, but more freely. Fleece wools of fine and medium staple found a fairly ready market. Ohio delaine and similar fine combing wool sold as high as 33c per lb in the grease for choice varieties, with average wool bringing 32c. Half-blood was steady at 32@33c, ⅝ at 36@37c, and ½ blood at 35@37c.

The U. S. agricultural department said: "Moderately increased activity in grade lines of territory wools includes sales on all grades from fine to ¼ blood. French combing 64s and finer and strictly combing 58s, 60s territory wools bring 75@77c scoured basis. Strictly combing 56s ⅜ blood territory wools are strong at 70@73c scoured basis, and strictly combing 48s, 50s ¼ blood wools are very firm at 65@67c.

The following quotations are on grease basis for Ohio and similar wool [cents]:

	Wednesday.	Year ago.
64s, 70s, 80s [fine strict combings]	30@32	15½@16½
64s, 70s, 80s [fine clothing]	24@25	12 @13
58s, 60s [⅜ blood strictly combing]	32@33	15½@16

SOLUTION TO THE MISSING WATCH

Joan said Morton dropped on the sand in the position in which he was found [lying flat on his back]. Death was instantaneous. It was a calm evening yet Prof. Fordney brushed sand from the man's vest. That was his clew. He knew the body had been disturbed after death, otherwise there could have been no sand on the front of the body.

THERE ARE IN WOMAN'S EYES TWO SORTS OF TEARS—THE ONE OF GRIEF, THE OTHER OF DECEIT.
—Pythagoras.
